Denver Prohibits Real Estate Bias

DENVER—City of Denver has adopted an ordinance governing the submission of real estate development schemes which prohibits the inclusion of discriminatory restrictive covenants based upon religion or race.

The action of the city council makes Denver the first city in the United States to give substance to United States Supreme Court decisions declaring real estates covenants which discriminate on grounds of race, color or religion legally unenforceable.

Truman to Address Congress Convention

NEW YORK—Former President Harry S. Truman, recipient of the 1952 Stephen Wise Award for outstanding leadership in the extension of civil rights in the United States, will be the principal speaker at a dinner on Monday evening, Nov. 9 at the Roosevelt Hotel in New York City. The dinner will be the concluding session of the biennial convention of the American Jewish Congress, which begins on Saturday evening, November 7.

Goldmann Reports On Reparations Claims

NEW YORK—Dr. Nahum Goldmann, reporting at a press conference on his reparation talks with Austrian Chancellor Rabb, said that four major claims were presented to the Austrian cabinet: (1) Present Austrian legislation to indemnify Nazi victims should also include former Austrians resettled in other countries. (2) Settlements for homeless Jewish property. (3) Jewish bank accounts sequestered by the Nazis to be restored to former owners. (4) Compensation for furniture of Jews sold by the Tustrian government after the Anschluss.

Perlman Scores New Refugee Act

BALTIMORE—Philip B. Perlman, former U. S. Solicitor General, in an address to the Baltimore Chapter of the ADA, attacked the recently passed Refugee Act as the most discriminatory, the most restrictive and generally the worse piece of (immigration) legislation in the nation's history.

Slave Labor Suit Decision Delayed

BERLIN—The U. S. High Commission Court at Mannheim reserved decision on a motion by the German chemical trust IG Farben questioning the court's jurisdiction over a suit filed against it by a former slave laborer. The slave laborer, a Jewish soldier serving in the U. S. Army in Germany, is asking $200,000 in back pay and damages for two years of servitude at an IG Farben plant.

Military Awards Bestowed On Jewish Chaplains

Mexican Jews Are Worried Over Increase in Hate Sheets

MEXICO CITY—A sharp increase in the circulation of anti-Semitic pamphlets in the past three months in many of Mexico's larger cities, which was described as causing concern on the part of Mexican Jews, was cited in a dispatch by Sydney Gruson to the New York Times on Monday.

He stated that the Jews' concern was increased by what they regard as an unofficial but effective barrier against admitting European and Israeli Jews to Mexico.

Gruson said that the pamphlets, issued by a group called the National Union for Country and Race, were distributed throughout the country and particularly in Mexico City, Puebla and Torreón. He added that they accused Jews of fostering a number of social and economic evils and asked "real" Mexicans to boycott Jewish-owned shops.

Leaders of the Mexican Jewish community of 20,000 persons, some 80 per cent of them in Mexico City, were described by Gruson as saying that anti-Semitic propaganda was not new but had never before been distributed on such a scale.

He noted that many newspapers had injected anti-Semitism into a Government campaign against the practice of home labor in the textile industry but had not presented any specific instances of Jewish-owned concerns.

Gruson also stated that while there was no official bar against the entry of Jews, Mexican consulates abroad had adopted procedures to keep them out. He added that this applied even to tourists except from the Americas and occasionally from some Western European countries.

Cardinal Spellman Contributes to Clinic

NEW YORK—The Charles H. Silver Clinic of Beth Israel Hospital here was dedicated in a ceremony attended by over 1,000 persons this week. The $1,500,000 six-story structure was named in honor of Charles Silver, president of the hospital and well known philanthropist.

Former Vice President Alben W. Barkley presided over the ceremony. Among the speakers were Bernard Baruch, Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, Milton Weill, president of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York, and the Right Rev. James J. Lynch, executive director of the New York Catholic Charities who brought greetings from Cardinal Spellman and a $10,000 check from the Cardinal and the Alfred E. Smith Foundation.

Defends Work Of Histadrut

JERUSALEM—Criticism of the statement by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., board chairman of the Israel bond drive in the U. S., who told that group's recent conference in Washington that the Histadrut in Israel should "get out of private business," was expressed here by Levi Eshkol, Israeli Minister of Finance. Eshkol cited contributions to Israel's development made by Histadrut, Israel's labor federation, and pointed to the vast current economic needs, adding that the country "cannot dispense with any constructive force."

