GJC Board Endorses Objectives of R. I. Jewish Historical Association

Objectives of the R. I. Jewish Historical Association—a group recently organized for the purpose of collecting, preserving and publishing material relating to the history of the Jews of this state—have been unanimously endorsed by the Board of Directors of the General Jewish Committee of Providence. The announcement was made this week by Alvin A. Sopkin, G.J.C. president.

David C. Adelman, Association president and Providence attorney, appeared before the GJC directorate last week and outlined proposed activities of the new group. Following his remarks, the board went on record with a strong endorsement—supplemented by a recommendation urging members of the state's Jewish community to enroll in the Association and participate in its various contemplated projects.

Association membership is divided into several classifications, including: Guarantor, $100 annual dues; sponsor, $75; patron, $50; sustaining, $25; contributing, $15, and active, $10.

For many years, it has been recognized that the background of Rhode Island Jewry is unusually rich in historical lore. Non-Jewish historians on numerous occasions have pointed out the "tremendously significant contributions made by early Jewish settlers in Rhode Island to the economic, governmental and cultural growth of the state and the ultimate establishment of the original 13 colonies as a New World sovereignty."

Adelman told the GJC board members that "with the passage of time, many records have been irretrievably lost and destroyed. We hope to repair the damage."

"In 1954 the Jews of the United States will celebrate the Three Hundredth anniversary of their settlement. In that same year the Congregation Sons of Jacob and David (Temple Beth El) will observe its One Hundredth Anniversary. As one of the oldest Jewish communities in the United States, we Jews of Rhode Island owe it to ourselves to be prepared to participate in such programs.

"Although the Jewish community in Providence is over a century old, our children know little of its past. Increasing numbers of students have evinced an interest in local Jewish history but have been frustrated by lack of material."

He noted that through the courtesy of the R. I. Historical Society, the new Association has been granted permission to use the Society's headquarters—the famed John Nicholas Brown House at 52 Power Street in Providence—for meetings, lectures and research. An arrangement has been made with the Jewish Community Center for the use of an exclusive alcove to house the Archives of the Association.

Adelman is the author of a series of articles dealing with the early history of Providence Jewry which have appeared in recent issues of the Temple Beth El bulletin. He has spent considerable time in microfilming valuable historical records, doing research and writing articles on this topic.

It was emphasized that the Association is state-wide in its membership and scope of activities. Officers of the Association are hopeful of filling in the gaps in present records and assembling widely scattered background material in the form of a coordinated 300-year-old account of Rhode Island Jewish activities.

In addition to Adelman, present officers include Bernard Segal, vice-president; Miss Matilda J. Pincus, secretary; Arthur J. Levy, treasurer, and Rabbi William G. Braude, Professor Israel J. Kapstein and Alter Boyman, executive committee members.

Once it is implemented by sufficient funds and membership, the Association plans to stage frequent lectures open to the public and sponsor the publication of Jewish historical material of interest to the community.

Currency Move Expected to End Black Market

Israel's drastic step of imposing a compulsory loan and calling in all currency in circulation before June 22 is believed to be the most important step taken to end the black market.

An important statement released through the American Jewish Press reveals that the drastic move is intended not only to force a loan, to end hoarding in Israel and to prevent a black market within the Jewish state, but also to freeze holdings of Israel currency in the United States and to prevent the re-importation of Israel bank notes, which were taken out by black marketeers, into the Jewish state.

Harry Zinder, Israel press attache in New York, has issued this statement in connection with the announcement that Anglo-Palestine Bank notes must be registered by June 22:

"In connection with the announcement that a new issue of Israel bank notes has become legal tender, all previous bank notes issued by the Anglo-Palestine Bank—now Bank Leumi L'Israel, the Israel National Bank—cease to be legal tender. All holders of bank notes of one pound and 500 mil denominations will be able to deposit these notes against official receipts in banks whose names and addresses will be released later. The money deposited will be credited to the owners in a blocked account held in Israel by the Bank Leumi.

"Owners of bills above denominations of one pound will not be afforded the same facilities, since, according to a law valid since the establishment of the state, only bank notes of one pound and 500 mil denominations were permitted to be taken out of the country. It is therefore presumed that all bills of higher denominations were taken out of the country illegally. "Deposits of Israel currency must be effected prior to June 22. All currency not deposited by that date will no longer be valid. "Definite procedures for the deposit of these notes and the banks which will handle the transactions will be announced later."

Tourists Affected
Regarding the right of tourists to bring Israel bank notes back into the country Mr. Zinder issued this statement:

"The Treasury Department of the Government of Israel has instructed that travelers entering Israel will not be allowed to bring Israel currency of any denomination with them into the country. This regulation, which includes travelers of all categories, comes into effect immediately.

"This regulation has been introduced as a result of a considerable amount of Israel currency having been taken out of Israel illegally over the past four years. "Travelers to Israel who bring U. S. Dollars with them will be able to exchange that currency at the established preferential rate of $1.40 to the pound."

The Israel government's announcement was to the effect that as an emergency measure 10 per cent of all money in circulation will be withdrawn as a compulsory loan, except bank accounts of 50 Israel pounds and bank notes of one pound denominations and lower. The Israel Minister of Finance, Eliezer Kaplan, whose resignation is pending, said that the new measure is expected to raise a loan of 25,000,000 Israel pounds.

The new issue of banknotes became legal tender on June 10, and banks will exchange banknotes within two weeks.

