Annual JWB Convention To Be Held In Providence

Select Local Center For Affair

Bertram L. Bernhardt, a long time member of the board of directors of the Jewish Community Center, and active in civic and communal affairs, has been named chairman of the 42nd annual convention of the New England Section-National Jewish Welfare Board, to be held at the Center in Providence on Nov. 15-16.

In addition, Milton C. Kay, vice-president of the Center, has been named co-chairman.

The New England Section is one of eight through which the National Jewish Welfare Board (JWB) functions as the national association of Jewish Community Centers and YM-YWHAs. Forty-two Centers and Ys in Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut are provided field service and programming assistance by the New England Section of JWB.

The JWB is also the government-authorized agency for serving the morale, welfare, and religious needs of Jewish men and women in the United States Armed Forces and in veterans hospitals, and the sponsoring agency of the Jewish Book Council of America, National Jewish Music Council, National Jewish Youth Conference and the Jewish Center Lecture Bureau. It represents the American Jewish Community in the United Service Organizations (USO).

The Saturday night theme of the convention will be "Front and Center—JWB Charts Its Future

BERTRAM L. BERNHARDT

Course." This session will be addressed by Irving Edison, president of the National Jewish Welfare Board.

Other items on the agenda will include (1) Board and staff function as a partnership within the Center; (2) The Jewish Community Center serves the entire community; (3) The Center programs for its dynamic teen-agers; (4) A new approach to day camping within the Center; and (5) Music in the Jewish Center, which will be provided by Leah Jaffa, Music Consultant for the National Jewish Welfare Board.

The delegates and guests will also help shape National JWB policy and make plans for the celebration of the Centennial of the Jewish Community Center movement in 1954.

Cleveland Group Pledges Support of NCRAC Work

CLEVELAND — The board of trustees of the Cleveland Jewish Community Federation has adopted a four-point resolution on community relations work in which it pledges support to the National Community Relations Advisory Council in becoming "an increasingly creative instrument in the field of community relations."

The resolution expressed satisfaction with the "earnest efforts" made by the plenary session of the NCRAC at Atlantic City to bridge differences between the majority and the two agencies, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and the American Jewish Committee, through the Barr compromise proposals. It voiced regret that the two agencies had withdrawn from the NCRAC and the hope they would soon find it possible to return.

With regard to community relations work in Cleveland, the resolution expressed the intention "to continue the fine relationships and the process of joint planning by all organizations and by representatives of all points of view in our community."

Warburg To Address GJC Committee Heads

EDWARD M. M. WARBURG

To Complete Plans For Nov. 9 Event

The significance of the forthcoming General Jewish Committee campaign in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal was underscored this week when Sidney A. Kane, chairman of the local Initial Gifts Committee, announced that Edward M. M. Warburg, national UJA chairman, will meet with a group of committee co-chairmen and key workers on Oct. 22 at the Elm Grove Avenue home of Henry J. Hassenfeld, 1952 campaign chairman.

Warburg, highest-ranking UJA official, brilliant speaker and one of the country's most distinguished humanitarian personalities, is the sort of celebrity who usually addresses a major affair such as an Initial Gifts dinner itself. When local GJC officials contacted the UJA in New York and asked for a speaker to outline UJA plans for Winter aid to Israel, they were astonished to learn that Warburg had volunteered to undertake the assignment.

As Warburg put it: "This fateful year, every dollar and every worker looms more important than ever in Israel's economic and spiritual future. When I heard that Providence desired a speaker and when I realized that Oct. 22 was one of the rare open dates in my schedule, I immediately volunteered for the assignment."

In a letter to local GJC officials, Warburg said that the success of the forthcoming UJA Fall campaigns was the key that would open the door marked "Homecoming" from the room marked "Homecoming." He said Israel must receive financial aid immediately "to avert a winter flood disaster similar to last year's—which destroyed vital crops, agricultural settlements and immigrant living quarters."

Warburg in 1949 directed the mass airlift transfer to Israel of virtually the entire Jewish community of Yemen. Two years earlier, he had helped organized the JDC's celebrated port of embarkation in Marseilles, France, which in 1947 and 1948 sent tens of thousands of Jewish DP's to Israel, following weeks of special medical, vocational and rehabilitation care made possible by the U.J.A.

