Publisher Charged with Anti-Semitism

Mercury Editor Resigns Post

NEW YORK—A sharp dispute involving charges of anti-Semitism against the publisher of the "American Mercury," Russell Maguire, has led to the resignation of nine "Mercury" editors and contributors. The magazine's editor, John A. Clements, led the list of those who quit. The charges of anti-Semitism were denied by the publisher, a millionaire oil speculator who was described as having a long record of collaboration with anti-Semites.

Joining Clements in the walk-out were Adrienne Suddard, managing editor, and Dr. J. B. Matthews, Irene Corbally Kuhn, George Fielding Eliot and Ruth A. Inglis, contributing editors. Regular contributors who left the staff included Ralph De Toledano, who resigned, and Howard Rushmore and Eugene Lyons who were told their columns would no longer be needed on a monthly basis. Under the editorship of Clements, the magazine had been pursuing a strong pro-McCarthy political line, but it had been kept clear of all racist propaganda. Rushmore, one of those who was told his column was no longer needed, commented, "I was always sure that while Clements was editor the political policies of the American Mercury would always refrain from racism. Under Maguire I don't know." Toledano said that dragging anti-Semitism into an anti-Communist fight gave the Communists the excuse that only anti-Semites opposed Communism and added he would have "no part of a publication which even flirts with the anti-Semites."

Publisher Maguire, who termed the anti-Semitism charges "a damned lie," was scheduled to receive an Americanism award on behalf of the magazine from the Wall Street Post of the American Legion.

Women's Initial Gifts Luncheon Scheduled for Next Tuesday

Buoyed by the unusual amount of interest manifested in the forthcoming General Jewish Committee's 1955 campaign, Mrs. Myron Elias, general chairman of the Women's Division, expects a capacity crowd at the division's kickoff Initial Gifts Luncheon next Tuesday, October 11, at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel.

Mrs. Saul Feinberg is Initial Gifts chairman and will preside at the luncheon.

The luncheon will launch the Women's Division campaign with leaders confident that this year's fund-raising drive to assist 52 local, national and overseas agencies will be one of the most successful in the 10-year history of the GJC. The guest speaker will be Capt. Joshua L. Goldberg, the U. S. Navy's highest-ranking Jewish clergyman and district chaplain of the Third Naval District.

Mrs. Elias has stressed the importance of all contributors being present at the Initial Gifts luncheon and, as an added incentive, has announced several prizes. There will be an attendance prize to the lucky ticket holder and a special prize for "Plus Giving." (Each $10 increase above the 1954 gift will entitle those attending to one ticket for the special prize.)

The minimum gift at this affair is $100 to the GJC campaign.

Mrs. Saul Feinberg is Initial Gifts chairman and will preside at the luncheon.

Mrs. Elias has named Mrs. Burton Finberg as chairman of the hostesses for the Initial Gifts luncheon.

The following will assist Mrs. Finberg as hostesses: Mrs. Edward Aron, Mrs. Bertram L. Bernhardt, Mrs. Benjamin Brier, Mrs. Irving I. Coken, Mrs. Raymond G. Franks, Mrs. Samuel Ganzer, Mrs. Sheldon Gerber, Mrs. Thomas H. Goldberg, Mrs. Max L. Grant, Mrs. Henry J. Hassenfeld, Mrs. Sidney A. Kane, Mrs. Lewis Korn, Mrs. Marshall Leeds, Mrs. Paul Levinger, Mrs. Max Margolis, Mrs. William Meyers, Mrs. Samuel Michaelson, Mrs. Lawrence Paley, Mrs. Samuel Rapaport, Jr., Mrs. Alvin Rice, Mrs. Albert Rosen, Mrs. Nathan Samors, Mrs. Beryl Segal, Mrs. Robert Shoor and Mrs. Harold Weiner.

The Women's Division campaign will be climaxed by M-Day on Sunday, October 30. This is the one-day house-to-house solicitation of funds for the GJC campaign.

LAUNCH FREIGHTER

HAMBURG — A new freighter for Israel, Athlit, was launched this week at the Kremer shipyards near Elmshorn. Guest at the launching ceremony was Mrs. Susanne Sanker, whose husband, Fritz Sanger, spearheaded the German "Peace With Israel" movement.

Oil Discovery To Aid Economy

TEL AVIV — Israel's economic, political and defense situation is expected to improve as a result of the discovery of oil in the Negev last Friday, it was reported here this week. First estimate of the production capacity of the well brought in at Huleikat, 30 miles south of here and six miles northeast of the Egyptian-held Gaza strip, was that it might yield 100,000 tons annually, about 10% of Israel's total need, which she now imports at a cost of about $40,000,000.

Oil was found at 4,906 feet in a well started by the Iraq Petroleum Company a British corporation, which had abandoned the hole when the Mandatory Government was forced to quit Palestine upon the birth of Israel. Dov Joseph, Development Minister, claimed that the first strike had revealed oil in "commercial quantities."

It was found to be of high quality, equalling that of the Arabian Gulf oil fields of Kuwait. Not only is the discovery of oil liable to lead to a reduction of Israel's expenditure of foreign currency, but also to a resumption of major operations at the Haifa oil refineries.

The dome formation in which oil was found is similar in structure to rock formations found throughout the length of the Israel coastal plain and extending along the Gaza strip frontier area southward toward the Egyptian Sinai Peninsula. The strike was made by the Lapidoth Oil Company.

Joint Venture

This concern is a joint venture of the Mekoroth Water Company, itself an enterprise set up by the Histadrut, the Israel Labor Federation, and of the American-Israel Petroleum Corporation.