ABBA EBAN CONFIRMS VISIT TO PROVIDENCE

AMBASSADOR ABBA EBAN

No Admission Charge To Rally

Abba Eban, Israel's Ambassador to the United States, this week personally confirmed his engagement to speak at an Israel Bond rally in Providence Monday, June 30, 8:30 P. M. at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel. In a letter to the Rhode Island community, Eban said:

"I regret exceedingly my inability to visit Providence on May 19 as originally scheduled and am certain you understand that only the most compelling reasons could have kept me away.

"I am delighted to learn that a large meeting on behalf of the State of Israel Bonds is to be held in Providence at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel on June 30. The necessary arrangements have been made for me to be present at that time to discuss the economic situation in Israel.

"The past record of Providence Jewry leads me to believe that we will have a most successful gathering, and I look forward with a great deal of pleasure to being with you."

Eban's talk here will be one of the few public appearances which he will be able to make this year because of the press of his official duties. He is expected to present to his Providence audience an up-to-the-minute report on economic conditions in the Jewish homeland.

There will be no admission charge for the rally which is to be open to the public. The Israel Bond Committee is making arrangements to fill out the balance of the program and expects to announce its plans soon.

One of the leading figures in the diplomatic world, Eban is also a recognized authority on the Middle East and Arabic affairs.

During the war, he was liaison officer between Allied Headquarters and the Jewish community of Palestine. At the war's end, Eban settled in Jerusalem as chief instructor of the Middle East Center of Arabic Studies. In 1946, at the request of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, he joined the Jewish Agency for Palestine and worked in the field of Arab-Jewish relations.

Funds provided through the State of Israel Bond Issue will make possible large-scale expansion of Israel's industry and agriculture in the immediate future. Investment capital obtained through the sale of bonds will aid in the realization of Israel's potential as the key industrial nation in the Middle East.

Women Attend Brandeis Conference

A conference of the National Women's Committee of Brandeis University was held on the Campus from Monday through Wednesday following graduation exercises of Brandeis' pilot class.

The Providence delegation was headed by Mrs. Louis Kramer, who is a national vice-president. Delegates included Mesdames Judah Semenov, Seibert J. Goldowsky, Arthur J. Levy, Harry Meyers, Esther Pritsker, Max Greenbaum, Israel Press and Bertram L. Bernhardt.

Alternates were Mesdames Louis Kestenman, Abraham Adler, Benjamin Rossman, Arthur Kaplan and Sigmund Saltzman.

Playschool To Add Afternoon Classes

A new program for the Playschool of the Jewish Community Center, to include afternoon as well as morning sessions, was announced this week by the Children's Activities Committee.

The expanded program of four summer play periods will have preschool children between the ages of three and five meeting daily, Monday through Friday, from 9-12 A. M. and from 1-4 P. M. Children between the ages of five-and-a-half and six-and-a-half, who attend kindergarten or the first grade, will have their own classes, on the same days and at the same times.

A minimum of ten children will be required to form each or any of these programs, and family membership at the Center also is required. Registration will be accepted for the full eight-week period, from June 30 to August 22, or for either of the two four-week periods, from June 30 to July 25. (Continued on Page 3)

ZOA Elects Miller As New President

Rabbi Irving Miller of Woodmere, Long Island, was elected president of the Zionist Organization of America at the June 12-15 convention at the Hotel Statler in New York City. His term is for two years.

Rabbi Miller, former vice-president of the ZOA, succeeded the late Rabbi Stephen S. Wise as president of the American Jewish Congress in 1949. With his election, the younger element of Zionists came to the forefront of American Zionism.

M. Louis Abedon, president of the Rhode Island Zionist District, was elected to the national executive board of the ZOA.

Delegates from Providence attending the convention were Abedon, Dr. and Mrs. Ilie Berger, David Geffner, Archibald Silverman, Dr. Joseph Smith, William D. Strong, Nathan Temkin, Victor Weinrich and Irving Weinrich; also Maurice Espo and Rabbi Aaron Goldin of Pawtucket, and Maximilian Gottlieb of Woonsocket.

Dr. Smith was appointed a member of the committee on committees. All delegates participated in committee meetings.

Emanuel Drive Hits $300,000 Mark

Samuel Rosen was re-elected president of Temple Emanuel at the annual meeting held Wednesday.

Samuel Lazarus, chairman of the School Building Campaign Committee, announced that $300,000 already has been raised towards the goal of $425,000. He reported that the membership had responded generously and that solicitors for pledges had been very well received.

Other features at the meeting included annual reports by Rosen, Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen, Mrs. George Reizen, president of the Sisterhood; Saul Seigle, outgoing president of the Men's Club, and the chairmen of all committees.

In addition to Rosen, the following were elected: Alex Rumpel, Herman J. Alsenberg and Morris Espo, vice-presidents; Ernest Blazar, financial secretary; Alfred J. Goldberg, assistant financial secretary; Leo H. Rosen, treasurer; Martin M. Zucker, recording secretary.

Board of Trustees: Louis Fain, Alfred H. Joslin, Bernard Goodman, Jacob S. Temkin, Louis Nass, Max Kestenman, Max Alperin, Joseph W. Ress, Hy Cotton, Burton Finberg, George Gerber, Alfred H. Gilstein, Samuel Garr, Henry Hassenfeld, Arthur Reinherz and George Savin.

Gaboyim: Harry Katz, Isador Korn, Samuel Michaelson, George Pullman and Dr. Solomon Rubenstein.