A GJC official said this week that the Oct. 22 meeting will be devoted to completing final plans to assure maximum attendance at the Initial Gifts Dinner on Nov. 9 which will mark the official opening of the GJC's Men's Division campaign.

Call To Register And Vote

NEW YORK—The commission on religious organizations of the National Conference of Christians and Jews appealed last week to members of the three major religious faiths to register and vote in the forthcoming presidential election. "We urge our fellow-citizens to survey with thoughtfulness and with full regard to the religious principles held important by Christians and Jews the issues and the candidates and then to register their best judgment by their vote," the statement declared.

46 Million Now Invested in Israel

NEW YORK—Private American and Canadian investors have invested a total of $46,000,000 in Israel in the past four years, it was reported here by the economic department of the Jewish Agency. Publication of the report by the Agency coincided with a meeting of American Government, industrial and banking representatives in San Francisco who discussed methods of promoting investment of U. S. private capital in underdeveloped areas.

The report stated that of 731 new enterprises given formal approval by the Israel Government since the establishment of the State, 601—representing $138,000,000 in investments—were of foreign origin. Of the latter, 219 enterprises were established by Americans and Canadians and 19 by Latin American investors.

Make No Distinction, Naguib Says

LONDON—The Egyptian Government makes no distinction among Moslems, Christians or Jews, General Mohammed Naguib, Egyptian Premier and commander of the armed forces, told the staff of the Jewish Hospital in Alexandria during a visit to the institution, it was reported here. "I am proud and happy to see the good deeds you are performing for the poor and the sick without regard to nationality or religion," the General said. Signing the hospital's register at the conclusion of his visit, he wrote that he had found "angels taking care of the sick of all nationalities and religions."

Reply To Note On Oren Case

TEL AVIV—The Israel Foreign Ministry last week termed "unsatisfactory" a memorandum from the Czechoslovak Government replying to a note handed Prague officials last June concerning the arrest of Mordechai Oren, Israeli Mafam leader, in Czechoslovakia last year. A Foreign Ministry spokesman said his government considered the Czechoslovak reply "unsatisfactory" and would continue its activities in the Oren case.

Polio Victim Receives Football Souvenirs from AEPi Fraternity

A little Rhode Island boy convalescing from polio is having his bedroom redecorated this week with an inscribed Penn State football and autographed photographs of Nittany Lion gridiron players.

The polio victim is 10-year-old Jaycee Rosenthal, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ellis Rosenthal of Cranston. Jaycee is receiving these personalized souvenirs of the Penn State football team mainly through the efforts of Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity.

And he still hasn't heard the last from AEPi. The fraternity brothers have now collected $50 among themselves, partly through goldfish-swallowing exhibitions. This sum will be used towards the purchase of a 3-speed phonograph and records for Jaycee.

Here's how it all started. Jaycee's mother asked her neighbor, Mrs. Albert Cohen, to write her twin sons, Freddie and Larry Cohen, pledges at AEPi on campus, requesting autographed pictures of some members of the football team. The twins are assistant managers of the squad.

The Cohens approached a pledge brother, Ed Austin, Daily Collegian photographer, for help in complying with the request. Together the three obtained autographed photographs of co-captains Stu Scheetz and Joe Gratson, Tony Rados, Jesse Arnelle, Dick Jones, Joe Yukica and Coach Rip Engle.

Coach Engle, in autographing his photograph for Jaycee, added, "I know you can win the big game ahead of you." He also contributed a football which was later painted with "Penn State—AEPi 1952."

After the football and photographs were obtained, the entire house decided to adopt Jaycee's cause. At lunch last Friday Ronald Zweigenbaum suggested a collection for the little polio victim and netted $26.

The goldfish-swallowing took place last Friday after supper. Barton Burke volunteered to swallow a goldfish he had just purchased if the fraternity members would contribute $15.

But gold fish-swallowing wasn't as easy as Burke had expected. After he failed three times in a row he offered to contribute $5 to Jaycee's fund if anyone could succeed.

Then Howard Salus stepped forward and downed the goldfish on the second attempt. The exhibition swelled AEPi's amount for Jaycee's phonograph to nearly $50.