American-Israel Petroleum is largely controlled by the Ampal-American Israel Corporation of New York, and by the Israel Industrial and Mineral Development Corporation, which was set up by Ampal in 1953. In addition, there is a small group of private investors in American-Israel Petroleum.

"Egypt's move to obtain arms from the Soviet bloc is provocative and irresponsible," said the conservative New York Times editorially the day after the world learned about Premier Nasser's brazen move. Invited to USSR
For Reply on 68
Missing Writers

NEW YORK — The Jewish Labor Committee last week reported that it was told by Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin to come to Moscow "and take up directly" the case of "missing" 68 Soviet Jewish writers and other Jewish cultural matters of concern to the Jewish community.

The invitation was made in the presence of Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov at the opening session of the United Nations General Assembly in New York after Molotov had been presented with a message from Adolph Held, chairman of the JLC, urging him to take immediate action in the six-year-old effort by the JLC to ascertain the fate of the Jewish writers, artists and cultural leaders and organizations.

Zarubin informed representatives of the JLC, who had personally delivered the Held note to Molotov, that he "hopes soon" that a rabbinical delegation would go to the Soviet Union, and he suggested that they and "other organizations like yours who are concerned with these problems, come to Moscow and take up the matter directly with the leaders there."

has done is calculated to stir up a hornet's nest. The flirtation between Cairo and Moscow has been going on for months.

One of the nightmares of Western diplomacy since the war has been that the Russians would openly cast their lot on the Arab side against Israel. "In an attempt to save the day — and Egypt's prestige in the West — Dulles hurriedly sent his Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs, George V. Allen, off on a flying trip to Cairo. . . . Meanwhile, Britain, whose stake in the Middle East is great, is beginning to worry whether Nasser's regime can be relied upon as custodians of the Suez Canal. Continuous Egyptian blockade of Israel-bound shipping has increased London's worries, since this blockade has been extended to the Gulf of Aqaba.

Eban Says U.S. Should Sell Israel

CAIRO—Egypt and Israel have finished pulling back their troops from the demilitarized El Aja-Nizana zone but on the diplomatic front the battle of words continued over Egyptian plans to buy Communist arms.

Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser told military academy graduates in a speech that Egyptian intelligence had intercepted a message from the British War Ministry to the British Foreign Office saying Egypt would work to avoid aggression "but we have little confidence that Israel will follow the same policy."

There was no immediate comment from the British.

On the Israeli side, the Jewish nation's Ambassador to the United States, Abba Eban, told an American television audience the United States should sell Israel arms "if the balance of power in the Middle East is going to be disturbed."

Moscow radio defended the right of Egypt to buy arms wherever she chooses. A broadcast heard in London said the Soviet government had so informed Egypt, Czechoslovakia, from which the Egyptians plan to buy heavy arms the west won't sell them, and Britain and the United States.

On this point, the Soviets and the American government were officially in agreement. Assistant U. S. Secretary of State George Allen told reporters in Cairo Saturday that a "sovereign nation has the right to get arms from any source." Allen is continuing his conferences with Egyptian officials and the British and French ambassadors here in an effort to persuade the Egyptians not to get their weapons from the communist bloc.

Nasser Blasts West

Nasser in his speech blasted the U. S.-British-French promise to maintain the Israeli-Arab balance of power. He accused the Western powers of arming Israel while trying to leave the Egyptian and other Arab armies weak.

The U. S. offered to sell arms to the Egyptians but not the heavy tanks, heavy artillery and jet bombers she wants.

The semi-official newspaper Al Gumhuriya today published copies of the alleged British intelligence report, as well as of a purported French report on Western arms deliveries to Israel.

The latter report said Israel has received 12 PT17 trainers from the U. S.

"My Yiddishe Parakeet"

by anna t. richards

"Hello, Marsha"; "Pretty Marsha"; "Wake up, Daddy"—now, you would expect to hear this kind of talk from a parakeet. But, Mrs. Morris Charifson of 130 Cypress Street wasn't satisfied with the usual. She wanted a parakeet who spoke Yiddish too.

It all began when she bought "Billy" in a local department store about a year ago as a companion for her nine-year old daughter, Marsha Susan. Billy's elocution lessons started with the ordinary greetings in English that parakeets are used to.

Then, since he seemed to have a larger vocabulary than the run-of-the-mill bird, Mrs. Charifson taught him to say, "Hello, Bubbe", as a surprise for Marsha's grandmother. The next phrase was "Gotte voch, Bubbe" . . . and there's no stopping the blue feathered one now.

Being a true Kosher bird, he recently learned to say "Happy New Year", but even though the holiday is over, the Charifson family will hear the greeting from now on, since Billy is not governed by calendars.

As a security measure, Billy is learning to spout "100 Falcon Avenue", the Charifson's address when they move to Warwick in a few weeks. If he ever flies out of the house and is found by a neighbor, there will be no trouble finding out where he comes from.

Most Parakeets wear a band on their leg to be easily identified. But Billy doesn't need one, he's easily distinguished among the parakeet crowd — after all, how many of his flock can speak Yiddish?

Putnam Asks for Synagogue Aid

PUTNAM, Conn. — Although busy giving solace to flood victims from their congregations, several ministers of Putnam churches have taken a keen interest in the fate of the Sons of Zion Synagogue which was inundated in the recent floods, with damage estimated at a minimum of $40,000.

The ministers are presently discussing the possibility of conducting a campaign on behalf of the synagogue and a local Baptist Church which was less severely damaged by the flood waters.