SAMUEL ROSEN

The following continue to serve on the Board of Trustees: Jacob Berkelhammer, Benjamin Brier, Nat C. Cohen, Irving I. Fain, Jacob I. Felder, Daniel Jacobs, David Meyers, Edward Kossove, Samuel Rapaport Jr., Jacob Licht, Herman Swartz, Morris Horovitz, Harry Blacher, Benjamin Bromberg, Alex A. Cohen, Nathan Curland, Saul Feinberg, Louis Hurwitz, Arthur Kaplan, Harold W. Kahn, Samuel Lazarus, Alvin A. Sopkin, Louis J. Temkin, Arthur Winkelman, Abraham Percelay. (Continued on Page 3)

Alterman is co-chairman of the Bean Supper that will be held tomorrow evening at McCoy Stadium, Pawtucket, with proceeds going to the Children's Cancer Research Foundation, better known as the Jimmy Fund. A Norwood resident, he is affiliated with the Industrial Luncheon Service.

The Boston Braves and Red Sox, Providence and Pawtucket Junior Chambers of Commerce, R. I. National Guard and other organizations, as well as distributors of food supplies, are working together to put over the supper.

British to Probe Kosher Meat Prices

GLASGOW—The high price of kosher meat in Britain—which is a sore point with Jewish housewives—will be fully investigated by the Glasgow Jewish Representative Council, it was reported this week. Following several prosecutions of Jewish butchers by the Ministry of Food for price overcharges, the Council threatened to suspend kosher meat licenses for repeated convictions.

The question of Jewish ritual slaughter, which in recent weeks has been made a public issue by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has produced a large number of letters in the weekly Picture Post, Britain's equivalent of Life magazine. Most of the letter writers oppose ritual slaughter and many demand a petition to the Home Secretary on the subject while others suggest a law banning the traditional Jewish method of slaughter.

Comets Hold 14th Annual Installation

The Comets Club held its 14th annual officer installation affair in the Parlor Room of Topps Gaylord Diner last Saturday evening. George Katz of the R. I. Juvenile Court was guest speaker.

Installed for the coming year were Harold Greenfield, president; Dr. Seymour Gersten, vice-president; Leo Greenfield, treasurer; William Rosenberg, secretary; Bertie Gersten, corresponding secretary; Sam Berman and Robert Hodosh, members-at-large, and Danny Leach, sergeant-at-arms. Robert Barrie was toastmaster.

Denied Passport For Israel Trip

WASHINGTON—The State Department has denied a passport to Dr. Harry Grundfest, chairman of the American Medical Advisory Board to Hebrew University and the Hadassah Medical School, who had wanted to attend the annual board meeting which began this week in Jerusalem.

His request was denied because his travel "would not be in the best interest of the U. S.," according to a State Department announcement which was not amplified. Dr. Grundfest is a member of the faculty of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University.

RUSSIAN FAMILY CIRCLE

The Russian Family Circle met recently at the home of Mrs. Fannie Kroop of New Haven, Conn. Plans were made for the annual outing and picnic to be held Sunday, June 29 at Millis, Mass. Mrs. Sarah Kullman is in charge of arrangements. Guests were present from New York, New Jersey and Providence.

PIONEER EVENING GROUP

The Pioneer Women Evening Group held its final meeting of the season Wednesday evening at Temple Emanuel. Installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. Lewis Blumenthal, president of the Pioneer Women afternoon group. Dancing and refreshments followed for paid-up members and their guests.

Israel Ends Certain Price Controls

JERUSALEM — The end of rationing and price controls for most vegetables, fruit and fish was announced in Parliament here. Anti-profiteering laws which still remain in effect, however, will prevent producers and traders from overcharging.

The move does not indicate any improvement in the supply situation, but is intended to restrict the number of items controlled so that controls may be enforced more strictly. In effect, the change will have the courts, and not the Commerce Ministry, determining what are fair prices for the items affected.

Photographs that have appeared in the Herald will be returned upon request. They may be picked up anytime after publication.

Obituary

MRS. LOWENTHAL-LOWEN

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Lowenthal-Lowen, 95, who died last Tuesday at her home, 141 Porter Street, after a short illness, were held June 12 at the Max Sugarman Funeral Home. Burial was in Beth El Cemetery.

Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 30, 1856, she was the daughter of the late Michael and Sophie (Schalor) Cohen. She came to Providence 32 years ago. The widow of Joseph Lowenthal, she lived with a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Lesser. She is survived also by three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

ABRAHAM BOMES

Funeral services for Abraham Bomes, 59, an antique appraiser, of the Paramount Hotel, 146 Fountain Street, who died suddenly at the hotel, were held Monday at the Max Sugarman Funeral Home. Burial was in Lincoln Park Cemetery.

Born in Russia, he came to this country as a boy. He was the widower of Eva (Weissman) Bomes, and a son of the late Simon and Jennie Bomes.

He leaves two sons, Julius and Samuel Bomes; a brother, Samuel Strauss and Mrs. Rebecca Cushing, and four grandchildren, all of Providence.

or from July 28 to August 22.
In a statement explaining its action in expanding the Playschool program, the Committee said:

"The Committee still recommends, in accordance with the best thinking on the subject, morning programming for the early age groups, and hopes that many parents will avail themselves of these sessions because of the value to the children.
"However, because of the increasing number of requests for afternoon programming, an afternoon session for the pre-school children between three and five years of age, and a similar session for the five-and-a-half and six-and-a-half year olds, have been opened up to registration."
Registration dates for these four Summer Play programs will be Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 23, 24 and 25, from 9 A. M. until 4:30 P. M. at the Center. Interview appointments may be made by calling Mrs. Roseman at UN 1-2674.

Vacation Assistance Offered by Herald Travel Bureau

Each year the resort-seeker and vacation-planner is encouraged by the Herald to take advantage of the services offered by the Herald Travel Bureau. The Bureau offers consultation and aid in selecting a vacation spot, without charge.

The Bureau, headed by Mrs. Ann Cohen, has information on the rates, facilities available, activities, type of clientele, transportation and location of scores of summer resorts.

