New Rules For Bowling Tournaments

A total of 208 men and women kegglers will participate in the three Herald bowling tournaments scheduled for the next few weeks. Each of the men's tournaments—Temples Emanuel, Beth El and Beth Israel and Cranston Jewish Center in one; and A. E. P. I., Fineman Trinkel, Providence Fraternal and Knights of Pythias in the other—will feature 80 bowlers, each individual league presenting four teams of five men each. For the women—Fineman-Trinkel Auxiliary, Cranston Jewish Center, Sunnyside Debs, Temple Beth Israel and Lucky Strikers—there will be three teams, each containing four kegglers, representing every league; that makes a total of 48 girls.

The temples and Cranston will compete on Monday, April 28, at 8 P. M. at the Casino Alleys; the other men's affair will be held on Monday, May 5 at the Bowladrome Alleys; and the women will inaugurate their championship series on Sunday, April 27 at 8 P. M. at the Casino Alleys.

Similar regulations for all three tournaments have been set up as the result of recent meetings in the Herald office.

Biggest innovation is the setting up of an official scoring table, at which all the tabulating of scores will take place. Each of the competing men's leagues has been instructed to name five non-bowlers to serve as scorers. Four of these men will serve as scorers for the A, B, C and D teams of one rival league, and the other will sit at the scoring table.

For the women, the scorers will total four—one each for the A, B and C teams of one other league, the other to sit at the scoring table.

Following are the scoring assignments: Temples and Cranston—Emanuel's four scorers will keep the figures for the four teams of Beth El; the Beth El four will score for Beth Israel. In similar fashion, Beth Israel will work with Cranston, and Cranston will be the overseers for Emanuel.

For the other men's tourney—Fineman-Trinkel will score for A. E. P. I., A. E. P. I. for Providence Fraternal, Providence Fraternal for Knights of Pythias, and the Pythians for Fineman-Trinkel.

Women's tourney—Cranston scores for Sunnyside Debs, who in turn will handle Beth Israel. The latter will score for Fineman-Trinkel, who will work with Lucky Strikers, who will work with Cranston.

All these assignments are official. League scorers are expected to get their league and team assignments before the night of the affair.

Another new rule prohibits non-bowlers from entering the bowling area. The league whose teams total the highest number of points (three strings and total pinfall) will be the winner.

NOTE—All leagues that have not yet submitted rosters must do so before Wednesday, April 23.

B & P ELECTION

B'nai B'rith Believes In Education In Brotherhood!

One of the projects of the Anti-Defamation League of the Roger Williams Lodge and Chapter of the B'nai B'rith in Providence this year has been the supplying of the children's departments of the Providence Public Libraries and Providence School system with a variety of books stressing the theme of brotherhood, equality and tolerance. Pictured are Mr. William J. O'Brien of the Providence School Department accepting books from Mrs. Morris A. Cohen, Women's Chairman of the League and Mrs. Arthur Abrich, Publicity Chairman.

Support this good work by becoming a donor or sponsor of the Roger Williams Chapter, B'nai B'rith's Women's Annual Quota Dinner, to be held April 22, at 6:30 P. M. at the Narragansett Hotel.

Open House at the New Center

There is an old Yiddish saying which, when translated, implies that if one lives long enough, he will eventually witness everything.

For more years than many leaders and workers in our community care to contemplate, the need for a new Jewish Community Center has been increasingly evident; yet, year after year, the possibility that a new Center would be established—with greater and better-located physical facilities, and a broader, more inclusive program—seemed ever farther away in the distant future.

Yet, for those who have lived through these years, the long-desired dream has come true; and in just two days the New Center, already a going concern, will open its doors officially and dedicate its new buildings.

Even now, on the eve of Open House, the Center does not have all the facilities that it needs and eventually must have. Now, however, the promise of the future—the immediate future—seems a good promise, and already, only a few short months after the completion of the new buildings, there is the expression of active interest in additional facilities. The new Men's Association, for example, began its existence by noting the need of a modern gymnasium-auditorium.

One step leads to another, and so it is important for future planning that so many new faces are now seen at Center functions; for new faces mean new interest and new workers, and consequently less time required for improvements and expansions.

Regardless of all future considerations, the fact remains that at last the Providence Jewish Community has a new, attractive and roomy Center. From this new Center emanates a program carefully tailored to fit the interests of every single member of every family.

Here is fulfilled the promise that was made of the new Center in the days when the new Center was but a dream. This is why Open House at the Center has so much significance for the entire Jewish Community.

Sunday's ceremonies, which are open to the public, will demonstrate at once the accomplishment of past goals and the promise of still greater things to come.

