Urge Coverage of Aged Home Donor Cards

Drive Total Now at $411,273

As the Jewish Home For the Aged building fund campaign headed into the home stretch today, it was announced that a total of $411,273 in donations and pledges had been received.

"Coverage—more coverage—and still more coverage—has become the theme of the campaign committee's determined effort to bring the drive to a speedy and successful conclusion.

This Sunday there will be a special workers report meeting at the Home at 11:30 A. M. Sidney A. Kane, campaign chairman, and Dr. Ilie Berger, general gifts chairman, urged that all workers attend this most important meeting.

Workers with outstanding cards were requested to contact their prospects before Sunday's meeting, as cards not covered by that time will be reassigned.

The least heralded and most time-consuming of all campaign work—"mopping-up activities"—will decide whether or not our state-wide community will respond to the challenge thrust upon it, according to Kane and Dr. Berger.

With "Golden-Age Day" behind them, Bertram L. Bernhardt and Mrs. Thomas H. Goldberg, co-chairmen, voiced a special note of thanks to the unselfish and tireless men and women who made that day a success.

Only a few openings remain in the first period for Camp Centerland, Jewish Community Center country day camp at Hope, R. I. It was announced this week. Parents are urged to make reservations for their children immediately.

With registration far ahead of last year, June 1 has been set as a deadline. Latecomers will be placed on a waiting list when capacity is reached for each period, and will be taken on a first-come-first served basis as openings develop, Center officials stated.

Apply Now For Jori Scholarships

The Jori Scholarship Committee is now considering applications for its sixth year, it was announced this week. Since the Scholarship Fund was created in 1948, 132 grants have been made to deserving young men and women who have been able to complete their college education. The sum of $29,492 has been dispersed to date, of which $7,537 was given out last year.

All applicants for scholarship awards receive careful screening by the Jori Committee. The committee requires not only evidence of scholastic ability and financial need, but also some form of initiative, such as summer work and work during the school year, as evidence of a desire to help themselves.

Award winners number pharmacists, medical students, law students, psychology students, nurses, teachers, chemists, engineers, etc.

The committee meets during the Spring for several concentrated meetings, each lasting four to five hours. Each candidate is interviewed, and later his problem is discussed in detail by the committee until a decision is reached. Often the committee as individuals are able to give employment to these students, and on occasion have counseled and guided students towards important decisions.

The Providence Section, National Council of Jewish Women, this year as in the past has given $1,000 towards this venture.

The Jori Scholarship Committee solicits the interest and support of those members of our community who would like to help. Subscriptions should be addressed to Merrill Hassenfeld, treasurer, 1033 Broad Street, Central Falls.

Members of the committee are Benjamin Brier, chairman; Louis I. Kramer, secretary; Hassenfeld, treasurer; Irving I. Fain, Max Kestenman, Alec Miller, Jacob S. Temkin and Alexander Rumpler.

Must Do Job In One Day

"More volunteers!" is the current cry of Mrs. Samuel Michaelson, Grand Marshal for women on the BIG Day staff.

Mrs. Michaelson informed Deputy Grand Marshals at a recent meeting that she will not settle for one less than 1000 BIG Day Brigadiers—the number needed to make a complete one-day canvass of the 7000 Jewish families in Rhode Island.

A veteran of many social and philanthropic endeavors, Mrs. Michaelson stressed the importance of man-power.

"With the number of persons we need," she said, "the proper kind of a job can be done in one day. It is only fair and proper that every household be given an opportunity to join in the Bond campaign either as a worker or a Bond purchaser. This can only happen if 1000 volunteers are enrolled and they in turn, visit every family in the state.

The BIG Day campaign technique is based upon similar, successful promotions in other communities where as much as $2,000,000 worth of Bonds have been sold in one day.

The basis of success lays in having a volunteer organization large enough to do the job completely—down to the last name on the last card." Standing on Rhode Island's BIG Day precedes national BIG Day by one week, the local campaign will have an important effect upon the rest of the country. A record Bonds sale in Rhode Island can raise national results by as much as ten percent, according to the campaign directors.