In New York, meanwhile, Harold J. Goldenberg, director of the investment center in Israel and also a speaker at the bond parley, denied reports that he had criticized the Morgenthau statement. "In the course of my address," he declared, "I referred to the work being done by Histadrut organizations. I made no comment on, and intended no criticism of, the passing reference to 'Histadrut' made by Morgenthau."

ZOA Leader Is BV Initial Gifts Speaker

Rabbi Irving Miller, president of the Zionist Organization of America, will speak at the Initial Gifts dinner of the Blackstone Valley UJA on Wednesday, Oct. 21 at Ledgemont Country Club in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal campaign.

One of America's best known Jewish leaders, Rabbi Miller has been in the forefront of world Zionism for many years. Recently he returned from an extended tour of Israel where he participated in important discussions with Israel's top leadership in a thorough appraisal of the immediate problems in the fields of housing for new immigrants, the expansion of the country's agriculture, and other projects which aim at the absorption of newcomers still living in tents and tin huts.

During World War II Rabbi Miller served as secretary-general of the World Jewish Congress, undertaking many important missions on behalf of European Jewry threatened by Nazism. He also played a leading role in discussions of Jewish post-war problems with representatives of the allied governments in London in 1943 and three years later represented the Congress at the Paris Peace Conference.

Upon the death in 1949 of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Rabbi Miller was elected unanimously president of the American Jewish Congress. He was a delegate to the founding session of the World Jewish Congress and is a member of its executive committee.

Rabbi Miller is a member of the national campaign cabinet of the UJA, a vice-president of the UJA of Greater New York, and a member of the national executive committee of the United Israel Appeal.

UJA '53 Receipts Reach 59 Million

CLEVELAND—More than 1,000 campaign leaders last weekend joined ranks here in turning over to the United Jewish Appeal community cash proceeds totalling $14,973,000, bringing the Appeal's 1953 receipts thus far to $59,526,000.

This action at the final session of a two-day National Report Conference of the UJA also gave the Appeal 60 percent of the emergency $25,000,000 cash fund it is seeking in the last four months of the year.

Taking into consideration the UJA's continuing urgent need for cash, the Conference moved adoption of a special measure authorizing an extraordinary November and December dollar-raising drive aimed at exceeding the $25,000,000 cash goal.

The delegates, who assembled from all parts of the United States, heard Trygvie Lie, former Secretary of the United Nations, declare in a major address that the rapid building up of economically underdeveloped and underprivileged areas is as important a defense against "Communist imperialism" as the carrying out of armament programs.

Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, speaking at the final session of the two-day Conference, scored Arab cold war tactics against the State of Israel. He also lashed out at what he said is the "failure" of the United States and the other great democratic powers to tell the Arab States "with unmistakable firmness to get on with the business of making peace "with Israel."

The noted Cleveland rabbi charged that the Arabs employ "brash methods of diplomatic blackmail" to get their arms in order to inflame relations with Israel rather than reach "an overall settlement of outstanding issues" with the new State.

He called statesmanship in Washington and other democratic capitals "bizarre" for sending arms to the Arabs, who, he said, are not averse to dealing "with governments all too eager to win friends and influence people."

In this connection, Rabbi Silver ridiculed the "wooling and cozening" of the Arab States "in the hope that they will some day use these arms and their manpower in defense of the free world."

Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, Executive Vice-Chairman of the UJA, reported that the UJA in the first nine months of 1953 had allocated a total of $44,356,814 to finance the assistance programs of its (Continued on Page 2) constituent agencies. This outlet, he reported, helped a total of 520,000 distressed men, women and children in 18 countries on four continents, 355,000 of them in Israel. Of this sum, he said, $28,384,814 was allocated to the United Israel Appeal, $13,610,000 to the Joint Distribution Committee, $394,000 to the United Service for New Americans and $968,000 to the New York Association for New Americans. The report emphasized that close to 85 per cent of the UJA allocation to its constituent agencies, or $37,584,814, went for programs to strengthen the State of Israel.