Now Jaycee will feel a bit closer to Penn State's football team because of his autographed pictures of the players. And perhaps he'll find his convalescence in bed a bit easier when he listens to strains of music on his new phonograph.

Cranston Wins Softball Crown

by HOWIE COHEN

Cranston Jewish Center's softball team, champions during the 1952 regular season, wound up the playoffs in impressive style Sunday by sweeping a double header from Broadway Auto, 13-6 and 6-4. The teams had split the opening double header two weeks ago.

Jerry Gordon outpitched Jack Steiner and Herb Goldis in the opener while his mates hit hard and often. Erwin Summer led the attack with 4-for-5, while Gordon, Al Samdperil and Shocket had three hits each.

Cranston came from behind with two runs each in the fifth and sixth innings to cop the nightcap behind Harold Warren's 5-hit pitching. Broadway got all its hits and runs in the top of the fifth frame. Two costly infield errors cost relief pitcher Steiner a chance to win this game. Mal Mickler led the champs with three hits. The rival center fielders, Gordon for Cranston and Kaplan for Broadway Auto, were sensational in the outer gardens.

SOFTBALL BANQUET

The Softball League will hold its annual banquet on Thursday, Oct. 30 at Lindsey's Tavern, Pawtucket, Jack Steiner, chairman, announced Sunday. The program will include guest speakers and presentation of awards. Reservations and information may be obtained from Steiner, HO 1-7884, or Howie Cohen, DE 1-6215.

Red Feather Serves Jewish Community

Camping for children is only one of the varied services of Red Feather agencies serving the Rhode Island Jewish Community. Here are two children using modeling clay at the Jewish Community Center's Day Camp, Centerland, in Hope, R. I.

Jewish Agencies Receive $66,932 from Community Chest

All members of Rhode Island's Jewish Community are keenly interested in the work of all Red Feather agencies which, 100 strong, furnish over 180,000 annual services to people of all faiths throughout our state. Four Red Feather agencies are set up essentially to furnish service to the Jewish people and received a total of $66,932 in Chest allocations for the current operating year.

Two of these agencies, Miriam Hospital and Jewish Family and Children's Service, receive no money from the General Jewish Committee. Only Camp Jori is allocated funds by the United Jewish Appeal, and these funds come from the Blackstone Valley U.J.A., in addition to the allocation made by R. I. Community Chests.

In view of this fact, not altogether generally understood by the Jewish Community, Red Feather officials are hopeful of an enthusiastic response to the annual Red Feather Campaign from the Jewish people of Rhode Island. All are urged to make increased pledges this year, since the campaign, in order to reach its goal of $1,701,280 must raise over $200,000 more than the amount raised in 1951.

JFCS Dependent

Jewish Family and Children's Service is particularly dependent upon the success of the Red Feather Campaign. This agency is budgeted for $25,932 from the Chest, or 80 percent of the total operating budget of the agency for the current year.

In 1951, 421 families sought the services of professionally trained social workers at the JFCS, whose 1951 budget of $25,789 was completely subsidized by money raised in the Red Feather Campaign.

To meet the needs of the Jewish Community, the agency over the years has expanded from its initial objective of relief giving during the depression days to offering a varied type of program. Agency social workers work with the aged, emotionally maladjusted individuals, people in need of employment, and those who have marital difficulties. They see to the placement of children in foster homes or for adoption and help families and individuals to work out many kinds of troubles.

Working quietly during the year, the staff has interpreted to Board members, members of the various professions and community organizations, the purpose of the agency so that proper referrals can be made. Physicians, for example, use the agency to assist their treatment of patients since it has been shown that emotional upheavals can destroy many of the gains made by medical care. Early referrals of couples contemplating divorce have already shown results. Eight couples were reunited during the year and their families kept intact.

Statistics indicate that financial assistance on an emergency basis was given to an average of ten families a month. A total of $2500.00 was expended for this purpose. Of necessity, assistance is given on a temporary basis and only when family rehabilitation is considered likely. This is due to the expansion of State and Federal Public Assistance programs which care for those individuals who need long-time financial aid.