Meanwhile, the congregants of the synagogue have been heartened by initial offers of assistance which have been received from various sources. Several small contributions have been sent by individuals in Worcester, in addition to a gift of $100 from the Brotherhood of the local Shaarai Torah Synagogue.

Indicative of the spirit of the Sons of Zion members, almost all of whom suffered huge personal losses, is their action in collecting $500 for one of their number who was rendered destitute and homeless by the flood.

FACTS ABOUT THE JIMMY FUND

The Jimmy Fund is the fund-raising agency of the Children's Cancer Research Foundation, the only foundation in the world devoted exclusively to research concerning the nature, treatment and hopefully the cure of cancer in children.

The Jimmy Fund Building is at the famous Children's Medical Center in Boston. The land on which it stands was obtained by arrangement with the Harvard Medical School, Children's Hospital, and Good Samaritan Hospital.

More than 100 children from Rhode Island have been treated by the Foundation to date. All treatments and medicines are absolutely free at the Jimmy Fund Clinic.

At this clinic, great strides have been made toward finding a cure for this greatest 'killer' between the ages of 1 and 14. The life-expectancy of cases that five years ago would have been no more than three months, has been lengthened to six years in some instances by this important research.

There are no paid executives in the Jimmy Fund. The Variety Club and public-spirited members of the Motion Picture Industry, Red Sox, together with the Press, Television, and Radio, Police Chiefs in every city, and thousands of children, contribute their services each year in the raising of this worthy fund.

Foods to Remember

UNCOOKED FRUIT SQUARES

- 1 cup candied cherries
- 1 cup pitted dates
- 1 cup figs, stems removed
- 1 cup candied orange or grapefruit peel
- 1 cup walnuts or almonds
- 2 tablespoons lemon or orange juice

Pack the ingredients tightly for measuring. Put through food chopper, using fine blade, all ingredients except fruit juice. Work in the fruit juice a little at a time. If a sweeter combination is desired, add a little sugar to taste when working in the juice to make a thick paste. Flatten on a well sugared board to 1/4 inch thickness and cut into 1 or 1 1/2 inch squares or diamond shapes. Or, cut out little rounds with a thumb. Let stand overnight on the board to dry. Top with a little bit of orange frosting and press in a sliver of blanched almond, a bit of candied cherry or a little strip of colored candied fruit peel.

ORANGE FROSTING

- 1 cup confectioner's sugar
- 2 teaspoons melted butter or vegetable shortening
- 2 tablespoons orange juice
- A little grated orange rind
- 2 drops of orange or yellow vegetable coloring

Combine with a fork to make a smooth mixture of spreading consistency for the larger cuts, then add more confectioner's sugar and stir till smooth for a thicker consistency to be used for topping in the shape of a tiny ball. Press in the nut or other garnish before the frosting hardens.

PECAN BALLS

- 1/4 pound butter
  - 1 teaspoonful vanilla
  - 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
  - 1/8 teaspoonful salt
  - 3 tablespoons granulated sugar
  - 1 cup coarsely chopped pecans
  - 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
- Cream butter and vanilla till blended. Combine sifted flour, salt, granulated sugar and chopped pecans. Blend with the creamed mixture till a compact ball is formed. Roll small bits between palms of your hands—size may be like marbles or larger. Bake on an ungreased cookie sheet 15 minutes at 350° F. Have a paper bag handy and in it place the confectioners' sugar. Place the baked balls in bag a few at a time while hot from the oven and shake gently to coat lightly. Yields 24 to 36 balls, depending on size.

Lebanese Promise To Halt Sabotage

JERUSALEM — The Lebanese Government promises that it will not permit further acts of sabotage to be planned or launched by infiltrators from Lebanon territory, the Lebanese delegation to the Israel-Lebanese Mixed Armistice Commission informed the commission today. The Arab delegation further accepted full responsibility for the Government of Lebanon for the attack last week on the settlement of Alma, in Upper Galilee, where two homes and a barn were blasted by infiltrators.

Cardinal Assures He Is Not Anti-Semitic

RIO DE JANEIRO — Carlos Carmelo Cardinal Vasconcelos Motta, of Sao Paulo, Brazil, has issued a statement assuring Brazilian Jewry that he feels "no animosity towards the Jews" and that "the divergencies in our doctrines are no obstacle to the communion of interests we have in other sectors." The leader of the Catholic Church made this statement in an interview with Aron Neumann, editor and publisher of Aonde Vamos, a Portuguese-language Jewish weekly publication, in a move to allay fears provoked among the Brazilian Jews by one of his pastoral letters, in which he stated that the number of Jews in Brazil "is constantly increasing" and that "they insinuate themselves in all universities as teachers and students."

Israel's Income Exceeds Forecast

JERUSALEM — For the first time since Israel came into existence, the country's actual income in foreign currency exceeded in 1954-55 the Government's forecast by 52 million dollars.

And the contributions of American Jewry to the United Jewish Appeal played no small role in this significant development. The Israel Government built its budget on an expected income of 346 million dollars in foreign currency. However, the actual income turned out to be close to 398 million dollars.

This pleasant surprise was due to a number of factors. First, Israel exports — both visible and invisible — brought in five million dollars more than anticipated in the budget.

Then Germany paid Israel 35 million dollars more in reparations than the 59 million envisaged in the Israel budget.

Similarly the UJA and the bond campaign brought to the Israel Treasury about 22 million dollars more than the government had expected. There were also other items of income in Israel's foreign currency budget which exceeded the original estimate.