Neisen-Meyer
 At a 7:30 P. ## Israeli Veteran to Keynote YAD Dinner

Officials of the Young Adult Division of the General Jewish Committee have announced that the guest speaker at this year's Initial Gifts dinner-dance will be Jack Brass, public relations officer of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem and a veteran of Israel's War of Independence.

The dinner-dance will be held Sunday evening, Nov. 1 at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

Born and educated in England, Brass emigrated to Israel in 1946. He served during the war with Haganah, fighting in several critical battles before returning to Jerusalem to serve on the Haganah Intelligence Corps.

During World War II, while still in Britain, Brass directed the first Jewish blitz hostels, which cared for children of bombed out homes in war ravaged London. Immediately after VE Day, he headed the first Jewish relief unit sent from Britain to Germany to supervise relief and rescue work among the survivors of Nazi concentration camps. He was commanding officer of the Jewish section in the notorious Bergen-Belsen camp where tens of thousands of Jews had been slaughtered by the Nazis.

GJC Initial Gifts Committee Is Active

The Initial Gifts Dinner Committee of the General Jewish Committee's 1953 campaign made final plans for the Initial Gifts Dinner which will be held Monday evening, Nov. 2 at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel, at a meeting held Wednesday evening at the home of Henry J. Hassenfeld, general campaign chairman.

Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver will be guest speaker at the Initial Gifts affair.

Arthur Kaplan, chairman of the Initial Gifts Dinner Committee, told the group: "The money raised in Providence this year will bear fruit not only in 1953 but in generations to come as the new State of Israel continues to grow and become more and more self-sufficient."

Kaplan and Hassenfeld urged their committee members to give a maximum of time and effort, and to do their utmost toward making the campaign a success. Joseph W. Ress, acting president, suggested the committee regard themselves as salesmen—"selling the right of the people of Israel to live in freedom and security."

During the meeting colored movies of Israel were shown by Mr. and Mrs. Kaplan.

Brandeis Women Membership Drive

The annual membership drive of the National Women's Committee of Brandeis University, Providence Chapter, will be launched on Oct. 19 by a large committee headed by the following chairmen: Mesdames Bertram L. Bernhardt, general chairman and Providence area chairman; Jack Westerman, Cranston chairman, Newton Frank, co-chairman; Charles Miller, Pawtucket chairman, Abraham Oster, co-chairman; Miles H. Shein, secretary; Samuel Temkin, treasurer; Seebert J. Goldowsky and A. Budner Lewis, publicity.

All monies raised by the Women's Committee are procured solely by memberships which support, maintain and equip the Brandeis University Library. Additional projects of the Women's Committee connected with the Library include the just completed new wing and the special books now needed to service the new graduate school.

Every $5.00 annual membership is equal to the interest on an endowment of $150.00. Since a new university such as Brandeis has not the large endowment of an older university, these memberships become an important part of the life-blood of the University, particularly the Library, Providence leaders said.

The membership drive will culminate on Nov. 19 with a coffee hour at the home of Mrs. Alexander Rumlper, 133 Hartshorn Road.

Newberger Is Soloist With New Symphony

The New Providence Symphony Orchestra, Nathan Newberger conducting, presented its first concert of the season last week at Hope High School before an audience of about 1,000 persons.

Newberger, who founded the orchestra, was the soloist on the evening's program, performing Mendelssohn's "Piano Concerto in G."

Dear Friends:

Before I decided to handle Church Wall Tile at Albert's, I made a careful analysis of all the wall tile on the market in order to be sure I offered my customers the most beautiful, the most practical, and the best value in wall tile the market had to offer. I found all of these in Church Plastic Wall Tile.

Let's take beauty for instance. Church tiles come in 12 beautiful decorator colors which permit installation in solid colors or in combinations to meet the most fastidious taste. Church Wall Tile is practical too. It's a carefully formulated plastic which is impervious to chipping, cracking, warping or fading. It is proof to acids or alkalis. As a practical matter, once installed it's beauty will outlast the house. Now as to cost, Church tile - installed by our experts - is so reasonable in cost as to suit the tiniest budget. An average bathroom can cost as little as $110. And, naturally, every installation carries Albert's famous guarantee.

Since I have tested Church Wall Tile in hundreds of installations, I can recommend it without reservation.