Psychiatry Helps

A significant development in the agency has resulted in a psychiatric consultant being added to the staff, his purpose being to discuss case situations with the workers so that they may gain a better understanding of personality behavior.

Bearing out the value of this method, the agency cites Joan, a ten-year-old girl who was thought to be extremely dull because of her repeated school failures. Her slovenly habits were so obnoxious that other children rejected her. Completely misunderstood, Joan withdrew from everyone around her. Only in desperation and after many frustrating experiences was Joan brought to the JFCS, having been referred by a Board member. When she was seen, she really was a completely dejected child. Misunderstood and broken in spirit, her parents were beside themselves, but once they saw the interest of the case workers, they expressed a great sense of comfort in knowing that others were concerned.

In a matter of time, after Joan was seen twice weekly by her case workers, she began to come out of her shell. She showed interest in the agency game room, went out on walks and asked to go to a camp. After consultation with the agency psychiatrist, a special set of examinations were ordered. It was discovered that an organic defect was part of the cause of Joan's trouble. The diagnosis was difficult for the parents to accept but they were willing to revamp their way of living so that Joan would be helped. If Joan were neglected, the com-

"One Man's Opinion"

BY BERYL SEGAL

One of the Fifteen

Dr. Alex M. Burgess, chairman of the Rhode Island DP Committee, in his final report to the Governor, states:

"... of the 15 physicians known to have come to Rhode Island, all have done creditable work in hospitals, and have rendered a valuable service to the state."

It has been my good fortune to know well one of these 15 physicians from the very first day he came to live in our city. I have observed his work day by day these past three years. I find great delight in his friendship to this day. He and his lovely wife are close friends of the family. I can therefore subscribe wholeheartedly to the evaluation of Dr. Burgess.

This one of the 15 physicians of whom the report speaks has indeed done creditable work, and is certainly rendering a priceless service to the health of the community.

I remember the first day I met Dr. William Vindzberg at the Miriam Hospital. His room was above my office, and I was aware that morning, when I came to work, that someone was pacing the floor overhead. Then suddenly I heard a voice, guttural and precise, sounding out words very slowly and deliberately.

"I am the doctor. You are the patient."

"How do you feel?"

"Do you feel better?"

On and on the voice sounded overhead, in a guttural monotone. This was Dr. Vindzberg learning English by repeating aloud to himself words and phrases. Later that morning I spoke to him at length, and I confess now that I was greatly disturbed by his meager knowledge of the language. How is he going to make himself understood by the nurses, by the patients, by the doctors? What is he going to do this very minute when he gets to the bedside of his first patient? True enough, his colleague, Dr. Max Fershtman, was by his side, and guided him as a father guides a child. But Dr. Fershtman cannot be with him all the time. What will the patients say of a doctor whom they cannot understand?

Needed No Words

These thoughts ran through my mind all that day and in the days that followed.

community and family would have suffered a great loss both financially and socially, as Joan eventually would have had to be taken away from her home. Now she is back in the neighborhood playing once more with the children on her street.

Adoption Program

Licensed by the State, the JFCS is authorized to carry out an adoption program. Recently an Advisory Committee made up of specialists have assisted the staff in developing this service. Shortly, an Information Center for the Aged will be established, with the Jewish Family and Children's Service and Family Service, Inc., sponsoring the project. In line with a plan worked out by the Rhode Island Refugee Service and the General Jewish Committee, the agency will assume the responsibility of working with new Americans in January, 1953.

Many requests are made daily for competent women to come into the home, to step in on an emergency situation. It is hoped that this service of providing homemakers can be placed on a permanent basis. Some of the emergency situations result where a mother may be placed in a hospital, leaving the children unattended while the father goes to work.

The importance of success for the Red Feather Campaign to the Jewish community is further seen in the large number of volunteer workers who are giving time and effort as well as money to the current campaign.

But Dr. Vindzberg proved that just as music needs no words to communicate with people of all climes and all origins, so does the medical "art" speak a universal language. Certainly the medical art as practiced by Dr. Vindzberg can overcome language barriers. It needs few words, because it speaks from the heart. A sick person needs no long speeches, nor eloquent conversations. A warm touch of the hand. A kind look of the eyes. A sincere concern on the face. A tireless effort to allay pain. These are the ingredients of Dr. Vindzberg's practice of medicine. These the patients readily understood, though the words were spoken with difficulty and their sound was unfamiliar.