On the other hand, Israel figured on 74 million dollars from U. S. grants-in-aid, but received about thirty million dollars less. All in all, Israel's foreign currency income during the year was about 398 million dollars.

This success, however, is still only a partial one. It will not be complete until Israel is able to cover her needs — at least for consumption and import requirements — through her own efforts.

Decent Ending to a Dismal Case

Navy Secretary Thomas has corrected a shameful bureaucratic stupidity by ordering an ensign's commission awarded to merchant seaman Eugene W. Landy. He was denied his commission in a painful graduation scene at the Merchant Marine Academy last summer because his mother once was a Communist.

One thing fundamental to the American way of life is that each man, regardless of his origin, stands or falls by his own efforts and record.

Secretary Thomas said his "common sense evaluation" of the case led him to conclude that seaman Landy is entitled to his ensign's stripe. More common sense and less red tape could have saved the Navy this embarrassing situation and protected seaman Landy from an unwarranted indignity.

As We Were Saying:

The Frustrated Feeneyites Become More Aggressive

By ROBERT E. SEGAL

BOSTON—For about six years now, Leonard J. Feeney and his small band of youthful followers have harangued the curious each Sunday afternoon on Boston Common, making full use of one of America's proudest privileges—free speech.

It was quite natural, therefore, that when the Catholic Feeneyites moved off of Boston Common onto the busy streets of downtown Boston right after Labor Day, it did not take people very long to cast their vote against the diehard, fanatical movement.

The Feeneyites appeared to be protesting the scheduled dedication by Archbishop Cushing of the new Catholic chapel at Brandeis University. Actually, they used this newsworthy event to urge Catholics of Boston to "stop the Jews." In this instance, these alleged outcasts were to be stopped from having a Catholic chapel dedicated. In the next instance, it might be something else again.

Back in 1953, the excommunicated priest (Leonard Feeney) and his young admirers peddled a book called Saints to Know and Love, a narcissistic treatment of their highly discredited movement. In that book they made a strong bid for martyrdom. So, too, when they parade Boston streets, they seek martyrdom by offering ripe possibilities for street brawls.

Invaded Harvard Campus
In their activities, the Feeneyites have set up a curious double standard: Back in April, they boorishly invaded a Cambridge meeting where President Nathan M. Pusey of Harvard was speaking. They indignantly let President Pusey know they would hold him personally responsible if the Harvard Crimson printed anything about their group.

But when for six years, the Feeneyites went to Boston Common, vilifying Archbishop Cushing, prominent rabbis and Protestant clergymen, Governor Herter and others, these aggressive cultists apparently did not expect anybody to hold them responsible for their gibberishness and nonsense.

Just how wild is their aim? Ejected from Notre Dame during one of their frequent literature-hawking journeys, they cried: "The first sign of your damnation is that Notre Dame has Protestants on its football team."

Closer to home, they have referred to the Archbishop as a pawn of the Jews and Protestants; they have blamed Connecticut's recent floods on Governor Ribicoff's ancestry; and they have complained that the Catholics of Boston invited the polio epidemic because they turned their children over to Jewish doctors.

Displeased by Archbishop
Seeing the Feeneyites operate downtown Boston with their bold unsigned appeal to "Catholics of Boston," the uninformed might think the group still has standing with the church they claim to represent. Actually, as far back as April, 1949, Archbishop Cushing issued a decree declaring: "Because of grave offense against the general laws of the Catholic Church, he (Father Feeney) has lost the right to perform any priestly functions, including preaching and teaching of religion."

In the same year, St. Benedict's Center at Cambridge (operating headquarters of the Feeneyites which had been officially set up in 1940 as a Catholic student headquarters for Harvard, Radcliffe and other Greater Boston colleges) was proscribed to Catholics "under pain of forfeiting the right to receive the Sacrament of Penance and the Holy Eucharist."

The Vatican, in 1949, had held Father Feeney in error in preaching his conception of no salvation outside the Catholic Church. Thrice the Vatican directed Father Feeney to appear in Rome. In response, he told newsmen he did not consider the summonses "authentic." Finally, early in 1953, the Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office in Rome excommunicated him.

And so, in recent months, Feeney and the most active of his 54 disciples have accelerated their anti-Jewish utterances. An old, old refrain for us—is it not? For well do we know that the deeper the frustration of those who hate, the wilder the oratorical swing!

"One Man's Opinion"

School Bells Are Ringing Joyfully

By BERYL SEGAL

"Rejoice and be glad on Simchas Torah!"

Whether or not you will be chanting this refrain on Simchas Torah, the day on which Jews proclaim their love for the study of the Torah, it is good to know that our people look upon the preoccupation with learning and the pursuit of knowledge as the highest rung of human pleasure.

And it is with pleasure that we talk today about the Jewish schools and the opportunities for Jewish studies in our community. If I sound off on a high note, it is not a trumped up enthusiasm on my part. Things really look brighter in Jewish education. They are brighter on the threshold of this new school season than they were last year, and last year they were more hopeful than they were the preceding years. At last the path leads upwards instead of the reverse.

It was not always that way. Five years ago the outlook was gloomy indeed. Five years ago we were told in a survey that we were way behind other communities of our size, and that we were poorer in Jewish education than our neighboring cities, New Haven and Hartford.

A survey of Jewish education today would show a different picture altogether. But even without surveys we sense the climb upwards. Dr. Harry Elkin, director of the Bureau of Jewish Education for Greater Providence, will tell you that the pupil population in the Jewish schools has doubled since 1952. All of it is not accounted for by an increase in general population. It is clearly due to a greater awareness on the part of the parents of the need, the benefits, and the opportunities for the Jewish education of their children.