A prospective vacationer has only to submit information on the kind of resort he would like to go to, and the Bureau will furnish a list of places specializing in facilities and the type of atmosphere he or she is interested in.

The Bureau makes reservations directly with the resorts and plans transportation. Arrangements are now being made for the July Fourth weekend. For information call DEXter 1-7388.

Parents to Plan New Children's Programs

The Children's Activities Committee of the Jewish Community Center this week issued an invitation to all parents of the community to attend a meeting on Tuesday, June 24 at 8 P. M. at the Center, for the double purpose of being introduced to Matthew Millman, new director of Camp Centerland, and to plan the Center's program for children for the 1952-53 season.

The meeting will also be highlighted by an address by Nathan

Sklar, director of the Jewish Family and Children's Service, on "Why Wait Until You Have An Emotional Problem?"

Parents who attend will be encouraged to express an interest in some phase of the children's program, whether it is participation on planning committees, helping carry out various children's programs or helping organize new activities.

Among the groups in which parents may take an active interest are study groups, to study children's needs; program committees, small group activities, schools of music and of the dance, dramatic and art schools and area advisory councils for North End, South Providence and East Side.

EMBASSY OF ISRAEL

AE/103

June 11, 1952

I regret exceedingly my inability to visit Providence on May 19, as originally scheduled, and am certain you understand that only the most impelling reasons could have kept me away.

I am delighted to learn that a large meeting, on behalf of the State of Israel Bonds, is to be held in Providence at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel on June 30. The necessary arrangements have been made for me to be present at that time to discuss the economic situation in Israel.

The past record of Providence Jewry leads me to believe that we will have a most successful gathering and I look forward with a great deal of pleasure to being with you.

Sincerely yours,

Abba Eban

TO build a school for the hundreds of our children who should attend classes in a building whose environment is Jewish and in keeping with the nature of their studies, where they will not be crowded in inadequate class-rooms.

TO have an auditorium which will be a second sanctuary for us, where our members will be able to worship in dignified and comfortable surroundings, all under one roof.

TO have a library for books of Jewish interest so that young and old will be able to find the books they need and which are not available elsewhere.

TO have a Chapel which will be larger and more adequate for our needs, where we may gather for our daily services without crowding, where we may have our smaller weddings, and observe the rites of joy and sadness which are part of our religious life.

TO build, in short, our new building, with its eleven classrooms, its auditorium, its library, its lounge, its offices.

Centerland Conducts Leadership Training

The leadership training program for counsellors at Camp Centerland will be concluded next week, shortly before the start of the 1952 camping season.

The third session of the series, to be held Wednesday morning at the Camp, will include a workshop on rainy day programs and informal dramatics; a discussion on cook-outs, and a recreation period. In the afternoon will come a motion picture and discussion on water-safety, and demonstrations of water-safety techniques, followed by swimming tests for all counsellors.

The following day Matthew Millman, Camp director, will explain bus procedure and policy, as well as relationships between members of the counselling and administrative staffs. Small group meetings on relationships between staff members, and their roles, will follow. A movie and discussion on types of group leadership will conclude the day's training. Next Friday the course will in-

Cross-Section, U. S. A.

By ALLEN LESSER

The American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League are currently negotiating with the Synagogue Council of America over an agreement which would make the latter the spokesman for joint interfaith and interreligious activities. The agreement when reached will provide for the establishment of a joint commission on interreligious cooperation with the Synagogue Council having 6 representatives and the AJC and ADL 3 each. Resources of all three agencies will be pooled in all activities approved by the commission.

Talks leading to similar agreements for joint cooperation are also going on currently with the Jewish Labor Committee and with the Jewish War Veterans.

Informed circles point out that these agreements in effect will bypass any attempt by NCRAC to implement the recommendations of the MacIver Report in these areas. They add that these talks mean that while ADL and AJC still retain formal ties with NCRAC, for all practical purposes they have begun to put teeth into their threat to walk out if NCRAC persists in attempting to steamroller through the MacIver proposals.

In the interfaith area the MacIver Report assigned the leading role to the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, which is a member of NCRAC. The Synagogue Council, which is not a member of NCRAC, is on record as opposed to this MacIver proposal.

Jews In Russia

British editor Harold Soref charges that left-wing M. P. Sydney Silverman's recent report on Jews in Soviet Russia is "less enlightening in positive information than effective in concealing the grim plight of Russian Jewry." Mr. Silverman's report following his return from the Moscow Economic Conference, which first appeared in the London Jewish Chronicle, was prominently featured by the English-Jewish press here.

In a letter to the London Jewish Chronicle, Mr. Soref cites an interview given by the rabbi of the Moscow synagogue last year which revealed that "in Russia there is no Jewish religious education, kosher food is not normally available, and there are no publications of any kind in either Hebrew or Yiddish."

Noting that among the 9 religions officially recognized by the Soviet government, as listed in the current edition of the Russian Encyclopedia, Judaism is not included, Soref warns that East European Jewry stands in as much terror today as the Jews in Germany did under Hitler.

At the same time, press dispatches from Rumania describe May Day parades in which Yevsekztias marched with banners bearing pictures of Israel's Premier David Ben-Gurion, with the face almost blotted out by swastikas.

Hebraized English

When our Israeli friend arrived in New York for a visit recently, the first thing his 9-year-old daughter asked in her best Hebrew was: "How does one say 'bobble-gom' in English?"

The current tendency among Hebrew-speaking Israel to absorb English words into their language has resulted in a number of similarly amusing examples. For instance, if you want your Tel Aviv secretary to stop what she is doing, you will say: "Stoppi." This, you understand, is the feminine Hebrew ending for the word "stop."