"One Man's Opinion"

In Memory Of
BY BERYL SEGAL

It is written in many books, and it has been repeated by sages of many lands, of all ages, but the idea is always the same:

When a man dies, he is not remembered by the clothes he wore, by the cars he drove, by the houses he owned, nor by the treasures he possessed. He is remembered only by his deeds, and by the way these deeds affected people.

A simple truth. An old truth. Yet it strikes you with the force of a new discovery each time you come face to face with a confirmation of this bit of philosophy among people you know, in your own days.

The other day I met a man who is no longer among the living. For seven years he and I lived in the same city, walked the same streets, and must have sat under the same roof on seven times seven occasions, at public gatherings. But I never spoke to Seymour Levy, and knew him only by name.

Why then do I think of him so much these past two weeks, ever since I learned of the plans for a memorial to the deceased?

Even now I know very little about this man whom his friends called Cy. Was he a man of wealth or of moderate means? Was he handsome or plain in appearance? Was he tall or short of stature? Was he a man of learning? Did he travel widely?

All these things do not matter now. Of none of these things do his friends talk now.

What does matter is that he left so many devoted friends, and the deep sense of loss they feel without him.

What the friends do talk about is the manner in which Cy gave freely of his talent wherever and whenever it was needed.

A man can live a long lifetime in a community, and yet remain a stranger in it. He passes like a shadow across the wall.

This man Cy left his mark in a few short years of his sojourn among us. Among those who are now engaged in putting up a memorial fund in his name at the Miriam Hospital are men and women of all strata. Among them are doctors, lawyers, business men and wage earners. Among them are the brotherhoods of four congregations, war veterans posts, fraternal organizations, service clubs. Not listed on the official stationery of the Memorial Fund, but equally in agreement with the purpose of the fund are the numerous people who at one time or another have enjoyed the dramatic talents of Cy Levy.

And here is the proper place to pause and to reflect on another moral lesson.

You keep your God-given talents to yourself, and they wilt away and shrink to insignificance. Share your talents with others, and they gather strength and spread forth like a tree planted by the flowing waters.

The creative spirit craves for the eyes and ears of others. Shutting up your talents within yourself is like hiding a plant in a dark cellar.

If you have a song in your heart, let others hear the song and find pleasure in it. If you have a vision of beauty, reveal that vision to others in color or in music, so that they too might find delight in it. If you have a truth to tell, find the ears and the hearts of others, and make your truth known to them.

Cy Levy was gifted with dramatic talents. In entertaining others he found himself. To this art he devoted his leisure hours. Directing plays, preparing programs. Presenting shows to children, to old people, to veterans, to charitable societies.

One of his close friends said: "Cy never refused an invitation to perform. He just couldn't say no."

All those to whom he couldn't say "no" remember him now, and offer their share for the memorial in his name at the hospital. It is as if his friends would say:

"When he was alive, our friend Cy Levy sought to help people by lifting their spirits. Let us, then, in his name, continue to do so in this new hospital."

"Our friend Cy, were he alive today, would surely offer his talents and his aid in the building of the hospital. Let us do it in his name."

Thus the old, often repeated truth is confirmed before our eyes, in our own days, among people we know:

When a man dies, he is remembered not by his clothes, nor by his wealth, nor by the gold and silver he saved up, but by his deeds among his fellow men.

May this be a lesson to all of us, and may it bring some measure of comfort to his wife and children and to his friends who cherish the memory of Cy Levy's good deeds.

The Book We Live By

This Monday, at 10:45 in the morning, a new television program will be born over Channel 11 on WJAR-TV.

The Monday morning quarter hour presents Rabbi William G. Braude in weekly comments on the Sidra of the week. The Sidra, as you know, is the name for the weekly portion of Torah to be read and studied. Jews of yesteryear listened to the reading of the Sidra twice on Saturday and again on Mondays and Thursdays, when the Torah was read during the services in the synagogue.

New modes of living necessitate new ways of bringing the words of the Law to the people. Radio and television need not be limited to the sales of cigarettes and soaps only. These modern means of communication can be harnessed to teaching and to expounding truth and wisdom.

Rabbi Braude intends to do this through his Monday morning series of telecasts under the general title: "The Book We Live By," over WJAR.

He will select passages from the weekly Sidra for explanation and elaboration. These passages will be announced in advance so that

BOWLING FINEMAN-TRINKEL
 by Jack Jacobson

The White Sox, who split, were finally dislodged from first place in the American division as the Yankees scored a shutout and took over sole possession of top spot. For the Yanks it was Gene Silverman's 341 which brought victory in each string.

The fight for second place continues in a triple tie among the Tigers, Athletics and White Sox; and the Indians dropped all the way from a first place tie last week to sixth place as they lost the entire match to the Yankees in the fight for the leadership.

