70 Bowlers In Charity Tourney

BY SYD COHEN

Seventy members of seven bowling leagues whose columns appear regularly in the sport section of this newspaper will compete Sunday afternoon in the first of what is planned to be an annual series of mid-season matches for charity.

The tournament will be held at the Casino Alleys on Pine Street, starting at 2:30 P. M.

Participants will include the top ten men listed in the current averages of each of these seven bowling leagues: Temple Emanuel, Temple Beth Israel, Temple Beth El, Cranston Jewish Community Club, Providence Fraternal Association, Fineman-Trinkel Post 439, Jewish War Veterans, and A E Pi Fraternity.

Unlike other bowling tournaments sponsored by the Herald in the Spring, this match will be decided by total pinfall. Points will not be awarded for each of the three strings that are rolled. The league whose ten men have outscored the others on a cumulative basis will be the winner.

Each league will present two teams of five men each, the top five constituting the A squad, the other five the B team. Thus, 70 men in all will take part in the charity affair.

The system to be used, and in fact, the tournament itself, have been adopted from the Temple Emanuel-Cranston match held last Sunday in Cranston. This tourney, created and sponsored by the Cranston Jewish Community Club Bowling League, raised funds from bowlers and spectators for the March of Dimes campaign.

In similar fashion, each of the 70 bowlers in the Feb. 3 match will contribute one dollar—and spectators also will be permitted to contribute—to the Heart Fund, which is expected to conduct its annual drive shortly. There will be ample room for on-lookers, since the match will be held in the more private upstairs section.

The idea for this match, presented in the Herald only a week ago, was received enthusiastically by all seven leagues. Within a few days, all arrangements had been completed by Sherman Price, who originated the idea for the seven league affair.

B. I. G. Day Sunday, March 9

B.I.G. Day comes to Providence—as it will to the rest of the nation—on Sunday, March 9.

B.I.G. represents Bonds of the Israel Government, and all Jewish organizations in the Providence area are expected to lend willing hands.

The first planning meeting for B.I.G. Day has been set for next Tuesday evening at 8:30 at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel and according to Benjamin R. Albert, chairman of the Providence B.I.G. Committee, representation is expected from the entire community.

B.I.G. Day will be a one-day campaign to obtain Israel Bond subscriptions from every Jewish family in Providence. Scores of volunteer workers will go from door to door to enlist their neighbors in the nation-wide mobilization of American capital for Israel's industrial and agricultural development.

BLAUSTEIN RE-ELECTED

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—A fourth term as president of the American Jewish Committee this week awaited Jacob Blaustein, Baltimore oil tycoon.

Albert Accepts Chairmanship of Local Bonds For Israel Committee

Benjamin R. Albert of 92 Laurel Avenue has accepted the chairmanship of the Providence Committee for the sale of Bonds of the Israel Government, it was announced today.

Albert, who has been acting chairman, has been a leading figure in state-wide efforts to help float the $500,000,000 loan for the new Middle East democracy. A native of Springfield, Mass., he came to Providence several years ago and is president of Mascon of R. I., Inc., a television distributor firm.

Continuing as co-chairmen of the committee will be Saul Abrams, Dr. Ilie Berger, Jacob Shore and Walter I. Sundlun. Mr. Albert has been no less active in Providence than he was in his native Springfield where he was the youngest president of the Probus Club.

While in Springfield, he was also president of the Jewish Credit Union and a member of the City of Homes Association.

Here in Providence he is a member of Temple Emanuel, and a member of B'nai B'rith, Redwood Lodge Masonic Order, Aurora Civic Association, and of Ledge-mont Country Club. Albert, who has also taken a keen interest in Boys' Clubs and other efforts to forestall juvenile delinquency, was chairman of the "D-Day" drive during the 1950 General Jewish Committee campaign.

Zionists Lay Plans To Broaden Education, Public Relations Scope

NEW YORK CITY (AJP)—A new broadening of functions for the American Zionist Council in the field of education and public relations loomed this week following a private conference at which leaders of Zionist parties within the executive of the Jewish Agency discussed the present status of the movement on the American scene.

Meeting informally at a mid-town hotel here Sunday evening, conferees discussed means of strengthening the position of Zionist groups in the U. S. A. broadening of functions was aired and it was expected that definite steps in the direction of increased and new educational activity coupled with other phases of action would be taken shortly.

The failure of the Revisionist-Zionist organization to receive an invitation to the meeting along with other Zionist bodies stirred comment. Spokesmen for the Jewish Agency, however, said the Revisionists were not invited because they do not hold membership in the executive of the Jewish Agency.