Another English-into-Hebrew oddity is the Tel Aviv version of the word "puncture." Every flat tire, of course, is a "punsher," but the same word is also used for such minor misfortunes as a misplaced key, a burned supper, or a misaddressed letter.

Among other words absorbed by Hebrew and popularly used in place of indigenous Hebrew expressions are such words as "texti" (which refers to almost any passenger car), "sendvich," "sveder" (sweater), "kemp" (camp), "koorse" (course), and "skaytin" (to skate). One of the most commonly used expressions is "temble," which means dumb or stupid. In case you haven't already guessed it, the word is simply the Hebrew version of our own "dumb-bell."

view entitled "Borscht Capades."

As a Capitol record star, Mickey enjoys a steady, if specialized, sale. As might be expected, such items as "Come On-a My House" (Yiddish style), "Yiddish Mule Train," "Bagle Call Rag," and "Herring Boats" sell better in metropolitan areas than in medium and small towns. And they sell better in New York than anywhere. A Katz recording session is a family affair, for Mickey invites friends and relations to sit in, and serves refreshments all around.

Last week, Katz fans were chuckling over Mickey's most recent parody: "I'm a Schlemiel of Fortune" and "The Little White Knish That Cried." Both feature cleverly exaggerated arrangements of the Kay Starr style on "Wheel of Fortune" and Johnnie Ray's inimitable agony on "The Little White Cloud That Cried." A sample of the latter:

*I went walking by Moushe's deli-
tessen
Feeling sad and numidick inside.
When all of a sudden I saw in der vunder*

A little white knish that cried.

Disagrees With Segal Column

Dear Editor,

I always enjoy reading Mr. B. Segal's, "One Man's Opinion," printed weekly in the Jewish Herald. They are logical, constructive and well written. However, his article of May 30 is one that I cannot agree with.

To begin with, the title, "What is a Good Jew," is not correct. For ALL Jews, whether scholarly or illiterate, are good Jews, unless one is proven to be bad.

The Talmud goes even a step further by stating, Chgigo 27, that even the sinners amongst Israel are full of good deeds as a pomegranate is full of seeds.

To my knowledge we do not find the phrase Good Jew either in the Hebrew Scripture, in Talmud, or in Hebrew literature down to the 18th century. This phrase was acquired during the Chasidim Epoch. It was applied strictly to the head of a Chasidic Dynasty, who had thousands upon thousands of devoted followers. Those followers considered him Holy and believed that he possessed the power to do miracles by applying the secrets of Kabala, which is a mystic study, and by issuing charms inscribing miraculous numbers combined with certain letters of the alphabet containing secret names of God.

He could do wonders, he could heal the sick, enrich the poor and mainly bless with children the childless. He is the one who was called a Good Jew, "A Gutter Yid."

The very first one, Israel B. Eliezer (1700-1760), was known as "Baal Shem Tov," which means, "One with a good name," and there is where the phrase, "Good Jew," was derived from and the following generations of Chasidic Chiefs were addressed by.

The most famous among them who made history was Rabbi Zalman Shneyerson, who was imprisoned in Peterburg in the year 1798 through false accusations by another Jewish sect—namely, the Misnagdim—that he was an enemy of the state.

I am under the impression that the questioner of Rabbi Bohnen (whose discussion of "What Is a Good Jew" was printed in Mr. Segal's column) was told in his childhood by his parents to be a pious Jew or a great Jew, as this was the hope of every Jewish parent; and during the length of time it was transferred in his mind to mean a good Jew.

Now, what is Judaism? You may well ask what is a rainbow. Your eye perceives in a rainbow not just one particular color but a spectrum of all the colors that could be perceived by the human eye.

Judaism is as beautiful as a rainbow. It is all-embracing and is with us all the time, day and night, winter and summer. For it is a code of ethics, the finest ever conceived. How to live here on earth for your own benefit and for the benefit of all humanity. It is embodied in the Old Testament, especially in the fifth book.

Originally, there were six hundred and thirteen commands (Mitzvos). Being written about three thousand years ago, it is obvious that a great number of them are antiquated and cannot possibly be practiced today. (For instance, the offering of fowl and cattle even at that time were only remnants of an earlier primitive pagan society).

Also, the code being so ancient, it is quite natural that the conception of some Jewish behavior has changed. Only a few generations ago, a Jew with a shaven beard or one who didn't pray three times a day or one who consumed food which was not strictly Kosher was looked upon by Jewish society as an outcast of a Jew. Apply this same formula today to the six million American Jews—how ironic that would be!

Do you know of any finer group of Jews in history—that have done so much good for themselves, for their country, and for Humanity at large?

In the article was mentioned the story of Hillel and the Stranger regarding a good heart. I wish to draw to your attention that no good heart is mentioned there and this particular incident cannot be taken as a capsule form of Judaism. For Hillel said (Sabbath 31.): "What you do not like to be done to you do not do to others. This is the main object of the Torah, the rest is commentary. Go and study!" It only mentions a negative formula, what not to do, but none of a positive nature. No society can be formed from negatives alone. It has to have a positive, a constructive application.

I would rather refer to the great teacher Yechonon ben Zakai, who had five brilliant students, and he asked them (Talmud Fathers 8.): "Which is the best virtue for a man to choose?" One said, "A good eye, that is to wish all well," the other—"A good comrade," the third—"A good neighbor," the fourth—"A good foresight," the fifth—"A good heart." The teacher accepted the fifth as the correct answer explaining that all the other virtues are included in a good heart.

All through the fifth book of the Old Testament it is mentioned again and again that the covenant is given to Israel for the sole purpose of a good, clean and ethical life here on earth. Nowhere in the Old Testament is mentioned Hell or Heaven or Hereafter. It talks only about life and ethical treatment of your fellow man.