Quality and Quantity
Were the growth of our schools in number only, we would find little cause for rejoicing. Truthfully the growth has been in quality as well as in quantity. As a life-long teacher and worker in and around schools, I can testify that our Jewish schools today are a far cry from what they were in the past. Our children today pursue their Jewish studies in pleasant, well appointed class rooms. Their teachers are men and women of culture, well prepared for their profession; imbued, in addition, with a deep sense of their responsibilities, and a high degree of idealism.

From my personal observations and experience, I can also testify to the changed attitude on the parts of parents to the Jewish school and its teachers. More and more the teachers are accorded the respect and social standing due to them, and more and more the profession is rewarding financially as well as socially.

Teaching in Jewish schools is today a good profession, worthy to train for and to make one's life work. Young people, in greater numbers, choose Jewish teaching as their profession, and qualify for it in teacher training colleges. We may well look forward to the day when teaching will be as acceptable, and as rewarding, to our young people as the Rabbinate and social work.

But let us not be carried away by dreams of the future. We return back to our schools to see whether this spirit of elation is justified.

Our Hebrew Day School is now entering the ninth academic year. All the dire predictions of a short life and sure failure have proven false. The Hebrew Day School lives, and prospers, and lacks no students. On the other hand, the crying need now is for more room, a larger building for the extensive activities of the school. But of the Hebrew Day School and its place in our community I hope to write at length.

Eight Year Old Rule

Emanuel pioneered the "EIGHT-YEAR-OLD-RULE" in Providence. By this is meant that only children under eight years may attend Sunday School and no more. All boys and girls who have reached the age of eight are to come to the week-day classes. The reason is obvious. One cannot speak of Jewish education, without blushing, if that education is confined to Sunday School only. Just consider. One hour a week? Thirty hours a year? How much of language, of history, of literature can you hope to learn? And so Emanuel, together with other schools in the land, adopted the Eight-Year-Old Rule three years ago, and it is now well established and gladly accepted by parents and children.

Now Beth-Israel introduces the same plan, and the parents and the children of that school, too, will see the wisdom of the plan, and the urgency of accepting it.

Beth El, Sons of Abraham, Cranston Center, Rodef Sholom, and Shaare Zedek have weekday as well as Sunday classes for all ages, and the children are encouraged to want more and not less of Jewish education.

Pawtucket and Woonsocket have had good Talmud Torahs for years, and in Woonsocket, we are told, 80 percent of the children attend the week-day classes in the Talmud Torah.

Warwick, a mere infant of one year, is learning to walk right from the very beginning. The Warwick Hebrew School is putting the Eight-Year-Old Rule in effect right now. Sunday School for the young ones, week-day school for ages eight and older.

Two New Schools
And we have two newcomers. Very welcome additions to our school family, and I am sure that you will be as delighted as I was to hear about them. Two new centers of Jewish education for children open their doors for the first time this season.

Eastward Jewish Center and School, located East of the Providence River, will serve the Jewish families residing in East Providence, Riverside and Barrington, will cross the state line into Seekonk, Mass.

Kingston Hebrew School, on the campus of the University of Rhode Island, will care for the children of members of the faculty and students.

And now something we have been longing for these many, many years. A Community Hebrew High School under the auspices of the Bureau of Jewish Education. In this school the graduates of all our elementary schools will be able to continue their Jewish studies on a higher level. In it also the boys and girls of high school age who have not gone to school before may receive their Jewish education in a manner suitable to their age among classmates of their own age.

Unfortunately, the picture, bright as it is, is not without shadows. East and West and South are doing well and are planning to do even better. How I wish we could say the same for the North End! I wish, in fact, we could say anything about the schools of the North End. Here is something to ponder over. Why cannot the North End with a compact Jewish population provide a good school for the children of that neighborhood? Who is wise enough to know the reason?

Hatoyama, a violin pupil of Richard Burgin, concertmaster of the Boston Symphony, will perform the Bruch violin concerto.

The concert is jointly sponsored by the Order of Sons of Italy, the Providence Journal-Bulletin, and the Music Performance Trust Fund of the American Federation of Musicians. Tickets are free, and can be obtained from the Rhode Island Philharmonic office, 49 Westminster Street; the information desk in the Journal Building; Avery Piano Company; Axelrod Music Co., Inc.; and from members of the Order of Sons of Italy and the Providence Musicians Protective Association.

A Brooklyn Fan Pops Off

by Jimmy Cannon

(Reprinted from the New York Post)

Editor's Note: Many of our subscribers who have read the Pro-Yankee columns of local papers have asked us to publish this article. It appeared on Oct. 2 after the Dodgers won their first victory in the World Series.

The way they get wrote up you'd think every guy on the Yankees was a whole family of brothers instead of a human being which is what a ball player is. What are they some supermen who invented salami?

They're entitled to only one vote on Election Day, same's anybody else. They make the Yankees so big you'd think they could be represented with two senators like they was a state. The politicians is always talking about Alaska or Hawaii being the 49th state. The way the Yankees fans were blowing until Friday, I figured the Yankees would beat out Alaska and Hawaii.

The Dodgers beat them, 8-3, and now it looks like Casey Stengel ain't going to be elected governor of the Yankees. Some of the imbees down the plant where I work made them even bigger than a state. You'd think they was a whole country by themselves like Sweden or somewheres and Casey Stengel was too good to be a governor even. The way they was talking he should be like a King Farouk although personally that ain't a nice thing to say.