The group was flayed by the American Zionist Council, in which they still hold membership, because of the insertion of a public ad flaying the Israel Government as "a police state."

Ouster Of Chicago Israel Bond Head Labeled "Disgrace"

CHICAGO (AJP)—The replacement of a noted Jewish figure here as chairman of the executive committee for the sale of Israel Bonds stirred a rumpus here this week with one critic labeling the ouster "a disgrace."

Rabbi George Fox said he was "amazed" that Max Bressler was stripped of the Israel Bonds post and maintained that "no man has worked harder or more diligently" in behalf of the $500,000,000 campaign.

"And if he has been shoved," the rabbi-columnist wrote in the Jewish Sentinel here, "it is a disgrace, not to him, but to those who maneuvered it."

Auxiliary Walks Out Of "Patriotic" Confab

WASHINGTON (AJP)—Led by delegates from the National Auxiliary of the Jewish War Veterans of the U. S., representatives of a host of women's veterans auxiliaries this week withdrew from the stormy Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense, a 26-year-old group which this year considered a resolution following the line of one of the nation's notorious bigots, Allen Zoll.

The Conference last year served as a platform for anti-Semitic leader Joseph Kamp who used the opportunity to attack the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

Mrs. Jessica Slatits of Chicago, national president of the JWV Auxiliary, charged that Conference procedures had "violated every accepted principle of representative government as we know it in the United States today."

Phil Baker To Feature Labor Zionist Program

Phil Baker, comedian and radio personality who made the phrase "The $64 Question" a part of the language, will headline a program sponsored by the Labor Zionist Council of Providence on Sunday evening, Feb. 24.

The event will be held at the Plantations Auditorium on Abbott Park place.

According to Alter Boyman, chairman of the Council, other top-level personalities will share the stage with Baker.

Making up the Labor Zionist Council are these organizations: Poale Zion, Farband Labor Zionist Order, Branch 41, Pioneer Women, Henry Burt Chapter—Poale Zion, and Ben Gurion Branch, Farband Labor Zionists.

An outstanding figure in the entertainment world for years, Phil Baker has won a warm place in the affections of the American people.

By the time his much-talked-of quiz show on radio, "Take It Or Leave It" was succeeded by the program called "The $64 Question," that phrase was turning up in everyday conversation, in newspaper headlines, and in speeches on the floor of the United States Senate.

Phil Baker's appearance in Providence will be in behalf of the State of Israel $500,000,000 Independence Bond Issue.

Young Jewish Wife's College Paper Tops

BOSTON (AJP)—A Jewish wife was cited here this week as the only woman at Tufts College Dental School turning in "the best original paper in histology" that the school's dean had seen in more than 25 years.

Cited for the outstanding paper in microscopic anatomy was attractive Mrs. Elihu Silverman. The commendation was offered by Dr. Anna Quincy Churchill, Professor of Anatomy at the school.

Key Figures at GJC Closing Celebration

Among the approximately 500 persons who heard the performance of Charles Castleman, youthful violinist, at the General Jewish Committee's Closing Celebration on Tuesday evening were these GJC leaders: left to right, Joseph W. Riss, 1951 campaign chairman; Henry Hassenfeld, who was named general campaign chairman for 1952; Alvin A. Sopkin, GJC president, and Milton Kahn of Boston, guest speaker. Story on Page 3.

Set Up Annual $25,000 Budget

In one of the most significant actions ever taken on the local community level, the Board of Directors of the General Jewish Committee of Providence last week gave sweeping endorsement to a resolution proposing establishment of a "Board of Jewish Education" endowed with broad powers and substantial financial support.

Contending that "Jewish education is a vital responsibility of the Jewish community of Providence," the far-reaching resolution provides for setting up an educational board or bureau, under a qualified professional director.

A sum, not to exceed $25,000, was voted by the GJC to carry out the bureau's objectives, which include "the promotion of an intelligent active interest and understanding among all ages and elements of the community of the meaning and importance of Jewish education."

Participating Committees
The survey, conducted under the direction of Dr. Uriah Z. Engelman of the American Association of Jewish Education, was headed by Joseph W. Riss, chairman of the GJC's planning committee composed of Max Berman, Alter Boyman, Benjamin Brier, Paul Chernov and Max Winograd. Prof. Israel J. Kapstein headed the sub-committee on program and curriculum; Winograd the committee on school population and facts, and State Senator Frank Licht the committee on personnel and financing.