During the two years of Dr. William Vindzberg's residency at the Miriam Hospital we watched him grow in popularity among the nurses with whom he had to work, and with the sick whom he comforted. How he managed to do it with his poor command of English is still a mystery. But perhaps it is no mystery at all. He managed by doing.

Always Making Rounds

He was to be found in the wards at all hours of day and night. He did the work of the doctor, the laboratory technician, the x-ray man, yes, and the work of the nurse. He worked on the service patient as on the private case. He was concerned over the maternity ward as over a surgical floor.

There were no such things as definite rounds of the wards. He was always making rounds. He was there when he was needed, and that means all the time. He would wake up in the middle of the night, not just occasionally, but routinely, to walk through the wards, perchance some one may need his help, be it a change of dressing, or just a word of reassurance.

In time we began to overlook, and even to forget his imperfection in English, and we learned to value his knowledge of other languages. He spoke Yiddish to the old people from the Home for the Aged. He made recent refugees feel at ease by speaking to them in German. He conversed in Lithuanian, Russian, and Polish with patients for whom these languages were the mother tongue.

But more than language, he brought into his work a deep understanding for pain and suffering. He who himself knew pain and suffering in full measure, knew its horrors, and rested not until he relieved them in others.

Yes, Dr. Burgess stated correctly in his report to the Governor. This doctor, one of the 15, did creditable work during the two years of his residency at the Miriam Hospital.

A year ago, in September, Dr. William Vindzberg accepted a position at the State Sanatorium, in Wallum Lake. A new field, and a new experience. He who had years of medical practice behind him; he who headed a large hospital overseas in Kaunas, Lithuania, and a DP hospital in Germany, must now start all over again. He who established a reputation in one special phase of medicine, must now become a beginner in an entirely new field. It was enough to discourage any man. But it did not discourage Dr. Vindzberg, one of the 15 DP physicians who came to work in our state.

A new environment? An unfamiliar sickness? A strange regime? But the sick are the same everywhere. They are people, and the human approach opens all doors, and guides over the most difficult paths, and overcomes barriers.

Report from Wallum Lake

After the first year at Wallum Lake, here is what the Superintendent of the State Sanatorium, Dr. William B. O'Brien, writes in Annual Report, just released.

"In September, Dr. William Vindzberg was added to the staff, coming to us from the Miriam Hospital in Providence. He has adapted himself very well to the regime of the sanatorium and is of great assistance, not only medically, but particularly since he has taken over the surgical ward..."

Some time ago, in speaking to Dr. O'Brien, as fair a man as I ever want to meet, he said to me referring to Dr. Vindzberg:

"This is the kind of man we want."

In May the Sanatorium sent him to Saranac Lake where he spent a month at the Trudeau School of TB. This month he is to attend a convention of the Trudeau Society in Philadelphia. Dr. William Vindzberg is now at home in modern methods of treating TB as if this were his field for many, many years.

At the Sanatorium, as at the Miriam, Dr. Vindzberg worries over his patients and is concerned with their well-being far above his call of duty. The patients know it. Here, too, he speaks to them the universal language of sympathy and understanding, and they respond readily, though his English even now is far from perfect, and the words-sound strange and obscure.

Letter from Patients

I have before me a letter written by the patients of one section of the Sanatorium, addressed to the Superintendent, and containing 54 signatures. I wish I could reproduce the letter in its entirety, signatures and all. But suffice to quote the text:

"Dear Doctor O'Brien,

We the patients on North 3, express our feelings in regard of Doctor Vindzberg. We are very upset about hearing that Doctor Vindzberg is leaving us. We would appreciate greatly if in any way we could retain him as our Doctor. To us he has been and is the best Doctor in the world. He is a father to us and real friend, real pal, and a real good American. Words cannot express how much he has done and means to us. We the patients on North 3, Doctor O'Brien, appreciate your reading and giving this letter consideration."

The letter needs no comments. The 54 signatures are ample testimony to the man and his ways.

Dr. Alex Burgess and his committee will find ample reward in this testimony for their efforts on behalf of the DP physicians.