I may also add that besides good virtues and ethical behavior, which would be impossible to enumerate, Judaism stands for true democracy, freedom of expression and love for liberty.

Moses advised against having a King. Later the Prophet Samuel warned them not to crown anyone, for he will tax them, enslave them, and keep them poor. However, when the people insisted upon having a king, he himself crowned Saul to be the first king of Israel, because it was the will of the people. That is democracy.

Maimonides (1135-1204) insists that any decree a senate wishes to issue, they must first have a referendum of the people.

Finally, regarding the Hebrew tongue, I love Hebrew but I would be wrong to state that it is the only beautiful language. Every language is beautiful when it is spoken to perfection. As far as Jewish culture is concerned, the Talmud was written mostly in Aramaic.

The best philosophical book of Maimonides was written in Arabic. All the great works of the great philosopher Spinoza were written in Latin. It really makes no difference which languages, so long as it brings out the best of you.

As an example of true Judaism, we can point to a great man whom we lost just a few days ago—Dr. Herman Grossman. A man who sacrificed his own life to help others. A man who was loved by everyone who ever came in contact with him. This was a man who truly represented Judaism.

'Shlemiel of Fortune'

(Reprinted from Newsweek Magazine)

Mickey Katz, creator of Yiddish parodies on popular songs (sample: "Geshray of De Vilde Kotchke," otherwise remembered as "Cry of the Wild Goose") had no notion of being a comedian when he started his career. He wanted to be a bandleader, and a bandleader he became. But in Cleveland, his home town, he also had a radio show on which he told fairy tales in dialect, the result of which was a book called "Nonsense and 'Who's Who and What's What'."

Before long, Mickey wove his comic routines into a band act which Betty Hutton took to Europe with her on a war-time GI tour. Then in 1946, Katz joined Spike Jones and became a popular feature in that zany aggregation. After he left Jones, Katz wrote and starred in a re-

Pardon My Glove

By CHARLES W. PINE

GEORGIE ARAUJO, Providence's lightweight title contender, turned in one of the sorriest performances of his career last Friday night against Arthur King of Toronto in their widely-televised Madison Square Garden bout.

In this column last week, we predicted that King wouldn't win more than three or four rounds. Actually, the sharp countering Canadian won 6-4 in our book or, at worst, eked out a 5-4-1 edge.

Araujo virtually forgot he owns an effective left jab of his own, levelled the bulk of his attack to the body instead of the head (Paddy DeMarco found out, to his sorrow, that a body attack doesn't perturb Mr. King too much), and threw half of his right hand smashes while off-balance.

Time and time again, Georgie would bound in with a sweeping left hook, only to find King neatly picking it off with his right glove or shoulder. That in itself wouldn't be too bad if it weren't for the fact that King, simultaneously, would counter with stiff left hooks to Georgie's head which, more often than not, found their target in convincing fashion.

Georgie's famed combination punches were conspicuous by their absence in most rounds. And, in the infighting, he frequently found his head bobbing backwards as a result of King's ripping uppercuts. All in all, the crowd had every right to boo the decision and our hope is that a return match will be arranged soon. An Araujo with better timing, more jabbing and less bouncing could emerge a real victor—even assuming King fights the same creditable fight he did last week.

We are in complete accord with the Bulletin's Mike Thomas when he predicts Rocky Marciano will knock out Harry "Kid" Matthews on the night of July 28. Frankly, we think Matthews is one of the most overrated fighters to come down the pugilistic pike in recent years. Astute ballyhoo by his shrewd manager, Jack Hurley, has been far more responsible than Matthews' skill for the latter's position of prominence in the heavyweight fistic picture.

Those who closely watched Matthews in action against Danny Nardico some months back noted the ease with which Nardico, a sturdy lad but hardly of championship calibre, tagged Mr. Matthews with right hand shots to the head. Keep in mind that Marciano possesses the most potent right hand in the game today—and you'll realize why Rocky will win by a K.O. long before the bell has sounded for the tenth.

GROSSINGER'S, in Ferndale, N. Y., was the return address on a letter we received the other day from Joey Maxim, who, on June 23, is placing his light heavyweight title on the line for "Sugar" Ray Robinson to shoot at.

Joey, it seems, is training near the airport, just three miles from the fabulous resort center, and says "it's a wonderful place," an observation that probably is shared by many readers of this weekly.

"I want to win this one bad," he writes. His reasons for wanting to win are personal in nature and must be dismissed here. The significant factor to us is Joey's seriousness about this match. His determination is usually in direct proportion to his performance—and that's one of the reasons why we're hesitantly picking him over the remarkable Mr. Robinson.

That, plus the fact that Joey has one of the finest left hands in the business, amazing ring "savvy," and a two-year-edge in age over "Sugar" Ray.

My wife, who knows Joey equally well and has witnessed Robinson, as well as Maxim, in action on several occasions, is firmly convinced that Robinson will win.

The age factor can be tossed out of the window, she says, pointing to one Joe Walcott. Robinson's left is just as good as Maxim's and, what's more, "Sugar" Ray hits much harder with either hand. Joey admittedly is a ring "cutie" but no more so than the lithe man from Harlem. And Robinson, with a chance to become one of the few men in boxing who have held three different divisional world championships, will be just as determined as Maxim, she concludes triumphantly.

Me, I'm not arguing. We'll be sitting side by side the night of June 23 at Yankee Stadium—but don't be surprised if we leave by different exits!