Seventy-five community personalities—representing the GJC, Jewish schools, Jewish congregations and various other organizations—made up the overall survey committee that wrote the final 60-page report. Into its findings went countless hours of research, study, interviews, collation of statistics, discussion and writing.

As a guide for consideration by the GJC's board of directors, highlights of the study's findings and recommendations were compiled in a 13-page summary.

Excerpts from the report were included in a series of articles written by Charles W. Pine and published by the Herald last year.)
The Resolution
The implementing resolution adopted by the gathering reads in part: "Be it resolved that the Jewish community of Providence, through the medium of Jewish congregations and educational organizations of the city, with the active participation of professional and lay-leaders at large, and as an instrumentality of and with the moral and financial assistance of the General Jewish Committee create forthwith and maintain

Children's Page Postponed A Week

Because of delay in the arrival of a shipment of newsprint, the Herald has been forced to curtail this issue. As a result, the Children's Page previously announced for this week, has been omitted. The first edition of the Children's Page will appear next week.

Emanuel, JWV
Work On Bloodmobile

The Bloodmobile committee of Temple Emanuel, now well along in its plans for the Temple's Bloodmobile Day on Feb. 20, announced this week that 100 volunteer donors already have pledged to donate a pint of their blood. A minimum of 200 blood donors has been set as the committee's goal.

Members and friends of the Temple may pledge their contributions by contacting the three chairmen, Julius Zucker for the Temple; Howard Greene for the Men's Club, and Mrs. Jacob S. Temkin for the Sisterhood.

Meanwhile, the Jewish War Veterans of Rhode Island moved solidly into position behind the Red Cross blood drive that is already in progress throughout the country. The possibility of a separate Bloodmobile Day in April for the state-wide JWV affiliates was being discussed as posts and auxiliaries throughout this area began to marshal their forces.

The following appointments of blood chairmen have been announced by various Post and Auxiliary commanders, and presidents: William Boslovitz Post 23; Irving Ross, Fineman-Trinkle Post; Mrs. Morris Miller, Lt. Leonard Bloom Auxiliary.

An interesting section of the New Miriam Hospital will be the scientifically designed infant formula preparation center.

Featured in the afternoon's entertainment, will be George and Ruth Ross, TV and Vaudeville entertainers.

News of the camp reunion is of particular interest to parents and children in the Providence area, because of Mar-Lin's local following and kinship with the camp director who was formerly the director of activities at the Providence J.C.C. and the director of Camp Centerland. Campers and guests are also expected from Connecticut, Massachusetts, and New York. Prospective campers are welcome to attend.

Further information about the reunion may be had by writing to Mr. Browdy, 70 Dauntless Lane, Hartford 5, Conn.

GJC Establishes Education Board

(Continued from Page 1) effectively, by democratic means, a Providence Board of Jewish Education, under a qualified professional director, with due regard at all times to reasonable differences of opinions as to the ends of Jewish education and the means of their attainment, and with full respect for the autonomy of all institutions dedicated thereto, but with the aim of their constant and increasing self-improvement for the common welfare of the entire Jewish community."

The committee on school population and facts—noting that the Jewish educational system now consists of six elementary weekday afternoon schools, one all-day school and six Sunday schools—declared:

"Neither in administration nor in curriculum do the weekday schools join a unified and orderly school system. The schools together do not form a complete educational ladder, whose rungs children could ascend from kindergarten through high school."

Pupils Small In Number
Winograd's committee also noted that the proportion of students enrolled in the weekday afternoon schools of Providence is considerably smaller than that for the country as a whole. It declared that the almost total lack of children of high school age in any of the weekday schools and the very small (3.1 percent) number of pupils in the high school classes of the Sunday schools is "deplorable."

In this respect, the study observed: "It is precisely at the age when the child has become the adolescent and is capable of intellectually appreciating the uniqueness and the worthwhileness of the Jewish religion—and the sweep, splendor and tragedy of Jewish history—that he severs his relationship with the Jewish school and formal Jewish learning."

Critical of both the teaching personnel and practices of some of the schools, this sub-committee recommended adoption of a code of standards "based on a common minimum number of years, with regulations pertaining to maximum number of years, with regulations pertaining to maximum age of admission, annual promotions based on achievement, uniform school calendar, graded curricula and public promotions and graduations" to be worked out by the proposed supervisory bureau of education.

Prof. Kapstein's committee on curricula and standards of performance, noting similar criticisms of the present system, declared: "In several weekday afternoon schools, the programs are so meager that they have little claim to be termed curricular, organized or otherwise."