If you're thinking of new walls in your home or store, drop into Albert's and let us show you the beauty, the efficiency, the wonderful value Church Plastic Wall Tile has. Or, if you prefer, call us at Gaspee 1-5513 and I'll have one of our decorators call at your home with samples - no obligation, of course.

Easy payment arrangements are part of our service. I'm looking forward to seeing you.

THE GJC WORKER

... a Heartfelt Tribute

This, we believe, is a most appropriate time to pause in our campaign and publicly proclaim our deep appreciation to all our volunteer workers... men, women and young adults... the torchbearers of our wonderful cause.

Theirs is the energy, the determination, the enthusiasm and inspiration that spells success.

They are the flame that has kindled a generous response from the thousands of donors already enrolled on our list of honor.

We plan no closing celebration because our drive is not over. It cannot end so long as there still exists a single Jewish person in greater Providence to be contacted on behalf of his less fortunate brethren overseas and here at home.

But just as the Jews of Israel, Africa and Europe express fervent thanks to the GJC, so do we manifest our gratitude to our loyal workers and generous contributors!

"Our Trip to Israel— One of the Greatest Thrills"

Says NATE SAMORS

My recent trip to Israel, gave me one of the greatest thrills of my life. In traveling throughout the new state, it seemed almost unbelievable to see the great progress that has been made in so short a time. One must actually see it to believe it.

The contributions we make for the people of Israel are extremely necessary as they cannot exist without our help. What we are doing is a small part indeed, when one stops to analyze the amount of good work they have done in helping to restore human lives.

I visualize Israel as one would a growing business. No doubt some mistakes have been made but, then, don't we make mistakes in our own businesses too? Given time, and our continued help, the potentialities are limitless.

SYD COHEN:

Series Odds and Ends

Football season is in full blast, and I am preparing a column on how a game is aired from the booth high over the gridiron. Yet, for this week at least, I can't write about anything else but baseball, especially when I have a couple of things on tap that have not appeared elsewhere, to my knowledge—and I read a lot of papers.

So let's see if we can wrap up the loose details, and finally put the 1953 season to bed—for a couple of weeks, at least.

Here are a couple of World Series records that were set, but were not mentioned in the daily papers, in the 1953 classic. And if you don't trust the reliability of my research, the Sporting News lists these among the 69 records that were broken and the 29 that were tied.

Allie Reynolds, who may have pitched to his last Series opponent, rewrote part of the pitching record book. You know that the Chief won his seventh game to tie a record, and that he smashed the all-time strikeout record. Allie also went way out in front by himself by appearing in his 13th, 14th and 15th games.

Until this year, nobody had pitched in more than a dozen World Series games. Allie, Waite Hoyt of the Yankees, and Art Nehf of the Giants, held that distinction. But Reynolds worked three times and set a new mark earlier this month.

Reynolds and Vic Raschi appeared in their sixth World Series, but this is not a record for pitchers. Nehf was in seven sets, and so was Red Ruffing, who lost the strikeout mark to Allie.

The Chief pitched eight innings this year, bringing his mark to 77. But Ruffing threw 87, and Christy Mathewson of the Giants, in only 11 appearances, turned in the amazing total of 101 2/3 innings! Get that—Matty appeared only 11 times, yet averaged a complete game each time!

All of Reynolds' work isn't of the best. Allie has given up 32 bases on balls, which ties him for that record; he has yielded eight home runs, which ties him for another one; and he gave up four homers in one Series to tie still another mark.

Other Series records of interest—Hugh Casey worked six games in one Series, Mathewson led in shutouts with four (three in one Series), Babe Ruth pitched 12 innings in one game and a total of 30 consecutive scoreless innings. Deacon Philippe of Pittsburgh in 1903 hurled 44 innings, equivalent of five games. But poor Pee Wee Reese set a dubious mark by playing on his fifth losing club—a new record.

Contrasted with Carl Erskine's 14 strikeouts is Bill Bevens' ten bases on balls in 1947, in his near no-hit game; Eddie Collins stole 14 bases, laid down eight sacrifices; Roger Peckinpaugh made eight errors in one Series. Frankie Frisch slammed 58 hits in his Series lifetime.

The book is filled with interesting tidbits like those, in case you are a figure filbert.