Wins Scholarship

AARON J. SHATKIN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Shatkin of 89 Budlong Avenue, Norwood, has been awarded a full-tuition scholarship to Bowdoin College. A recent graduate of Aldrich High School, where he was a member of the Rhode Island Honor Society, he won this year's second award in the New England Science Fair. Among his honors are the American Legion School Award, the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award, and four first grants, one second grant, and one third grant in the Rhode Island Schools' Science Fair.

The biggest in town!

Here's a nickel that buys plenty of service... comfort and entertainment. It's a nickel spent for electric service! For example, here's what 5c worth of electric service can do for your family:

- Make toast for you and your family for all three meals... (A penny's worth does that!)
- Swish clean three full tubs of laundry... (Only a penny for that power, too!)
- Vacuum six large rugs... (Lots of work for a cent's worth of electricity!)

- Furnish a cooling breeze for four full hours...
- AND
- Bring you and your family an evening's entertainment!

Where else could the average family get so much value for one small nickel? In fact, your electric service is just about the biggest bargain in your family budget. Don't you agree?

SYD COHEN:
 Baseball Oddities

Baseball may be a serious business, but the game still has its humorous side, as witness the following excerpts from the week's news:

Eddie Sawyer may not allow the wives to accompany the Phillies to training camp, but the better half (halves, for you grammarians) really took over the situation out in Phoenix, Arizona a few weeks back.

It seems the promotion-minded management made a deal with the club mascot to personally reward each player who hit a home run. That in itself may sound innocent enough, if a trifle unusual. The fog lifts, however, when it is learned that the "mascot" is the very pretty Donna Drew, a local TV actress—and that the reward is a kiss.

The wives banded together and raised a rumpus — and the beautiful Donna stopped doing her bussing in public. Last reports were that she would not accompany the team on road trips, either.

What did the players think of their wives' action? Are you kidding? No comment, of course.

And the poor management loses money on the deal. As a substitute for the kissing, it now pays a very cold and impersonal five "smackers" for a homer.

Down in Tampa, Florida Pitcher Chet Covington not only ties the opposition in knots, he ties the knots for his friends. Chet happens to be a notary public on the side, so it figures that when a teammate took unto himself a bride, he should hire Covington to officiate.

And where was the ceremony held? Why, where else would a pitcher do his best work? At home plate, of course!

When Jimmy Piersall and Billy Martin had it out with their fists before a recent Red Sox-Yankee game, Ellis Kinder and Bill Dickey, who tried to break up the battle, took a little pounding themselves.

A similar situation arose in Toledo during a recent American Association game between the Kansas City Blues and the Toledo Mud Hens. The Blues' Vic Power, currently leading the league in hitting, tangled with catcher Walt Novick of the Mud Hens. While the two men sprawled on the ground, members of both clubs dashed up to quell the disorder.

When the smoke of battle had cleared, Manager George Selkirk of KC looked like the object of Power's and Novick's affections. Selkirk sported a spike wound and suffered also from a poke on the jaw administered accidentally by a Toledo outfielder. Pitcher Ernie Nevel, another would-be soothsayer, was hit in the eye.

No report on how Power and Novick fared. Probably not a scratch. Sounds like they missed all the fun.

You think Lou Boudreau is an unorthodox manager? You haven't forgotten, maybe, how Paul Richards moved a pitcher to third base while a relief twirler retired a dangerous hitter, then brought him back to the mound? Haw! Boudreau and Richards have nothing on Jo Jo White, former Tiger outfield star, now managing San Antonio in the Texas League.

During a game with Beaumont on Memorial Day, White thought fast when, with the score tied in the last of the tenth inning, Beaumont loaded the bases with only one out. Jo-Jo called his entire infield to the edge of the grass and moved his left fielder in to play a deep shortstop.

Sure enough—the batter hit a grounder through the drawn-in infield, but right into the glove of the extra shortstop, who started a double play that saved San Antonio.

Somewhere, Jo Jo read that nothing succeeds like success; so, when Beaumont loaded the bases again in the twelfth, and again with only one out, White set up the same shift, this time calling in the center fielder to play deep shortstop.

The batter thereupon looped a harmless fly to short center that normally might have been caught. The "shortstop" couldn't reach it—and the ball dropped in for a game-winning single.

Exit one saddened strategist.

The St. Louis Browns are paying two managers—Marty Marion and the deposed Rajah Hornsby, who gets paid for idling for the next three years. Pity, then, the poor luckless Braves, who are sending checks regularly to THREE men listed as managers. Chronologically speaking, they are Billy Southworth, whose contract, at $50,000 per, still has six months to run; Tommy Holmes, now with the Brooklyn Dodgers, and the incumbent, Charley Grimm.

Too many cooks may spoil the broth, and too many managers put the owner right in the pot. One more ex-manager and it may be cheaper for Perini to turn the club over to them.

Hal and Stan Charnofsky, 20-year-old twin brothers from the University of Southern California, signed contracts with the New York Yankees upon their graduation recently. The fact that they form a second base combination is an oddity in itself.

But here's the punchline. The Yanks assigned the twins to Binghamton in the Eastern League. And what is Binghamton's team name? The TRIPLETS!

The Senators and Browns were mixed up in a 17-inning night game. In the 16th inning, with the hour growing late and the slow-moving Satchell Paige on the mound, a fan broke the tension with this crack:

"Hurry up, Satch! You can sleep all day, but I gotta get up in the morning!"

A baseball field commonly is known as a diamond. So it is fitting that the groundskeeper at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, resides on DIAMOND Street.

During the telecast of the Walcott-Charles minuet, Paul Richards appeared on the commercial, holding a razor in his hand. Paul's White Sox had just lost their fifth game in a row, which prompted some wag to yell: "Take it away from him—before he cuts his throat."