GJC Reports $640,434 Raised; Henry Hassenfeld '52 Chairman

A total of $640,434 was contributed by 8,193 individual donors to the 1951 fund-raising campaign of the General Jewish Committee of Providence, Inc., according to figures announced at the closing celebration, which formally ended the annual drive, Tuesday evening at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

An audience of approximately 500 persons heard GJC leaders estimate that last minute contributions will boost that figure to an even $650,000 or better.

The program was in the form of a salute to workers who participated in the campaign which is staged annually in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal and other agencies and organizations. It featured a repeat performance by Charles Castleman, 10-year-old violin prodigy, who has achieved national acclaim since he last appeared at a similar GJC affair in Providence two years ago.

The guest speaker at Tuesday's affair was Milton Kahn of Boston, a past president of the Association of Jewish Philanthropies of Boston, and at present a member of the national campaign cabinet of the UJA.

While most of the reports centered around the campaign just completed, two major appointments for the 1952 drive were announced.

Henry Hassenfeld, who headed the Initial Gifts portion of the 1951 effort, will assume the functions of general campaign chairman, succeeding Joseph W. Ress; while Mrs. Archie Fain was re-appointed to head the Women's Division.

Reports were given by Alvin A. Sopkin, GJC president, who officiated during the evening; Ress; Hassenfeld; Mrs. Fain; Alter Boyman; Leon Mann; Joseph Galkin, GJC executive director, and Archibald Silverman, honorary president.

Cantor Jacob Hohenemser led the gathering in the singing of the national anthem and Hatikvah, accompanied by Arthur Einstein. Sam Kart and his orchestra provided music for dancing following the conclusion of the program.

Penny Social at JCRS Meeting

A board meeting of the Rhode Island Ladies Auxiliary of the Jewish Consumptives' Relief Society was held at the home of Mrs. Ben Yaffe. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Serge and Mrs. Irving Morse. A penny social will feature the next meeting at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel on Feb. 5 at 1 P. M. Mrs. Marty Altman is chairman and Mrs. Jack Perler co-chairman.

List Program for Fathers, Sons Night

The first 300 boys who arrive at the Fathers and Sons Sport Nite program of Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 10 will receive, in addition to other prizes, a free ticket to a R. I. Reds hockey game, Ben Ruttenberg, chairman of the annual affair, announced this week.

That is only part of the payoff for the first 300 sons, nephews and friends of members of Roger Williams Lodge; for in addition to the hockey ticket, each boy will be given a pencil with a yo-yo attached, a knife and a package of candy.

This does not include the annual feature of the affair—the drawing for 200 major prizes, among which are a bicycle and a ping pong table.

Heading the entertainment program will be a panel of noted sports personalities, including pitchers Chet Nichols and Max Surkont of the Boston Braves and Clem Labine of the Brooklyn Dodgers; Jim Duffy and Hank Soar, American League umpires; George Araujo, contender for the lightweight championship of the world; Terry Reardon, coach of the Reds, and Warren Walden, who will act as moderator.

Traveling microphones will be set up among the boys, who may direct any questions they like to any member of the panel.

Manny Williams, magic-maker, will be back for a repeat performance, along with Sandy Staller and her talking dog Buttons, and Roger Ritchotti and Dick Goyette, guitar and banjo duo who have appeared on television.

The program will be held at Plantations Club Auditorium in downtown Providence, starting at 2:30 P. M. Admission is free to boys who are accompanied by members of Roger Williams Lodge.

Besides Ruttenberg, the arrangements committee includes Herman J. Feinstein, co-chairman; Bertram L. Bernhardt, Joseph Finkle, Syd Cohen, Joseph Stanzler, Coleman Zimmerman, Maurice Bazar, Burt Finberg, Abe Zexter, Dave Yanover, Jack Kauffman, Ben Albert, Sol Schiff.