If you read enough about the Series, you often come across a strange or amusing fact. Take, for example, the first game's crucial play, where Dodgers manager Dressen called for a bunt with two men on and nobody out. Yogi Berra pounced on the ball, whipped it to third, and Umpire Gore called the runner out. It was close. Dressen was mad, hinted later that Gore had missed the call.

How did the writers see it? Well, that is the interesting part of this tale. Frank Matzek picked the Dodgers to take the Series in six games. He said the ump was wrong. Earl Lofquist selected the Yanks in six. He said the call looked right from where he sat. Dan Parker of the New York Mirror also guessed on the Dodgers in six games. And he was critical of the call, thought the runner had it beaten.

See what I mean? The impartial writers saw the play in accordance with how they had predicted the Series would go. All of which proves only that it was a mighty close play.

Another Dispute

Official scorers don't always hold the same attitudes when rendering their decisions, either. Example—Billy Martin smashed a ball off Gilliam's foot early in the final game. Junior was charged with an error. Billy later got two clean hits and tied the series record. With the other one, he would have a new mark.

Now, whether you agreed with that call or not doesn't matter. It is how the scorers saw the play that counted. And this is where they showed their inconsistency. When all the Yankees protested it should have been a hit, and all the Dodgers did likewise, despite the fact that they openly hated Martin, and when almost all the writers said the same thing (except Matzek, who termed it a double play ball), the three scorers decided to come out with a public statement through Joe Cashman, chief scorer. They should have stood in bed.

This is in effect what they said: That a major league ball player is supposed to be the cream of the crop, and that he should be able to hold any ball he can get his glove on. No matter if the ball is hard hit or is a difficult chance, a big leaguer should be able to hold on to it.

Again, you may or may not agree with that philosophy. That is not important. But those three scorers don't look very smart in their judgment, since every one of them has awarded base hits many times in the past on plays that were at least as questionable as the play on Martin. Matter of fact, they and the other scorers in all big league cities have been criticized many times in the past for being too good to the batters, especially those on their "home" team.

And official scorers change their minds, too. Remember last year when Virgil Trucks pitched a no-hitter against the Yankees? Rizzuto got credit for an infield hit early in the game on a ball that Pesky did not handle cleanly. As the game developed, the scorers saw that this decision might deprive Trucks of a no-hit game. So they hastily visited the dugout—during the game, mind you—and questioned Pesky, who assured them that he should have been charged with an error on the play.

So be it. The hit was changed to an error, and Trucks got his no-hitter. Deservedly, too, according to the Yankees. Yet, Pesky had touched the ball and escaped an error until the importance of the decision began to balloon.

Having seen the play only on TV, I can't judge whether Martin should have had a hit or not. The point is, the writers did not show any consistency in their reasoning. Every ball that is touched by a ball player is not necessarily an error, and they know it.

If they thought Gilliam should have made the play, that is one thing. If, however, they charged him with an error just because the ball hit some part of him, they were wrong. My guess is that with Martin so close to the record at that time, they were afraid to give him the benefit of a decision that might lead to a tainted record.

Which is all right, too. If a player is going to put his name in the record book, let him do it in a way that will defy criticism.

EMANUEL BOWLING

By Herman Selya

Dave Golner rolled 145 for high single. Dick Platkin rolled 114, 135, 119 for 368, followed by Myles Goldberg 139, 104, 124 for 367. The White Sox are now in first place after taking three points from the A's. Henry Markoff 110, 116, 113 for 339 and Dave Golner 334 paced the Sox.

The Yanks and Pirates are tied for second. The Pirates took three from the Reds with Myles Goldberg 367 leading the way. The Yanks split with the Orioles as Irv Solmer got 114, 135, 110 for 358. Frankie Goldstein and his Dodgers tied Red Sox but in the roll off Al Alter and Lefty Goralnick took it away for the Sox, 3 points to 1. Dick Platkin's 368 plowed under Howie Cohen's Tigers so the Braves got four points. The Cubs and Noah Miller 341 creamed the Giants four points while the Cards took three from the Indians.

The league has openings for subs. Any men affiliated with Temple Emanuel or the Men's Club are invited to show up Monday at 8:45 P. M., Casino Alleys.

What's Going On?

Senator Pat McCarran last week publicly doubted that President Eisenhower will lead a drive to revise the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act at next year's Congressional session. His remarks came after a private conference with the President.