Myron Cohen To Head List of BIG Stars

Myron Cohen, the fabulous silk salesman turned story teller, whose national popularity is about on a par with three meals a day, will be one of the stars who will highlight the festivities of the BIG Day Show, Sunday evening at the conclusion of BIG Day, in Veterans' Auditorium.

Mr. Cohen's talent for telling stories of the women's ready-to-wear business in which he spent a number of years, has been relished by countless audiences in America's major cities for more than a decade. Some of these stories have been told on television programs but Myron Cohen is known to purposely save his best stories for personal appearances.

An exciting stage show, sparkling with talent and fifty valuable and thrilling awards, will combine to make the BIG Day Show the most outstanding event ever presented in Providence.

The most talked about single feature is the pair of roundtrip air flight tickets to Israel that will be awarded to one of the outstanding Bond salesmen. These tickets are given for use within one year of receipt, must be used by the person winning them and cannot be exchanged for money or any other form of transportation. The actual value of these two tickets from New York to Tel Aviv, is almost $2000.

The BIG Day Show will be the way in which the BIG Day Committee will render its thanks and appreciation to the 1000 volunteers who will work during the day

Games of May 3

Broadway Auto opened impressively, winning 15-4 and 10-1. Jerry Gordon's pitching and hitting paced the Automen in the opener, while Murray Kerzner clouted five hits, including a tremendous home run. Sid Green and Herb Goldis led the Businessmen.

Jack Steiner limited the Hope Streeters to two hits in the nightcap, while Ross and Kerzner hit well and Gordon fielded sensationally. Standouts for the losers were Stan Goldsmith and Sid and Sam Green.

Games of May 10

Behind the steady pitching of Abe Lobel, Esquire Formal Wear took Technoprint in the opening game 10-3. The game was close for six innings, but the winners scored six runs in the seventh frame to ice the decision. Houston, A. Lobel and Weintraub led the hitters, with Aiello starring in the field. Karembelas, Winn and Cohen paced the losers, who stranded 14 base runners.

The second game was decided in the first three innings as Esquire won 6-1. Aiello and Weintraub each homered with a man on base. Shelton Golden also hit well. Lefty Davidson went the distance.

SYD COHEN:

Why The Braves Win

Fans throughout the country have been watching the Milwaukee Braves romp through the National League at a pace that had them just one game out of first place as this was written. And the fans are saying, in effect: "Boy, that change from empty Braves Field in Boston to the packed Milwaukee ball park really made a different team out of them. Looks like the change of scenery was just what the doctor ordered".

To which this writer says flatly: "Nuts!"

The Braves are not winning in Milwaukee, whereas they lost in Boston, just because of the difference in the size of their crowds. No team benefits that much by locale. It still takes ability and talent to win ball games. Rival clubs also feel good, don't forget, when playing before a healthy-sized mob.

The truth is that the Braves have a good club this season, and they would have won as easily in Boston as they are doing in Milwaukee.

One sports writer foresaw the 1953 performance of the Braves long before the shift to Milwaukee was announced. Here is what appeared in this column, in part, but using exact quotes, as early as October 3, 1952—the week of the World Series—the week following the close of that dismal last Braves season:

"... The Boston Braves, whom everyone likes and nobody goes to see, are about to come out of the depths.

"In case you didn't notice (during this season), the Braves' Milwaukee farm team, which included several players who failed as rookies with Boston, stood the strong American Association right on its ear in 1952 and won the pennant going away ...

"The rookies who failed to bloom in Boston in the Spring ... really blossomed when they got a chance at the extra year they needed to season into real ball players. My prediction is that with that added experience, plus their brief taste of the majors early this year, the Braves' rookies will 'arrive' in 1953.

"... The Braves are mixing new blends of warpaint, and I believe we all will want to watch them play ball next year ...

(Note: regarding that last statement, ain't it the truth? Ed.)

"I don't say the Braves will win the pennant next year—they may be a year or so away from that, and Nichols won't be back for another year—but I will bet that they are first division, and stronger at the finish than most other teams."