RAISED DOUGH CHEESE KNISHES

- 1 package yeast (cake or dry)
- 1 1/4 cups lukewarm water
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 2 eggs
- 4 tablespoons melted butter
- 3 1/2 cups sifted flour

Cheese filling mixture below

Dissolve the yeast in lukewarm water and let stand while assembling the other ingredients. Add sugar and salt to the flour and sift together into a large mixing bowl. Beat eggs slightly and combine with the melted butter. Stir the dissolved yeast into the flour combination, starting in the center and adding the egg and butter mixture while stirring till a ball of dough is formed. Punch down and then knead till smooth and elastic. Return to the mixing bowl, dust with flour and cover with wax paper or a doubled towel and let stand at room temperature till it doubles into bulk, approximately 3 hours. Punch down again and knead on a lightly floured for about 3 minutes. Cut into pieces the size of a medium size apple or form into balls. Flatten with the hands or rolling pin to half inch thickness and place a teaspoon of the Cheese Filling in the center. Bring the edges together and shape into your favorite form, slightly elongated with the seam on top or bottom, or folded into half moons. Place these on a buttered cookie sheet several inches apart each way and let stand at room temperature for an hour or until doubled in bulk. Brush with evaporated milk, melted butter or diluted egg yolk and bake in a pre-heated oven at 350°F for 15 minutes or till nicely browned on bottom and golden brown on top.

Yields 24 to 30 knishes.

Your New Miriam Hospital is now in the final stages of construction. At the present time, the interior walls are being plastered, other finishing work is being done.

This good report of progress is possible only because of the many individuals and corporations that have contributed more than $900,000 to the hospital. With continued support the hospital will be completed according to schedule. As you read our financial statement on this page, you will see a most important figure — the amount of money required to complete the project — $152,000.

If you have been thinking of establishing a memorial for your loved ones — or making a direct gift to the hospital — please do so now. Your help at this particular time will be especially valuable. It will assure construction schedules will be maintained — it will mean that the hospital opening will not be delayed.

Remember, by establishing an enduring memorial, or by giving a direct gift, you become in fact one of "the builders of the hospital." There is no cause more worthy of your support. And — you give in extra measure when you give NOW, when help is needed most.

To Eddie Cantor

If Eddie Cantor's big eyes have been his stock in trade as an actor, his big heart has been the hallmark of his humanity. One of America's early pioneers in the history of theatre entertainment, he was also one of the first to set the example, long before it became fashionable for Hollywood and Broadway stars, in the voluntary dedication of talent to the furtherance of humanitarian ideals and charitable causes.

Cantor's unstinted contribution over the years to the sum of our nation's gaiety has placed the country in his debt. At the same time his compensation has extended beyond the satisfaction of popular acclaim and is not limited to what is commonly described as dollars-and-cents.

He has derived untold inner gratification from the fact that he has been able to persuade large numbers of our citizenry to contribute of their material means toward the many worthy causes which he has espoused. What's more, it must make him happy to know that he has taught people to laugh while giving.

On the occasion of Cantor's sixtieth birthday, which occurred yesterday, we can think of no more fitting tribute to offer than this: Eddie, you have made a place for yourself in the heart of America as a great trouper, a great American and a great Jew.

Broadway Tales

BY BEN FEINGOLD

BIG TOWN VIGNETTE

A classic tale making the rounds of the garment center here has Blumstein, who had a great year, feeling grateful to his loyal helper, Feinstein.

"Feinstein," said Blumstein, "we did a wonderful business this year and you worked harder than anyone else. To show you I appreciate it, I'm making out a check to you for a thousand dollars!"

Feinstein was overjoyed. "And next year," continued Blumstein after a pause, "if business is just as good—I'll sign it!"

BROADWAY BEAT

Abe Levine, the Times Square wit, saw a Broadway play Saturday night that had a happy ending—everyone was glad it was over. . . . George Katz, manager of boxer Gil Turner, promising welterweight, is a highly successful Philadelphia manufacturer. George, however, makes his business secondary to his love for boxing. . . . Another "George," this one G. Schwartz, is a Jewish movie owner with a real insight on the better films—and the nerve to gamble when he fancies his judgment to be correct. Schwartz imported the prize-winning Japanese film, "Roshomon," for his theatre after all the other "in the know" owners turned thumbs down on the production as a poor risk. He's playing to jammed audiences at every performance—and mink-coated ones, at that. . . . Overheard in a N. Y. kosher delicatessen—"The guy has a very unusual job—he's an airplane mechanic in a clothing store—takes care of the hangars!" . . . George Tobias, the French Legionnaire who is killed early in the flicker, "Ten Tall Men," is a native of Brighton Beach, Brooklyn, a nice guy—and a real Yeshiva bucha! . . . Sam Burstyn, the famed Jewish importer of foreign films, is another gent with an eye for top-raters. For five years his selections have been adjudged — "Best Foreign Film of the Year" by the Gotham movie critics. Burstyn's classic this year is—"Miracle in Milan." . . . One of the most gentlemanly chaps in the rough sport of boxing, and assuredly among the top trainers in the country, is Ray Arcel, a devout Jew and an ardent worker for the cause of Israel.