Senator Arthur V. Watkins, chairman of the Joint Congressional Immigration Committee, at the same time urged Mr. Eisenhower to seek no changes in the present immigration law. He called the efforts of Senator Lehman and others to secure changes "largely political moves." Senator Watkins explained that the President's own Emergency Immigration Act had done much to reduce criticism of the McCarran Act and that "when the present emergency act terminates, we will be in a position to suggest revisions in the permanent act if they are required."

This may very well mean that the Administration intends doing nothing about the McCarran Act for at least another two years. Senator McCarran insisted that the President must not be quoted but that his opinion regarding the permanency of his legislation was based on statements which Mr. Eisenhower had made.

We quietly wonder if there is any connection between these two incidents.

New Regimes Show Totalitarian Trend In Middle East

Recent political overthrows in Middle Eastern countries have placed power in authoritarian hands and have "dangerously exposed" that part of the world to "the temptations of totalitarianism." Pierre Rondot, noted authority on the Middle East, warned today.

Rondot's warning was sounded in the lead article in the current Middle Eastern Affairs, published by the Council for Middle Eastern Affairs. Professor at the French National School of Administration, Rondot is director of curriculum in the Center of Advanced Moslem Administrative Studies in Paris and author of many works on Middle East politics.

Government by parliament has been rejected by the Middle East, he declared, and is being replaced by the "presidential regime." Both forms, according to Rondot, are western ideas imposed on a society of different structure which they ill fit. As a consequence, the Moslem governments appear deceptively, to Western eyes, to be adopting democratic philosophies. He said of the trend toward autocratic power:

"These countries, even as they draw closer to their traditions, run the risk of estranging themselves from progress and modern patterns of organization. Their authoritarian regimes are dangerously exposed to the temptations of totalitarianism.

"It will be recalled that the Fascist and Hitlerite precedents aroused not so long ago a vivid, sometimes enthusiastic, interest in the East."

Both Egypt and Iran are cited in the article. As a step in the downfall of Mossadegh, Rondot recalled the Iranian Premier's ability to declare to Parliament: "You are mine," and then rid himself of it by announcing a plebiscite when it ceased to be his. The background of the Naqub revolution in Egypt is pictured, similarly, as the power of the landlords to hold the great majority of parliamentary representatives under thumb.

Egypt, according to Rondot, typifies the Middle East's shift from the "parliamentarian" to the

 Released Time
 For Jewish Children

The Jack Smiths are parents of school-age children. Like so many other parents whose children are pupils in the Providence public schools, the Smiths followed with considerable interest the discussions about the Released Time plan during the months when the proposal was under consideration by the School Committee.

They listened to arguments for and against by guest speakers over the radio. They read the reports of the hearings before the school committee as told in the newspapers. They discussed the plan with friends. They also read what this column had to say about Released Time for religious education. Jack Smith (and the name is not fictitious) was kind enough to comment on the thoughts expressed in that column and to ask:

"If Released Time is adopted by the Providence school system, what are we Jews to do about it?"

We both agreed that IF the plan is adopted, the Jewish religious groups will have to participate in it, and to provide a program for the Jewish children who wish to partake of the released hour. All the arguments against Released Time notwithstanding, it would be unwise on our part to remain outside while other religious groups accept it. Do not separate yourself from the community is a principle taught us by our Rabbis of old. It is a good principle to be guided by.

That was about a year ago when the Released Time plan was still in the hearing and debating stages. All talk about the plan was in terms of IF. If the plan is adopted, if the School Committee decides in favor. There were still doubts.

No Provision for Jews

Now, at the opening of the new school year, Released Time is no longer a debatable IF. The plan was adopted by the School Committee before the closing of the past school year. It is in effect now. Released Time is in operation already in the lower grades and in junior high schools of the city.

The Catholic children in the public schools are released one hour a week to 30 centers for religious instruction.

The Protestant churches are conducting two Pilot schools, one on the East Side and one in the Washington Park area, as an experiment during the first year. There the Protestant children of all denominations whose parents consent to the program gather one hour a week for a program of religious education agreed upon by the Council of Churches.

And the Jewish children?