The Teams to Beat

There are two clubs in the American League that have the ability, and the talent, you might say, for pulling out with last minute rallies games that were seemingly lost. One of them probably will win the pennant. The other will be mighty close—most of the way, at least.

Those teams are the Yankees and Chicago White Sox.

A while back, at the start of the training season, I called attention to the White Sox as the major league team that has gone the longest time without a pennant—a team which has never been able to pick up its head since the 1919 scandal. I made them, for that reason, my sentimental favorite for the 1953 flag.

Looks like the Sox don't need sentiment—they think they are going to win. And unlike the Cleveland Indians, who talk a good pennant, Chicago goes out and wins ball games under all kinds of circumstances. Ninth inning rallies, tenth inning rallies—no matter, the White Sox are never licked until the umpires have left the park.

The Sox are a mean outfit, in the sense that they are toughest when they are in a jam, hardest to get out when runs are needed. They are a fighting team, led by a manager who insists with every breath that he is going to win.

Jimmy Dykes, Athletics manager, makes very few mistakes in his trades. He made such a reputation in this respect while heading the same White Sox several years ago, that rival managers were always afraid to trade with him, for fear that they would wind up getting much the worse end of the deal.

Yet in the Ferris Fain-Eddie Robinson deal Dykes apparently wound up with the short change.

Dykes allowed himself to be bamboozled, because he couldn't resist the urge to team up with Gus Zernial with the hard-hitting Robinson. Jimmy closed his eyes to Fain's extraordinary fielding ability and his annoying habit of always being on base, or coming up with an extra base hit when runs are most badly needed.

Well, Fain has made that Chicago team that we are talking about. Combine him with Minoso, Rivera, Carresquel, Fox & Co. and you have a club that is wonderful to watch and tough to beat.

But Chicago also made a mistake—gambling on Vern Stephens to do their long-ball hitting for them, and giving up good pitching to get him. And the Sox desperately need another solid pitcher.

I'll go this far with Chicago. Give them a good hurler and another third baseman by the trading deadline, without giving up any of the players mentioned, and without serious injury; and the White Sox definitely will win.

Otherwise, because of their pitching depth, and all their other talents—including last minute, come-from-behind rallies—it looks like the Yankees again.

The Bowling Dinner

If the Jewish Bowling Congress doesn't fill the Commodore Room at Johnsons Hummocks Grille to overflowing on Wednesday, June 3, I will be dumbfounded. Here's the first all-Jewish sports night on our local calendar—an affair that in other cities often attracts nation-wide attention and the very top names in sports. It is an event many of us have waited for and hoped for—an affair that this column long has plugged.

Sponsored by the bowlers, this event should be assured a good crowd just among those receiving season's awards for their work on the alleys. But the speaking program, and the very nature of the program, should have sufficient appeal for everyone apart from the bowling angle.

Here's a tip—Don't miss this Sports Night if you want the real low-down on the Marciano-Walcott fight. Tony Petronella will be among the guests. Tony never misses the big fights (from ring-side) and he knows more about Marciano from a professional standpoint than anyone outside of the Champ's camp. If you can collar Petronella at the dinner and get his views, then you will

Now The UN Sees

The Government of Israel has finally been forced to establish a police border patrol stationed along its Arab frontiers. In the face of an increasing number of infiltration actions, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion announced the formation this week of the new Frontier Guard.

Israel's border problem has become more tense during the past few months, and it appears that added difficulty is in the offing now that General William E. Riley, United Nations truce supervisor since 1948, intends to resign.

All of this, it seems to us, makes for a very unbalanced situation. We have concrete cause to be concerned when we recall that Egypt's General Naguib late last month characterized Israel as "the cancer of the Near East." Political observers can't help wondering what this remark has to do with the fact that Jordan troops are currently taking up new positions above Mount Scopus in clear violation of the Arab armistice agreement.

It is to be hoped that the United Nations will finally get around to recognizing who really is responsible for these sharp border incidents and that UN leaders will henceforth listen with disbelief to Arab charges of Israeli violations.

"One Man's Opinion"

BY BERYL SEGAL

The Festival Committee

One evening during the week of Passover I was a guest at the strangest Seder in my experience, a Seder I shall not forget soon.