HORSE SICKNESS, MAYBE?

Dean of the humorists, Harry Hershfield, had us laughing with this yarn about the little Jewish fellow who was nabbed speeding. A traffic cop caught up to him and barked—"Pull over! What's the idea?"

"I'm sick, I'm sick"—moaned the driver.

"You're not sick"—snapped the gendarme. "I see the dope sheets on the seat beside you. You're racing to the Jamaica Race Track."

"Oy"—sighed the little man—"is this a sickness!"

Wisdom of the Broadway Sages: "Most women stop telling their ages—when their ages start telling on them!"

Latest yarn from Russia handling Broadwayites a laugh has two Commies (who are naturally atheists) talking in a Moscow Vodka pub.

"One Man's Opinion"

SHEMITTAH

BY BERYL SEGAL

Shemittah. I pronounce this word again and again to myself. I relish the sound of it. It brings back memories of a very early day in my childhood when I first learned the word and knew not what it was all about. How could I? At the ripe age of five, we started the study of Chumosh, the five books of Moses. And on that same year we came upon this law:

"When you come into the land which I give you, then shall the land keep a Sabbath unto the Lord. Six years thou shalt sow the field and six years thou shalt prune thy vineyard and gather in the produce thereof. But in the seventh year shall be a Sabbath of solemn rest for the land, a Sabbath unto the Lord. Thou shalt neither sow thy field nor prune thy vineyard."

This is the law of Shemittah. A full year of Sabbath for the field, the garden, and the orchard. No crops are to be harvested. No vegetables are to be grown. No fruits are to be gathered.

Abandon the land. Let the soil rest every seventh year. That which grows of itself, the grapes, the fruits of the trees, you may eat. But so may the stranger. It does not belong to you alone. It belongs to Him who owns the world and all that is in it.

This is Shemittah. And we, lads of five and six, chant the words in the Chumosh and repeat the translation in Yiddish after the Rebe. But what do we know of the greatness of the law? How can we measure the depth of it?

In later years the word Shemittah came up again. Not in real life. Always in books. In the study of the Talmud. In the writings of the Rabbis and commentators. Going into great details about the workings of the law. Discussing and arguing over something that was, and has no meaning for us—the scholars of the Yeshivos of Lithuania, Poland, the Ukraine.

Little did I know, nor did my teachers or my class mates, that Shemittah would become a reality, a life problem, in the year 1952. This, indeed, is part of the miracle of our days. Problems that lay dormant for centuries, came to life again with the reclaiming of the Land of Yisroel. Words that were met only on the pages of the Torah and in the folios of the Talmud, take on flesh and sinews in our days.

And so they are faced with the problem of Shemittah in the Land of Israel. And it is a very serious problem.

This year is, as you well know, 5712 in the Hebrew calendar. Divide this number into seven, and you will see that it is a seventh year, a Sabbath year, a year of Shemittah.

harrowing experiences.

It's Dave Barry's tale of the ancient philosopher who approached Baron Rothschild, first member of the famed banking clan, and said—"Baron, I can sell you something that can make you live forever."

The Baron scratched his chin, pondered a moment and said—"That is indeed something worth buying. What is the cost?"

"300 rubles"—replied the wise man.

"A bargain indeed!"—remarked the Baron, handing over the money. "What do I have to do to live forever?"

"Just this!"—was the sage's reply. "Go to the little poor town of Karakas to settle—NO RICH MAN HAS EVER DIED THERE!"

This is the year when we have no ownership. It belongs to the Owner of all the Earth. Those who worked the fields and the orchards until now, have no right to go about as if they still owned them. They do not. The land is free. It is released from human ownership. No legal statutes are binding. No sales documents are valid during the year. The Land of Yisroel must rest every seventh year. This rest is not to be disturbed.

And in Israel today are twelve colonies, settled by orthodox Jews, who will observe the Shemittah year truly and literally. They accept no dispensations from present-day Rabbis. Israel, they say, is being rebuilt for the purpose of restoring the laws of the Torah to the land, and not to abandon them. They will neither sow the field, nor put their hands to the plow, to the tractor, to the pruning hook, the vine presses, or the threshing machine. They will not go out into the fields and gardens and orchards to work on this year of Sabbath just as they keep away from these chores on the day of Sabbath. The seventh year, like the seventh day of the week, are both holy.

Don't you stand in awe and humility before such heights of conviction? No matter who you are, what you are, what your philosophy of life may be, you are moved to admiration for such strength of belief.