Us Dodger fans weren't surprised when they win the third game of the Series in Ebbets Field because we got in the habit of watching them win in Ebbets Field. I admit they ain't never beat the Yankees in a World Series yet and they're playing the sixth one against them. But they beat the Giants which take Leo Durocher after Brooklyn fired him. Where do you think Casey Stengel started in managing in the big leagues? Brooklyn's the place give Stengel his start but no one in Brooklyn ever mixed up with Professor Einstein in them days.

STENDEL

The Yankee fans acted like the Brooks were a pack of sheep which et up a gang of wolves that's pestering them. They know now the Brooks ain't no lamp chops for nobody. But a Yankee fan don't let on the Yankees is just human beings same's anyone whose not a cat or a dog or some animal of some kind. Already a Yankee is a genius if he knows what subway to take to get up to Yankee Stadium after he's lived in New York ten years. You live in Manhattan ten years you got to be a genius, I guess, because that ain't Brooklyn. At least in Brooklyn you could see a piece of grass growing somewheres in somebody's back yard. The only grass you see in Manhattan is in a park or in some flower store.

The way the write-ups read, the Yankees don't even have to play baseball no more. All they got to do is stand there and Casey'll tell them what to do. In them write-ups, Casey must have a whole television station in the dugout to tell the hitters and the pitchers what to do. He must of been a genius Friday all right but no one told Johnny Podres about it. I guess Johnny don't read the write-ups about the Yankees because he acted like it was his birthday which it was.

Can you imagine Johnny Podres goes to bed Thursday night 22 years old and wakes up Friday 23 and beats the Yankees. You couldn't blame him either because long's a guy got to work on his birthday, he might as well spend it in Ebbets Field. Don't believe all them jokes which the comedians on the television tell about Brooklyn. All them television shows come from New York or Hollywood. Anytime someone looks to sneak in a knock on Brooklyn, they say you haven't got no real shows. All the real shows, they say, are on Broadway. Let Manhattan keep the actors. People live in Brooklyn.

Anyways, all the wise bums are making remarks about what's with Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella? All of a sudden, they had their big mouths shut on them. I admit Campy made an error which Bill Skowron knocked the ball out of his hands in the second inning. But also he hit a home run, a double and a single. So let Skowron have the run and give Campanella an error because the ball rolled away from him and Phil Rizzuto went to third on a single. They was asking me what's with Campy. He told them for me. That's what I mean. The same's with Jackie.

He made some plays you'd think Billy Cox was playing third base. What I mean is I can't say no more about a third baseman if you seen Billy Cox when he was with the Brooks, you seen the best. Then he also gets a single and a double which he makes a triple because he's got brains inside his head.

Jackie, he hit this real double to Elston Howard who is playing out in left field for the Yankees. So Howard, he sees Jackie is turning for third and he throwed to second. You throw behind Robinson, you might as well start in drinking coffee to put yourself to sleep.

Walter Alston they don't give him credit for nothing. He puts in Amoros because Bob Turley's pitching righthanded. He got on base four times. Once he singled, twice he walked and another time in the second inning he got hit by a pitched ball. I admit Alston didn't tell him to get hit by Turley. But it just goes to show you if Casey done it, they'd accuse him of some genius angle. I mean if he done it while managing the Yankees. If he done it while managing Brooklyn, they would of said he was no good to get a little fellow hit with a baseball.

Us Brooklyn fans wouldn't be surprised if the Brooks win the next three straight which I also admit possibly couldn't repeat couldn't happen. Us Brooklyn fans are real fair.

Anyways, the Brooklyn ball players would of been taking their vacations this week if they listened to the Yankee fans rap them. None of them invented salami. They're playing a World Series. Baseball ain't a racket for geniuses. No genius has a job he got to get his clothes dirty to make a living. All ball players is human beings which ain't a bad thing to be at that.

Random Thoughts

Random thoughts that occur while watching and listening to a World Series . . .

It's possible that this Series may prove to be the making of Bob Turley. The Yankee fireballer had an indifferent, even mediocre, year, unable to beat the first division clubs, blowing up under pressure, unable to master the curve to set off his fast one . . . all in all, a severe disappointment. A case in point is his Series start, in which he was knocked out in the second inning.

But Bullet Bob may have found his niche. In relief of Bob Grim, in the fifth game, Turley was superb, blazing his fast ball in for five strikeouts in two innings, and stifling the Dodgers' power boys even though they knew just what was coming.

In other words, maybe Turley is destined to be a relief pitcher. It will be recalled that another fast ball pitcher who somehow was totally ineffective as a starter became one of the great relief men of all time—Joe Page. The ability to come in to relieve with more speed than the previous pitchers had displayed was the factor that made Page spectacular and effective.

Maybe Turley, who cannot pace himself well over the full route, would operate best out of the bullpen, over short stretches two or three times a week. The constant work at the lesser distance might solve his control problem.

Let-up pitches played a prominent role in the Series. Johnny Podres, in the third game, kept the Yankees off balance all the way with his change-up, and credited that for his superb win. Two days later Bob Grim pitched a highly effective game, the Dodgers finding it impossible to solve his fast ball, curve and slider, save for a Duke Snider home run. But Grim attempted three changeup pitches, the last two of which were whacked for homers. And that was the ball game.

The case of Carl Erskine is a puzzler to this writer. Here is a pitcher with worlds of stuff, plenty of heart and stamina; yet he wins only in spurts, whether in World Series competition or during the regular season. Erskine's lifetime record is a spotty one for a man of his talents. It is most surprising when you consider that he pitches for one of the best hitting clubs in the National League.