At my right sat Rabbi Schusheim, who conducted the Seder. At my left reclined Dr. Reagan, the host of the Seder. Seated along the Seder tables were fifty-odd patients of the State Institutions, at Howard. With them, taking part in the Seder, were nurses, aides, and attendants of the Hospital.

Waiting at tables, serving the Passover dishes, helping the patients, feeding them, creating a festival mood, were the ladies of the Providence Festival Committee.

Thus Passover was brought to Howard.

The four walls of the best of hospitals are depressing enough. The days of confinement in a hospital are made bearable by frequent visits from relatives and friends, and by the hope of a speedy recovery and a return home. Without these, the gloom of a hospital room and the long days and nights in a hospital bed would be more than the human mind could bear.

But here, at Howard, are men and women confined in the gloomiest of places. Cheerless, endless, and often hopeless weeks, and months, and years. Seldom visited. Little wanted. Often forgotten.

Yet, ever so often someone brings a gift. Someone remembers to call. Someone speaks a friendly word. Someone is kind. Someone brings back memories, cloudily though they may be, of happier days.

That "someone," for the patients of Howard and for the patients at Exeter, is the Festival Committee.

Every other Friday the Rabbi comes, and the ladies come. A table different than the usual one is prepared. Candles are lit. Food different than the usual hospital fare is served. A prayer is read and repeated. A smiling face greets the eyes. A friendly hand wishes Gut Shabos. A cantor chants a familiar melody. Memories begin to stir. Pleasant memories. A bright moment in the surrounding gloom.

Comes a holiday, these same ladies remember again. A Seder on Passover. A feast on Shevuos. Gifts on Chanukah. A good time on Succos. And an outing away from the gates of the hospital every month.

This the ladies have been doing every year for the past ten years. Never tiring. Never forgetting.

On this, the tenth year of beneficent work by the Festival Committee, it seems proper to make their work known within our community. It is a most deserving work, and no human words can do justice to the greatness in the seemingly little things the committee is doing for the inmates of the State Institutions.

As I watched the ladies of the Committee on that night of Passover, I had a feeling of shame and guilt. How little did I know of the things they were doing month in, month out, year after year!

How little did I know of the amount of effort such festival affairs demand, and the depths of devotion they require! Shopping for food. Preparing the meals. Making gift packages. Visiting in wards and at bedsides. None must be forgotten. None are to feel neglected.

On the night of my visit I saw only a small sample of the work the Festival Committee is doing. I was told that the 50 patients present at the Seder were only half of the Jewish patients at Howard. The other half could not be brought to the dining hall. But they, too, were remembered. These same ladies were to come the next day to bring food and gifts to the bed-ridden patients.

That was not all. The Festival Committee had a Seder all planned for the patients in Exeter. What resources of goodness in the hearts of these wonderful ladies!

Who are the ladies of the Festival Committee, and how do they manage to do their work of mercy?

The committee is represented by members of the Moses Montefiore Ladies Association, the Ladies Hebrew Union Aid, and the South Providence Ladies Aid Society. This year the committee gained strength by help from the Ladies Association of the Cranston Jewish Center.

On the Seder night of my visit these ladies, representing their organizations, were the cooks, the waitresses, the sisters, the friends, the gracious hostesses, the bringers of holiday cheer to depressed souls.

Where do the funds come from? To serve food twice a month, to entertain on four festivals, to bring gifts to so many people, is costly. Where does it all come from?

From talks with the officers of the Festival Committee. I have the impression that the difficulties of financing this work are great. That too, must be made known. Work of that nature is the concern of all of us, and the burden of financing this work should be shared by more of us. We certainly owe it to the ladies who do the actual cooking and serving and visiting, to lighten their burden by making sufficient funds available to them.

At present the funds are provided by 4 sources.

1. Each of the sponsoring Ladies organizations mentioned before contributes from its treasuries.
2. Chesed Shel Emes, the society for the care and maintenance of the Jewish burying grounds, helps with an annual contribution.
3. Moes Chittim, the fund collected before Pesach so that no Jewish home will be without a Seder meal, allocates a small portion for the Festival Committee.
4. Private gifts in money or in commodities help to make the festivals possible.