All of us who in some measure have helped bring DP's to our state and made their tasks easier for them, will find satisfaction in the fine record of one of the many DP's.

If you are ever pained by attacks on DP's by politicians and by demagogues, and, sometimes, by your own misinformed friends, let this story of one of the 15 physicians reaffirm your faith in the DP's. Dr. Vindzberg, I am sure, is not an exception. His story I know best. That there are many more like him among the Displaced Persons who reside among us, of that I am sure.

BOWLING Our Younger Set

FINEMAN-TRINKEL POST
by Jack Jacobson

Harry Shore's superb performance of rolling 114, 142 and 148 for a 404 total set not only the highest mark for this season but it also shattered any existing records in the league's history for three string total. The previous high was 403 held by Mort Klibanoff in 1951. Harry's score, plus Gene Aaronson 355 and Gene Silverman's 326 resulted in new team records of single string high of 592 and high team three total of 1644.

Mort Klibanoff 354 led his team to a 4 point shutout over the White Sox and now they are the only team with a clean record, 8 wins and 0 losses. Clutch bowling by Joe Fishbein (313) and Art Pivnik (324) helped immeasurably in this victory, as it was a close match all the way.

Maurice Siegal's Cubs and Benton Goldblatt's Athletics each won 3 out of 4 and went into a 2nd place tie with a 6-2 record.

High three scores were Merlyn Rodyn 330, Dave Allen, Sam Miller, Nate Gordon and Speed Kessler 327, Mel Wasserman 325, Irving Schaeffer and Irving Datz 323, Allan Silverman and George Luber 321, Les Friedman 318, Jerry Resnick 315, Morris Waitzman and Murray Gordon 314, Morris Satloff 313, George Feldman 309, Jerry Rubin and Phil Shaulson 307, Sam Tapper 306, Norm Gordon and Justin Robinson 305, Arnold Klein-

CAPTION CORRECTION

In a photo of a newly married couple appearing in the Herald on Sept. 26, the name of the bride and groom was listed erroneously as "Mr. and Mrs. James Kaplan." The name should have read "Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Kaplan." The Irwin Kaplans were married on Sept. 7 at United Commercial Travelers Hall.

Is this our dream for her?

THIS IS HER SECOND YEAR in an immigrant tent in Israel. Her playground is a floor of stones . . . her daily food not nearly enough for a growing child . . . her lullaby the lash of rain and wind on canvas.

Is this our dream for her?

And is a tent our special vision for all the desperate men and women we snatched from graveyard lands?

Remember how we pictured them coming home? Remember how we saw their many hands at work . . . the land turning green and fruitful . . . white houses rising on the ancient hills? How we saw the children growing up long-limbed and laughing, the glow of freedom in their eyes?

The 700,000 refugees we helped bring to Israel in four years had to come. Deadlines and danger dictated that they be saved, even though they came too fast for all to be absorbed at once.

Where do we—and they—go now? We must get on with the job.

Your gift to the United Jewish Appeal will help get the newcomers out of the tents, put them in homes on the land, give them tools and a chance to help themselves. It will help turn their great homecoming into the great home making.

So give today, through your local campaign. Give more than ever before.

SYD COHEN:
 World Series Records

World Series history is made every year. Records are set, records are tied, some records remain for another year or two or ten. A check through the World Series record book following the recent New York-Brooklyn donnybrook resulted in some interesting reading. Some of the facts and figures surprised this fan, and they may prove of interest to you. So, for whatever it is worth, here goes.

Since Allie Reynolds has appeared in five series, and worked relief as well as starting assignments in each of them, the thought occurred that with his four appearances this month the Chief must be near some records. Well, that guess was partly right. Allie has taken part in 12 games, which ties the record for pitchers held by Waite Hoyt of the Yankees of the '20's and Art Nehf, southpaw of the Giants of the same vintage. So Reynolds moves up into good company.

But here is an oddity that occurred only six years ago, still bears repeating. Hugh Casey, late and once-great reliever of the Dodgers, appeared in SIX games in ONE Series—in 1947! That mark should never be topped.