Honor Student

S. HAROLD REUTER, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Reuter of 55 Warrington Street, was recently elected to Rho Chi, national pharmaceutical honor society at the University of Connecticut.

A senior, Reuter was awarded the George A. Bolles prize for the highest average attained in the first two years at the College of Pharmacy and the Kappa Psi prize for the highest average in organic chemistry.

Reuter, a Hope High School graduate, was a member of the Rhode Island Honor Society.

Foods To Remember

CRISP GRATED POTATO PANCAKES

- 6 medium size potatoes
- 1 onion
- 1 small carrot
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup flour (approximately)
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Melted vegetable shortening or oil for deep frying

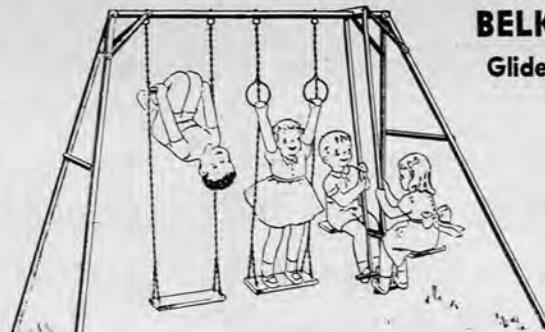

Pare and grate the potatoes into a large mixing bowl. Squeeze out the liquid. Grate in the onion and carrot. Add the eggs, flour and salt to make a smooth batter heavy enough to drop from a spoon and hold its shape. Because some potatoes are more watery in content than others, more flour may be added if necessary to achieve the right consistency of batter. Now heat the shortening in a heavy frying pan and drop the batter by small or large spoonfuls into the heated fat. Cook over moderate heat till the pancakes are nicely browned at the edges before turning to brown on the other side. Be sure to use enough melted fat to cover the pancakes in order to have crisp, well-cooked latkes from which fat drains off easily as each pancake is lifted out. Drain off any excess fat by placing the pancakes on paper towels. Serve with pot roast or separately. Serves 6.

Graduation Tea at Home for Aged

A graduation tea for members of the occupational therapy classes of the Jewish Home for the Aged was held at the Home on June 5. Gifts and prizes were distributed to the members of the class and a program of entertainment was presented which included readings by Mrs. Barney M. Goldberg, songs by Mrs. Sherwin J. Kapstein and piano selections by Miss Bernice Bornside.

Knitted articles made by the class were exhibited at the Senior Citizens Hobby Show, held at the Providence Gas Company June 17-19.

Mesdames George Ludman, David Lichtman and Walter D. Markoff of the Ladies Association of the Home, who direct the activities of the class throughout the year, were in charge of the afternoon's program.

Bring Customers Back Again and Again and Again!

Attractive stores invite customers to come often . . . stay longer . . . buy more. The easiest, least expensive way to give your store new "customer appeal" is to have us design and install a modern floor of rubber or asphalt tile, or linoleum. These modern floorcoverings last longer . . . look better and require little maintenance. Best of all, the cost is surprisingly low. Ask us to give you an estimate for new floors for your store.

SUNDAY'S SCHEDULE
Technoprint vs Natcor at Hopkins Park; Cranston vs Waldorf at Aqueduct Field, Cranston; M & F Insurance vs Broadway Auto at Roger Williams Park.

Cranston gained sole possession of first place by taking two games from Natcor. Overcoming a 4-1 deficit in the fifth inning, Cranston went on to win by 6-4 in the opener. Mickler had three hits and Gordon and Krasner two each for the winners, while Seltzer and Rothchild hit well for the losers.

The second game was a rout as Cranston jumped off to a five run lead, aided by home runs by Mickler, Foster and Rappaport in the first inning. Mickler had a second homer later in the 12-6 affair. Samdperil's fielding was outstanding for the winners.

Technoprint and Broadway Auto split, the printers taking the first game 10-1 behind the classy 5-hitter of Ralph Winn, the fielding of George Karembelas, who also homered, and the three hits and five RBI of Hiltie Rifkin. Winn tossed a 2-hit shutout for six innings.

The Automen rebounded for a 6-2 win in the nightcap behind Jack Steiner. Shabby support got the losers' Brown off to a bad start, three runs scoring for the winners. Bobby Goldis' 2-run triple iced the game in the sixth. Ross and Roitman fielded well for the winners, while Karembelas had a second homer.

In a free hitting game Waldorf Tuxedo took the measure of M & F Insurance 14-9. Homers by Rodman and DelVecchio and the hitting of Shoren and Tetreault paced Waldorf. Buckler had a homer and two other hits in the losing cause, and Spongian was spectacular in the field.

The nightcap was a seesaw affair. Waldorf overcame a 5-2 lead when Aiello homered with two on in the sixth, and then went ahead in the top of the seventh with another three run outburst. But a 3-run homer by Spongian tied it in the bottom half, and Ludman singled home the winning run in the eighth.

Scenes at B'nai B'rith Women Installation

Membership Results To be Announced

Final reports on the Membership Enrollment campaign of the Jewish Community Center will be made in the very near future, it was reported this week, with the announced goal of $17,000 in membership income practically certain of being surpassed.

Approximately 225 adult members and friends of the Center attended the hot dog roast, sponsored by the Membership Enrollment committee, and held Saturday evening on the grounds of the Center. The affair included square dancing in the auditorium, with Mr. and Mrs. Leo Weiss in charge.

CRANSTON WOMEN MEET

The ways and means committee of the women's division of the Cranston Jewish Center met recently at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Samuel Jacobs, of Edgewood. Mrs. Albert Cohen was appointed co-chairman. Fund-raising projects for the summer and fall were discussed. Proceeds will be used to equip the kitchen of the new Center.