Is that enough? Far from it, say the ladies. More is needed; but more important is the need for a constant income, an assured annual allocation from some community agency. As it is, financial worries are always with the Festival Committee. No sooner is one festival over, than the committee begins to wonder where the funds for the next festival will come from.

It is not healthy, and it is not fair to those who, like dedicated people, carry on work so deeply rooted in Jewish tradition, which is the duty of all of us.

Wanted: A community agency or a civic club to assure and underwrite the work of this truly deserving Festival Committee!

After ten years of devoted work, the Festival Committee must be given recognition in the community, and treated as an indispensable agency within our midst. They do not complain of the difficulties of the task. But the financial load is too heavy—much too heavy—to let them carry it alone.

SCENES OF "GOLDEN-AGE DAY"

Enthusiasm that was not dampened by the inclement weather brought 350 men and women workers together for a breakfast rally and last minute instructions at "Golden-Age Day" headquarters in the ballroom of the Narragansett Hotel last Sunday. One hour later the solicitors were out in the field and first reports of returns began coming in at 11:30 A. M. At 2:30 P. M. the entire canvass was completed. Photos by Fred Kelman Official identification badges are pinned on as each worker "reports in".

"Quickie" breakfast gets workers fortified to go out in the field and obtain $10,115 in gifts and pledges.

Campaign workers get last minute instructions before calling on prospective donors.

Mrs. Thomas H. Goldberg and Bertram L. Bernhardt, co-chairmen of "Golden-Age Day", smile approvingly as workers report for Sunday's canvass.

Sidney A. Kane, general campaign chairman, tells workers that "every card must be covered if we are to reach our campaign goal."

With areas assigned and armed with pledge cards, workers take off to cover prospects.

An important job is well done as workers report back to the hotel with results showing over 900 cards covered.

Maternity Section Opens At New Miriam Hospital

The excitement attending the case of the first baby born at New Miriam Hospital has subsided, and the Maternity Section, which was opened earlier this month, is operating smoothly and efficiently.

On these pages are shown scenes taken in the Maternity Section shortly after its opening. The section contains a number of features and facilities that make it the most modern and best equipped of its kind, with skilled personnel who have been thoroughly trained to provide the finest care possible.

Miriam Maternity contains two nurseries and thirty bassinets. There are, in addition, a premature room, where babies under five pounds are cared for in incubators, and a suspect nursery, which is used to isolate infants who develop rashes or other symptoms requiring special observation. In this way, other infants need not be exposed to the suspect babies.

The section contains two labor rooms with accommodations for three women. There are two delivery rooms, with oxygen and suction piped in. One of the rooms is equipped for caesarian births. The entire suite is air conditioned. The formula and sterilizing room is handy, and mothers may see how their infants are cared for. Incidentally, complete equipment for each baby is contained in its bassinette.

A special camera is set up in the nursery to record baby's earliest appearance. Parents may take souvenir photos home.

Maternity wards are small, the largest accommodating only four mothers. The decor is the same as in other rooms in the hospital. The wards are spacious, airy and bright. When new mothers are able to get out of bed, they may relax in a solarium. Nor have fathers been forgotten. There is a special visitors room where they may wait . . . and pace.

Warmth of atmosphere, highly skilled personnel and scientific know-how go hand in hand in the new maternity section.

Bonds Not Charity

The superb exposition of Israel's present economic conditions and the cold facts of its immediate future, as outlined so ably by His Excellency Pinhas Lavon, Deputy Prime Minister of Israel, at the state dinner given by Governor Dennis J. Roberts in the executive chambers of the State House last Saturday evening, described in a most forceful and graphic manner, the true facts of the nature of Israel Bonds.

Mr. Lavon, from his vantage point as assistant to Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, gave authoritative evidence that Israel is a going concern. He made it abundantly clear that the sale of Bonds in this country is of paramount concern to the government of Israel. He rejected the idea that the purchase of Bonds is a charitable contribution. The purchase of Israel Bonds, he assured his listeners, is a guaranteed business investment.