Billy Edelman's strike plus 9 on it in the very last box gave the Cubs a tie with the Pirates for total score, and in the roll-off for the extra point Abe Lobel of the Cubs duplicated teammate Edelman's feat and gave the Cubs a 3-1 victory.

In the National league Harry Goldberg's Reds took only 1 of a possible 4 points from Morris Sattloff's Tigers but lost no ground to the Phils, who also dropped 2 points.

Members of the 300-plus club were: George Feldman 360, Phil Shaulson 354, Les Friedman 347, Arnold Kleinman 346, Harvey Stein 342, Irv Levine 339, Don Cohen 337, Harold Golden and Nate Gordon 329, Alan Silverman 327, Lou Millen 322, Mort Klibanoff 320, Harold Levin 316, Reeve Zatloff 311, Sam Feldman 310, Dave Allen 309, Speed Kessler 306.

The New Miriam Hospital will have an up-to-date library which will circulate to patients' bedside to supply reading material.

Sam Miller and Leon Resnick 305, Max Runstein 304, Sam Shaver and Chookie White 303, Morris Factor 302, Murray Gordon, Justin Robinson, Irving Datz, Gene Aronson and Sam Price 301.

CRANSTON PLAIDS

Melba Kaplan's Indigo Team has taken over top place with a two point lead over Kathleen Miller's Greens. Gloria Cohen's Yellows are hanging on to the number three spot.

Ruth Kahn and Pat Pokras have recently been placed as regular team members.

Fran Rodinsky rolled a spare on a strike to take high single with 121, and a three string total of 302. Hope Mellion also came up with a spare on strike for 102.

Other high bowlers were Bertha Davis 111, Harriet Gorfine 110, Shirley White 107, Bernice Weinberg 106, Cookie Shwartz 103, Sippy Kessler 102, Doris Kirshenbaum 100, Rosalind Herman 98.

Softball Needs Players
B'nai B'rith Tourney
JCC Sports Nite

If you are moaning because of what the Army and Navy and Marines are doing to your favorite ball club—whether the guy in question be Ted Williams, Chet Nichols, Don Newcombe, Gerry Coleman or Willie Mays—turn off the salt water for a few minutes and think of the Providence Jewish Softball League.

At least, when the Services take a player from the major leagues, the teams involved dig into their farm systems, or trade a bundle of cash and a couple of well-welded hunks of arms, legs, muscles and assorted chemical compounds, and presto—they have a replacement.

The Softball League has no farm system; its salary scale is so sparse as to have no effect whatever on income tax confessions. It can not withstand the inroads of the military with the nonchalant aplomb of the pros.

Bluntly, there is a player shortage in the Softball League, and Seymour Golden, chairman of the executive committee, is concerned to the point where he wants to get it across to all the boys who might like to play but have not as yet affiliated with any club.

The turnover in playing personnel is greater than average this year, for reasons that have nothing to do with the Softball League itself. Business and family demands always take a heavy toll. Educational requirements add their bit—and then the draft!

Practically every club in the league could use more players—there is, in fact, room for an entire club, should any group of fellows care to do a quick organizing job. But time is short—the season is scheduled to start on May 4. Player applications will be accepted by this column or by Golden, whose number is MA 1-7013.

For other reasons having to do with business, the Softball League is in the market for a couple of sponsors. The cost is certainly reasonable for the amount of good will and effective publicity involved. Details are better explained in person. Communicate with the column or Seymour Golden.

B'nai B'rith Bowling

The time has come for all bowlers who are also members of Roger Williams Lodge, B'nai B'rith, to make known whether they intend to participate in the Lodge's bowling tournament to determine which men will be sent to various cities to compete in regional and sectional tourneys.

The first B'nai B'rith tournament has been announced—it will be held in Boston at the Boylston Bowldrome behind Fenway Park, on Sunday, May 18. Our local application must be in within a few short weeks, so all you would-be B'nai B'rith standard bearers had better apply at once.

Membership campaign note—if you are not a member of the Lodge AS YET, don't be dismayed. George Katz takes applications and money, and then you are eligible. Or, any member can help out.

Sherman Price of East Side Pharmacy is working with this column on arrangements for the tournament. A date for our local roll-off to determine who makes the team will be held very soon—obviously. No arrangements can be made, though, until we know how many Ben Briths are interested.

So—get in touch with Sherman, but right away; or again, contact this column in the evening, at PL 1-1869. The deadline has to be short. Let's say that arrangements will be made by the latter part of next week.

The Boston tourney is the first—it may not be the last. I am waiting to hear from the regional office on their tournament plans.