Reynolds is the strikeout artist, so let's see how he shapes up in the Series record book. Charley Ruffing of the Yanks is high with 61 total World Series whiffs, and the Chief has 53. Ruffing and Hoyt each appeared in seven Series, two more than Allie.

How about innings pitched? Reynolds has some 70 innings pitched as against Ruffing's 87. But both of them are a long way from Christy Mathewson's record of 101 2/3. Imagine that—the equivalent of ELEVEN complete games in World Series competition (actually, Big Six did go through ten full games), and yet Christy had only 11 total appearances.

Don't go away yet. We're talking about the best now. Mathewson also had four shutouts, still the tops, and he rang up THREE blankings in ONE Series! How about that? Those records have lasted close to 40 years!

Most innings pitched in one game—Babe Ruth of the Red Sox, in a 14-inning game in which the Babe allowed a run in the FIRST inning, then pitched a shutout for 13. And Ruth pitched around 30 consecutive scoreless innings for another record of more than 30 years standing.

Now look at this one. Deacon Phillippe of the Pirates in 1903 worked 44 innings, the equal of five complete games—in one Series, mind you!

Poor Charley Root and Burleigh Grimes posted a record in reverse. They allowed the most home runs in Series competition—eight each.

Root has another one he'd like to forget—four homers hit off him in one game. But what a game! That was the time Babe Ruth called his shot in 1932. Babe hit one early, in the first, I think, then Gehrig poled one in the third. Ruth pointed, then hit the ball in the fifth, and on the next pitch, Gehrig hit his second. It went almost unnoticed. So did Root, as he trudged to the showers.

Another pitcher allowed four circuit clouts in one game. That was Cincinnati's Junior Thompson in 1939, when Keller hit two, Dickey and Joe DiMaggio one each, also in the first five innings.

For extremes in the pitching department, how about Howard Ehmke's 13 strikeouts for the A's in 1929, and Floyd (Bill) Bevens' ten walks in 1947? The last walk was ordered by Yankee manager Bucky Harris, and then Cookie Lavagetto, the next hitter, slugged a double for two runs that beat Bevens—and broke up his no-hit game with two out in the ninth—and that, too, is a record. You can't pitch more of a no-hitter than 8 2/3 innings without actually completing the job.

Enough of pitching records, interesting though they may be. Let's look for a moment at the defense, and recall the awful time that befell poor Roger Peckinpaugh, one of the greats of his day, in the 1925 Series with Washington. Poor Peck had trouble with the peck—eight errors! Read the accounts of that Series, and you find that the more he made, the worse he became. Not a single ball acted right that week on its way to shortstop.

Eddie Collins stole 14 bases and laid down eight sacrifices, both tops. And Babe Ruth struck out 30 times but received 33 bases on balls, hit 15 home runs and totaled 96 bases in his ten Series. So he wasn't exactly a failure. The Babe also hit .625 for one four game Series and took 11 walks in another. Ruth scored 37 runs for another record.

In the cleanup department, Lou Gehrig takes all-time honors. Lou had 35 RBI, including the terrific total of NINE in one Series that ran only FOUR GAMES! What an earth would Lou have done in a seven-game set?

Frankie Frisch, the Fordham Flash, smacked 58 hits in Series play, with the most singles—45, and the most doubles—10. The Babe with three homers in each of two games posted 12 total bases in one game, while Al Simmons and Ross Youngs slugged five total bases in one inning.

The World Series records that were mentioned in the papers are not repeated here. The stuff noted in this column comes from browsing through the past. Archduke Snider is very definitely a big chunk of the present, although his name should stand in the books for some time to come.

If you want to look ahead, the man who stands to gain the most from future Series play is Allie Reynolds. Assuming he may get into one more classic, if his arm doesn't fall off, Allie can break the all-time record for pitching in the most games (he shares the record now), can tie Red Ruffing for most victories (he needs one to tie, two to set a mark of his own), and can set a new strikeout mark (with only nine more).

Oops! Almost forgot one of the most outstanding records of all time. One batter, and one batter alone, in all World Series history, filled opposing pitchers with such awe that he once got two bases on balls in one inning!

Who was this mighty figure? The pitchers' pet—none other than El Goofo, Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, poorest hitter in a long tradition of Yankee sluggers.