It will mean loss of money? It will mean even greater austerity than before? It may mean downright hunger? What of it? Man does not live on bread alone. There are moral laws that claim priority to the laws of the stomach and the bank book.

Happy are they who believe so strongly. Let no one sneer at them. Let no one call them stubborn fools. It is such stubbornness that moves mountains, overcomes obstacles, and gives meaning to life.

And the Government of Israel is not inclined to trample on the convictions of these twelve colonies. The food is badly needed. But so is such idealism needed in Israel.

We are told, accordingly, that the Ministry of Rations of Israel is preparing to supply food, not grown on Jewish soil, to these colonies, and to some 10,000 city people as well, who will not eat foods grown in the Land of Yisroel during the Shemittah year. Where will the food come from? It may be bought from fields and gardens belonging to Arabs. It may have to be imported from other lands. The laws of Shemittah apply only to the Land of Yisroel, and to crops grown by Jews living in Israel.

And so, to the hundred and one problems confronting the Government of Israel today, another one has been added in this year of 5712. But if you think deeper into the meaning of Israel, you will grasp the significance of this problem. It is part of the dream. It is part of the miracle. It is what makes Israel unique. It is as important as building the air lines and the merchant marine and the electrification system. To many Jews the renewal of the laws of the Torah is the only reason for the rebuilding of the land. A democratic government can not ignore this view. All Jews have an equal share in the rebirth of Zion.

Shemittah, that exotic word of my early childhood, stands before me now alive and actual. The word from the pages of my old Chumosh looks up at me now from the columns in newspapers and magazines after so many years—after so many world-shaking days and years.

The New Miriam Hospital will be distinguished for its modern decor. All furniture in waiting rooms and lounges will be in light colored woods.

FRATERNAL BOWLING

For the third week in a row, bottom team Justice created plenty of fireworks. Though they lost three games to second place Security, the second game saw eleven strikes made, three men trying for high single. Captain Dave Ettine's Brownies swept to a 4-0 win over the league leading Indians and are now only two points from the top. Ettine 335 and Howie Cohen 332 paced the Browns. For the Red Sox, Solmer led the way with a 321 triple.

Dave Allen has recovered from his bowling slump with a bang and his 386 gave the Phillies a shutout over the Indians. For the latter team it came at a most inopportune time since even with 1 point they could have slipped into first place in the American League as the hitherto red-hot White Sox had taken a pasting at the hands of Allan Silverman's Red Sox. In the Indians' losing cause Reeve Zatiolf rolled 319, Al Resnick 317 and Phil Feldman 312.

The Dodgers scored the upset of the night as they took all 4 points from Sam Feldman's Pirates who hold all the high team honors. Sam Tapper's Cubs—cel-

Pawtucket to Have Bond Program

Three young Israeli artists who have combined their talents to produce a program of Israeli dance and music will appear in Pawtucket on Wednesday, Feb. 20 as part of an entertainment program sponsored by the Pawtucket Israel Bond Committee.

They are Varda Razy, whose costumed dancing interprets various aspects of Israeli life; Benjamin Oren, pianist, and David Lein, violinist.

Also to be heard on the program, which will be held at West Senior High School, will be Ray Leizer, the handless concert pianist, and Jan Bart, radio and recording singer. Leizer and Bart appeared at a similar Israel Bond program last month.

The Pawtucket Israel Bond Committee, headed by Melvin Berry, is expected to conduct a planning meeting next week.

Colors used in the New Miriam Hospital have been scientifically selected. The walls of patients' rooms will be painted for eye-ease and quiet cheerfulness. There will also be ceilings of sound absorbent material.

Sisterhood To See School Program

The program committee of the Sisterhood of Temple Beth Israel has announced that the next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 8 P. M. in the Temple vestry, when they will present a program, "Meet Our Sunday School and Hebrew School." Mrs. Marshall Marcus is chairman of the evening.

Teachers and classes participating will be Mrs. Sylvan Forman and her second grade Sunday school students, and Mrs. Martin Gross and the pupils of her Hebrew class. Mrs. Armand Waldman will have an exhibit table of her kindergarten children's handiwork.

GRAND RABBI HERE

Grand Rabbi Moses Horowitz, "The Boston Rabbi of New York," will arrive in Providence this afternoon and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bezviner of 73 Glenham Street. He will remain here until Tuesday.

In the New Miriam Hospital there will be bathroom facilities for each room, regardless of size.