JCC Sports Nite

Next Tuesday night, as part of the Jewish Community Center's Open House celebration, the Center's athletic department will present a really terrific sports show. It is open to the public, and free to all, and will be held in the New Center auditorium.

Starting at 7:30, the program will include the 1951 World Series movies between the Yankees and Giants, presentation of awards to youngsters and teams that were participants during the winter sports season, introduction of some top athletes of present and by-gone days—and an informal talk on all sports by Tony Petronella, State Boxing Commissioner and third vice-president of the NBA.

Tony promises to bring along several of his priceless anecdotes about the top figures in sports. The man gets around. He was chummy with Joe DiMaggio, for instance, when the Clipper still had his sails spread wide, and is personally acquainted with the leading figures throughout the country.

Here, however, is something you may not have known. Tony Petronella used to be a fine handler of fighters. More than one potential champion profited by his apprenticeship with Tony. For instance, there was the time Petronella took in a boxing show featuring a group of kids. He was struck by the looks of one nine-year-old, and took the kid under his wing.

The kid turned out to be quite a fighter—name of George Araujo. And Tony was the first to spot him and realize his potential—even at the scrawny and unimpressive age of nine.

A feature of the New Miriam Hospital will be a coffee and gift shop for visitors, staff members and convenience of the patients.

Report Of The Admissions Committee
(From the 19th Annual Report)

It gives me great pleasure to submit the annual report of the Admissions Committee covering 12 months ending September 30, 1951.

During that period we had 47 applications as compared with 40 in the previous year.

Of the 47 who applied and the three on the waiting list, 18 entered the Home, 6 were rejected or deferred, 4 cancelled or withdrew their applications, 6 died, and 16 were pending as of September 30, 1951.

The average age of those admitted was 79 years. As to their marital status, 7 were widows, 5 were widowers, 5 married and 1 single.

Fifteen came from Providence, 1 from Woonsocket, 2 from Pawtucket.

The majority were born in Eastern Europe, although three among the incoming residents were born in this country.

As a Committee, we have recommended to the Board that the Home expand its facilities as quickly as possible. We realize because of lack of space, many deserving applicants have to wait. We have always examined carefully into the needs of those that are on the waiting list and given preference to those who need the Home most for health and social reasons.

In closing, I want to thank the members of my Committee, particularly Mrs. Samuel N. Deutch, Honorary Chairman of the Committee, and Mr. Rakatansky, who have been helpful in visiting the

Building Planning Progress

Spurred by the growing number of applicants as reported at the annual meeting—there are now 19 (four men and 15 women) on the waiting list—the Building Committee has met several times to lay the groundwork for the Home's building expansion, which would provide 60 additional beds, thereby increasing the capacity from 90 to 150 residents.

Four local Jewish architects and construction engineers have been invited to submit preliminary plans, and two already have been submitted. These architects have presented preliminary sketches and explained to the Committee the details of the designs.

Others serving on the Committee are Leo Logan, co-chairman; Dr. Ilie Berger, Jacob Licht, Mrs. Thomas H. Goldberg, Benjamin Rakatansky, Samuel Lazarus, Mrs. Irving L. Solomon, Irving I. Fain, Peter Woolf, Morris Waldman, Max Winograd, Sydney A. Kane, Max Adelson of Newport, Herbert Pansy of Pawtucket, Benjamin Falk of Woonsocket and Max Margolis of West Warwick. Jacob I. Felder, president, and Max Alexander, executive director, are ex-officio.

applicants individually.

Respectfully submitted,

The Home Celebrates Passover

Here is a scene taken last Wednesday evening at the Home as the Passover Seder got under way. Rev. David Einstein, who conducted the Seder, makes kiddush as residents, family and friends and members of the Home staff look on. Sixty-five persons attended the Seder.

Membership Dues Payable May 1

The next fiscal membership year will begin on May 1, and bills will be mailed from the Home office on that date.

Taking note of that fact, Leo H. Rosen, membership chairman, wishes to remind all members of the Home that membership dues comprise a large part of the operating budget for the Home during the year.

With costs at their current high level, and with the Home's plans to increase its resident capacity at last being translated into action, Rosen said, it becomes more and more important that membership dues be remitted at the earliest possible convenience of the members.

3. Do you endeavor to represent the agency to important groups in the community?
4. Do you attend board meetings regularly?
5. Do you speak up courageously where important issues are involved?
6. Do you deal with staff as partners?

8. Will you allow another to replace you on the board after you have made your best contribution?
9. Do you assume responsibilities for the well-being of families outside your case load?

Total—Yes No

If you have more than 3 no's, your batting average is a bit weak, and you need more practice.