Thinking of Erskine reminds me of Willard Nixon of the Red Sox. Here is another puzzle. A pitcher with outstanding talent, who is looked up to all over the American League as the master of the famed Yankees, yet is unable to win consistently. Year after year it appears in the spring that this will be Nixon's year, when Willard will blossom into maturity. But at season's end, he still sports a mediocre record.

This past season, for example, Nixon had a 4-3 record over the Yanks, two of his setbacks coming when the Yanks were driving for the pennant and the Sox had let down. Yet, against the other teams in the league, including the second division outfits, Will was no better than nine wins and eight defeats. That's incredible! A measly 13 wins and 11 defeats for a pitcher of Nixon's caliber is mystifying and incomprehensible. The guy seemingly should be a 20-game winner almost every year.

Thinking of the Series and of the Red Sox always reminds me of what must—or should—be considered a Boston tragedy. It is commonly known that the Boston club originally bought the Louis-

Editorial

During the World Series, the scores would have been far different from what they actually turned out to be if every foul ball had to be played as fair and every foul fly into the stands were a homer.

Such, however, is not the case in baseball. Nor is the foul line disregarded in tennis. Yet, for some strange and still hard to understand reason, bowlers seem to feel the foul line extends from where the rules say it is anywhere up to the red line on the alley.

The Duckpin World, official publication of the National Duckpin Bowling Congress, makes a strong point for observing the foul line in its September issue. It notes that the three million ten pin bowlers in the country strictly observe the foul line. It makes for a better game all around.

The article makes this observation: "Did it ever occur to you that the rules for all sports, including bowling, are made for the betterment of the game and for more enjoyment by the participant?"

A baseball pitcher observes his foul line—the rubber. What would happen to that game if the pitcher is allowed to deliver the ball from six inches, a foot or two in front of the rubber? The answer is obvious, and that parallels what the bowler does when he goes over the foul line.

Matches may be won or lost this coming season in the leagues of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress, because someone went over the foul line. Observe carefully in the coming weeks if the man who crosses the line on your team is winning or costing you the string. Chances are he's doing you little good.

The congress last year made the foul line observance a must in the open tournament. It proved costly to some bowlers. This season, fouls will be called on bowlers in both the open and Class A categories in the open tourney in March. Eventually, it'll be a normal part of all congress tournaments.

Amendments Made To Constitution

Several amendments have been made to the constitution, by-laws, rules and regulations of the National Duckpin Bowling Congress, of which the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress is a member.

Most changes and additions deal with the make-up of the national's executive committee and participation in national tournaments. However, the changes to Rule 20-A are of importance locally, since bowling establishments in the state are beginning to install automatic pinsetting machines.

Here are the new rules in that connection:

"When a foul occurs on the first ball, all pins shall be reset, that ball is lost and the bowler has two balls remaining in that box.

"When a foul occurs on the second ball, pins knocked down shall count as though knocked down by the third ball, that ball is lost and the bowler is finished for that box.

"When a foul occurs on the third ball, both the ball and the pins knocked down by that ball are lost, giving the bowler the pins knocked down by the first and second balls for the total pins in that box."

Of course, all records and averages established on alleys where automatic pinsetting machines are used are to be recognized.

Admit Independents To Bowling League

The Independents, a newly-organized league, was admitted to membership at the monthly meeting of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress last Sunday morning at the Dreyfus Hotel.

The new league bowls Tuesday nights at 9 o'clock at the Bowladrome on Smithfield Avenue. Jerry Cherniak is president.

During the meeting, presided over by Nat Alterman of Beth El, congress president, the first four articles of by-laws governing the conduct of the parent organization and the member leagues were adopted. Discussion and adoption of the remaining articles will be taken up at the next meeting, Nov. 6.

Alterman impressed upon the delegates that breakfast meetings will begin at 9:30 A. M. from now on, and prompt attendance is necessary for the proper conduct of congress business.

One problem discussed and still to be finally determined is the matter of six-man teams. Most congress leagues are composed of five-man teams, but Beth Israel, because of its large membership and limited bowling facilities, has six bowlers per squad. The delegates decided to come up with some method whereby Beth Israel may compete for team trophies in the congress, which bases its winners on five-man teams.

It would be well if leagues did something along this line. The foul line is there. It is meant to be observed by all bowlers, just as athletes—both professional and amateur—must take the penalty of a foul in other sports.

Notice To Correspondents

It is the responsibility of the correspondents of the leagues in the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress to turn in their weekly reports immediately now that standard forms are available.

That means, correspondents should fill out the forms of the leagues on the nights they bowl and put them in the mail that night at the post office.

First Tournament Set For October 23

The first tournament of the 1955-56 year under the sponsorship of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress will be mixed doubles, Oct. 23, at the R. I. Recreation alleys on the Pawtucket-Providence line.

Sam Segal of Beth Israel, vice president in charge of tournaments, announced that previous rules will prevail, and the man and woman team need not be husband and wife.

Murray Trinkle of Beth El and Miss Gloria Cohen of Hope Chapter, B'nai B'rith, with 661, were last year's high three winners, while Si Aron of Beth Israel and Mrs. Ruth Robrish of Beth Israel Sisterhood, with a combined single of 244, were first in that category.

Charity tournaments once again will be held this season, with the January matches assigned to the Bowladrome on Smithfield Avenue and the February event slated for the Casino Alleys on Pine Street.