SYD COHEN:
Confidence Sits Well On Champions

Two years ago, at the annual Words Unlimited awards dinner, a tall boy with a shock of unruly blond hair and a baby face sat alone in a corner, looking straight ahead or down at the floor and trying hard not to be miserable. He was out of his element mingling with all the greats of the local sports world. He attracted no attention. Nobody talked much with him. He was probably the first one to leave for home.

Last week, at the annual Words Unlimited dinner, a tall boy with a shock of unruly blond hair and a baby face was the center of attraction. He sat at the head table, he was surrounded by admirers and well wishers. He shook the hands of at least a couple of hundred people, and he gave autographs until his arm must have ached.

It was amusing, while watching Chet Nichols carry himself with poise and dignity, to think back a short two years to his debut at the sportswriters and sportscasters affair. Then he had been merely a promising young left handed pitcher, who had been an outstanding high school southpaw. Now he was the honored guest of the evening, Rhode Island's athlete of the year.

Two years make quite a difference. Last Thursday Nichols—the champion of the National League earned runs department — acted like a champion, in appearance and in manner. Now a seasoned big league pitcher who had broken up Preacher Roe's amazing winning streak, he displayed a calmness and assurance that you never would expect to see in a 20-year-old.

Then there was Rocky Marciano, who certainly acted the part of the champion he seems destined to become. A stranger in the crowd, seeing him for the first time, never would guess that this handsome figure—resplendent in a gorgeous gray sport jacket, equipped with an ease of expression and a keen wit that even experienced toastmasters would admire—could be a fighter who probably will return to Words Unlimited next year as heavyweight champion of the world, to accept the award of athlete of the year.

Rocky looked like a champion, and he acted like one. Confidence wore well on him, as it did on Nichols.

Words Unlimited went big time last Thursday, and it is a tribute to the program that although the local daily columnists discussed it Rocky Marciano was in excellent spirits at the Words Unlimited affair, and maybe that was because he had eaten well. An absolutely unimpeachable source related that Rocky put away the following: three filet mignon dinners, 14 buns and three bottles of milk. Oh yes—he had previously eaten at 5 o'clock.

just a week ago, they left unmentioned several bits of humor and background that should make good reading even at this comparatively late time.

The attendance was given out as 350, the largest in the history of the affair. If anything, that figure was too low. Several of the guests, and quite a few of the sportswriters and sportstalkers had to dine in an adjoining room, then drag in their chairs for the speaking program.

It was an unusual kind of affair, where each speaker was in top form and somehow topped the one who had spoken before him. It is difficult to tell whether Frank Keaney's homespun humor drew more laughter than did veteran American League umpire Bill Summers. Both were terrific, and it was a shame that they couldn't have been permitted to go on all night.

Summers' baseball yarns were classics—most of them had not been heard before—and his manner of telling them was superb. He never cracked a smile, even though his tales brought a continuous howl of laughter. And his booming voice, that comes in strong over the weakest radio when he is calling balls and strikes during the season, had me wondering how long the microphone could take that tremendous volume of voice without being shattered to bits, how long the walls could take the pressure without being blown outward.

There was Summers getting up to speak and addressing his "fellow blind men", umpires Hank Soar and Jim Duffy. There was Summers relating how he threw Lefty Gomez out of a ball game—"So I relieved him for the afternoon."

Bill told one story of a trip to Europe during the war. He and Beans Reardon, National League umpire, took the trip with a group of ball players headed by Leo Durocher and Frank Frisch. Everyone had to take a routine Army physical examination before leaving the States, and when Summers and Reardon took their eye test, Durocher and Frisch lined up on either side of the eye chart to confirm their suspicions that the umps were blind.

They checked every line carefully to make sure there was no cheating. And when the official verdict came in—20/20 vision for the men in blue—Leo and Frank looked across at each other in amazement and exclaimed: "The blind b...s—they both can see!" Summers split our sides with the story of Jim Bagby, who had a very obvious speech defect, trying to imitate roommate Chubby

Dean when Manager Lou Boudreau called to make a routine bed check. Dean was out on the town, and Bagby thought he could fool the manager into believing he was in. His defect made it a ridiculous pretense, of course, but Boudreau showed he could go along with the gag. He called back a while later, imitated Bagby's voice, defect and all, and told the startled Jim: "This is Dean".

Then there was the umpire who officiated at a bush league game and couldn't pronounce the pitcher's name. Summers told him to fake it and crowd wouldn't know the difference. So the ump bellowed somewhat in this fashion: "For the home team, Tanguinny catching, and another guinea pitching."

All in all, quite an affair, big league all the way. Too bad you missed it.