Mr. Lavon explained in his historic speech that political freedom had first to be obtained and that economic freedom must be secured as quickly as possible to insure the permanence of the new nation.

Millions of dollars flow to Israel every month for well meant and well thought out charitable efforts. It is an easy fallacy to include Israel Bonds in the category of charitable effort.

Despite the obvious benefits of charity, it is vital to send more money to Israel by means of Bond purchases so that the country can integrate better the many projects that are needed within its own plans.

It all boils down to this; we are sending a man food and clothing for his children for which he is grateful; however, he must have a job so that he can be self-supporting and independent.

No matter where one looks in Israel, there is a demand for urgency and immediate action for everything. Israel must have financial support in the form of capital investment if it is to gain its economic independence.

Bond money comes back. Bond owners clip coupons every six months and receive interest. The fourth coupon was paid on May 1st. Savings Bonds accumulate interest and eventually pay 150% return. These obligations are being met and upon maturity, the Bonds will be redeemed.

One of the best guarantees of the amortization of the Independence Issue Bonds is the determination of the government to secure its economy. A balanced economy includes specific plans for Bond amortization and secures the investor up to the day of payment.

The establishment of Israel upon a permanent basis is one of the most important matters in world agenda. The security of the world we know depends upon it. Its necessity to every Jew in the world is equally obvious. Bonds of Israel can accomplish these things. Your participation, to the greatest extent possible, will put across the Independence Issue which is so essential to the future strength and prosperity of Israel.

Crystallize Plans For BIG Day

"The biggest thing Rhode Island has ever seen!" is the thumb nail description of the Bonds of Israel BIG Day program, according to Chief Deputy Grand Marshal William D. Strong after spending a day at the Bond office helping to develop details for the one-day, statewide campaign on June 7.

Thirty-five Deputy Grand Marshals will supervise the details involving the 1000 BIG Day Brigadiers that will jointly canvass the entire state on this one day in an effort to set a new record for Bond sales in Rhode Island.

During the next few days the work of assigning volunteers to individual stations in the program, zoning the principal areas of the state, assigning captains, teams of workers and families to various teams, assembling literature and making up workers' kits will be completed.

Workers' kits contain seven different pieces of material that will enable the worker to handle almost any query concerning the purchase of Bonds; questions and answers, methods of assigning purchases, as gifts that return 50% more than the original purchase price, etc.

Billboards and bus cards advertising BIG Day will be on display shortly, according to Mowry Lowe, chairman of the committee of public information. Several Rhode Island firms have assigned a number of boards to the BIG Day campaign as a public service. A special radio campaign will supplement promotion in other media.

What are 100 Steps worth?

If you were to put a money value — say
1/100th of a cent — on every step the telephone saves you, would your pantry sugar bowl be big enough to hold your profits?

Think what your telephone visits to friends, telephone orders to the grocer and druggist, telephone calls in emergencies actually save you in steps, in car trips and gasoline, in time and trouble!

Yet — with all its convenience and its steadily increasing usefulness, the telephone is one of the biggest bargains in your budget. The price of an average local call, including tax, is just a few pennies.

L.A. Annual Meeting

Acceptance Speech of Mrs. Samuel Schneider, President of Ladies Association at the Annual Meeting on May 13

To head this wonderful organization is a thrill that comes once in a life time.

Much mention has been made about the happy and contented Residents, but I'm thinking of the hundreds of Families, children and relatives who have been given peace of mind and happiness by making their dear ones comfortable during the sunset years of their lives.

Much mention has been made of the one fortunate person out of the twenty who entered the Home—I'm thinking of the other nineteen, who are waiting to join this happy family, and who are now encouraged anew with the new building about to become a reality.

I am hopeful that with the full co-operation of you wonderful Ladies, our Success during the ensuing year will enable us to furnish a greater degree of happiness to all the Residents in the Home. This is my fervent Prayer.

Beloved mother, Nettie Landesberg, from Mrs. Irving Katz.

Alte Machlowitz, from Mrs. Martha Fruit.

Sophie Derber, from Mr. and Mrs. H. Frucht and family.