Well, you know the story. No provision was made for the implementation of the plan. Jewish children have nowhere to go during that hour while their Christian classmates go to their respective religious schools. With the Protestant pupils it is a matter of choice. Their parents may or they may not wish to have them released for that hour. With the Jewish children, on the other hand, there is no choice. No synagogue, no temple, no center has anything to offer during Released Time to those Jewish parents who might ask for the release of their children.

I fail to see the wisdom of this situation.

What to Do?

What to do about it? Something can be done even at this late hour. There is still time for the Jewish group in the city to enter the plan, or at least to make plans for the second half of the school year.

Parents who wish to participate in Released Time for their children have a right to expect such schools provided for them. We have no authority to decide what is good and what is not good for them. The parents, and the parents alone, are to make the decision. They are to speak to their Rabbis, discuss the matter in the Schul, make inquiries at gatherings of the congregations. When a sufficient number of parents make their wishes known, ways will be found to satisfy those wishes.

Granted the difficulties involved. Teachers, transportation, budgets, program, all are serious problems. But they will not be solved by merely ignoring the whole matter.

Released Time is with us, whether we like it or not.

As individuals we may or we may not accept it for our children, since it is a voluntary plan. But as a group within the community we cannot afford to stage a "sit-down" strike against it.

Those who argued against Released Time as a factor of segregation and separation of the Public School pupils on religious grounds, are doing just that by singling out the Jewish pupils as the one group that does not participate in a religious education hour granted them by the school.

Pilot Schools

We certainly could follow the example of the Protestant denominations and provide Pilot schools in strategic areas where the problems of teachers, transportation, and budget lend themselves to a solution.

Thus we could start with the Junior High schools. Experimenting with a Pilot age group instead of a Pilot area.

Why, Junior High schools?

It so happens that the Junior High schools, with a considerable number of Jewish pupils, are located within walking distance from synagogues and temples.

Thus, Roger Williams is only a few minutes walk from Sons of Abraham Schul on Prairie Avenue, and from Temple Beth Israel on Niagara Street.

Nathan Bishop is across the street from Temple Emanuel.

Nathaniel Greene is a few blocks away from Beth David Schul on Oakland Avenue.

Thus we have three Junior High schools in three separate areas, East Side, North End, and So, Providence—each with a goodly concentration of Jewish students. In fact, I am told that in the other Junior High schools the number is negligible. We would have then almost our en-

Junior High group cared for if they so desired.

With this age group transportation presents no difficulties. They are of an age when they can find their way around by themselves. They are also of an age when most of them are no longer attending any afternoon Hebrew school classes. While we still insist that one hour a week is hardly sufficient for purposes of Jewish education, we must admit that one hour is better than no education at all.

"A MESSAGE ABOUT ISRAEL"

by MRS. ARCHIBALD SILVERMAN

Having recently returned from my 18th visit to Israel, I bring you greetings.

I marvel at the progress made in every direction since my last visit! New industries have been created, new colonies have been developed, new cultural structures have arisen almost overnight. And yet there are far too many thousands living in temporary shacks, and far too many are unemployed despite the development programs created to absorb as many as possible. We need more and more houses, we need more and more agricultural centers, we need all that goes with the creation of normal living!

And for all the above needs, we need, and must have, your never-failing and generous cooperation in the United Jewish Appeal! As you give you will be blessed!

IDA M. SILVERMAN

EXTEND A HAND OF HOPE

Give Generously to the 1953 GENERAL JEWISH COMMITTEE CAMPAIGN

"presidential" democratic form without adopting underlying democratic principles.

"Most of these eastern nationalisms show nothing but defiance of parliamentarism," Rondot asserted. "While some repudiate it completely, others seek to limit, or at least, modify it. Far from considering it the instrument and the achievement of a policy of emancipation, many denounce it as an illusion if not a fraud."

The failure of parliamentarism in the Middle East is ascribed by Rondot largely to the large blocs—so called "minorities"—of religious and ethnic groups, and to the persisting feudal systems of the Middle Eastern countries. He said these distort representative government into a mere affirmation of the group in power. In the Moslem world itself, he said, a substantial segment of public opinion "holds western intrigues primarily responsible for the failure" of parliamentary government. Thus he declared:

"It is advisable not to be misled by the wording of the formula now increasingly in vogue in the East, of the presidential regime."