The big Open Tournament will be held in March at the Hamlet Lanes in Pawtucket. The following categories will prevail:

108 and up with no handicap, open; 97 to 107 with ¼ handicap, Class A, and 96 and down with ¼ handicap, Class B.

The major competition, the Herald Trophy tournaments, will be held in May, with the temple matches at the Casino Alleys and the fraternal leagues meeting at the Legion Bowladrome on Park Avenue, Cranston. The rolloff between the winners of these tourneys will be held in the latter part of May at the Bowladrome on Smithfield Avenue.

April will be the time for the combination five-man team matches. That tourney is for any five bowlers from each of the leagues. Additional plans will be made public at a later date.

The team championship will take place at the end of the bowling season with the first place team in each league competing for the honors won last season by Beth David's quintet of Bander, Backner, Ken Resnick, Movsovitv and Snell.

Arrangements will be made for each league's winning team to bowl for the title within a few weeks of the end of its season, instead of having to wait for a later date, as in the past.

Segal is urging all league officers to cooperate with the congress by entering full teams in all tournaments and informing the individual bowlers of the matches in which they may compete.

Alley Gossip

By Joe Gutterball

So Air Force beat Navy, Brown beat Maryland, Rhode Island topped Army. Oh, yeh! Well, that's the report from our bowling correspondents. Here's a word of advice: Use the full names of all bowlers on a team that rolls an outstanding string or sets a record. The team names mean little to other leagues.

Beth El's loss is Harvard's gain, according to our man on the scene, Jack Appelbaum. He says Steve Shatkin attended Beth El's opening night of bowling to say "so long" to his friends of the previous few seasons. Steve is one of the beanie boys of John Harvard's freshman class. His dad is Alie Shatkin, league president.

Howie Cohen, one of the stalwarts of Emanuel, is on the sidelines this season, and all league members say he's really missed. Howie always found time to do more than just bowl. His efforts in the past helped make the congress what it is today.

Who says it can't be done? Some of the Beth Israel kegglers in the lower bracket are hitting the high spots. Ben Swerling's 87 average meant nothing when he came up with a 118 string.

Cranston lays claim to the first triple strike of the season. Arthur Kleinman, a spare, made three clean sweeps in marking up a 124 string on the league's opening night, Sept. 11. Anyone else?

Congress bowlers who took part in the National Duck Pin Bowling Congress tournament last spring at the Hamlet Lanes in Pawtucket will have to make long range plans for the next championship matches. The national tourney is listed for Charlotte, N. C., March 17 to April 29, 1956.

All the hot-shot bowlers can line up on the right and take notice. The leading woman duck pin bowler in the country is a gal from Baltimore, Md. She's Mrs. Elizabeth Barger. Her average (and this is in sanctioned matches where the foul line is observed) is 121-plus. Just for the record, the nation's top men's duck pin bowler is William Brozey, also of Baltimore, whose average is 130-288-304.

CRANSTON

By Ben Bloch

Cranston bowlers are well pleased with the new automatic pin-setting machines the Legion Bowlsdrome now sports. In the first week, Fred Kaffrisen rolled a high three of 369 and Harold Aven turned in a 150 for high single. Nate Honig bowled 358 with a 129 single. Spare Arthur Kleinman threw a triple strike to post 124.

Other high scores were Jack Perler 357, 127; Sam Rose 347, 120; Albe Samdperil 348, 127; Joe Alcott 344, 123; Mike Miller 334, 125; Ben Mellion 326, 114; Leo Miller 326, 113, and Sam Miller 321, 119.

In the second week of bowling, the all-time record for high team three was almost shattered by the Senators' score of 1626. The team took three of the four points from the Browns, who rolled 1553.

Leo Miller became first in individual high three with 388 and had a single of 137. Spare Ruby Plushner rolled 337 with a high string of 143.

High scores for the night were Marv Rodinsky 370, 135; Albe Samdperil 359, 135; Clare Bazar 349, 135; Ben Mellion 348, 133; Doc Fershtman 347, 123; Jordy Abrams 345, 133; Moe Filler 343, 134; Fred Kaffrisen 334, 128; Bill Deitch 333, 119; Marty Kenrick 331, 126; Sam Rose 326, 118; Bernie Rakoff 321, 111; Ben Lerner 320, 111; Norm Bomzer 318, 136; and Mike Miller 315, 125.

BETH ISRAEL

By Samuel Osterman

Sam Segal, the league president, set the pattern with high single and high three marks of 161 and 389, respectively on opening night. His scores topped those of Dave Resnick, who turned in a 156 single and 378 triple as Navy rolled an outstanding 713 string and 1974 triple. The team is captained by Sam Eisenberg and also includes Charles Miller, who rolled 362; Harry Freehof, who pinned 340; Aaron Bromson and Charles Goodman.

A team three of 1876 was recorded by Army as Capt. Harold Fishman rolled 382, Jacob Hoffman 346, Leonard Cohen 318, Si Aron 311, Joseph Margolis 293 and Ab Sentler 256.

Other top efforts were turned in by Max Factor with 363, Jacob Hoffman 356 and Ben Swerling, an 87 average man, who rolled a 118 single.

On the following bowling night, Joshua Ross coupled a 140 single with a 356 triple to be high man. Aaron Bromson and Si Aron came up with 349, while Herbert Fain had 344. Two low 90 bowlers had good nights. Ab Robish rolled 327 and Leonard Chernack 339.

The correspondent is trying to figure out how Max Factor could roll 363 on opening night and 266 (that's right) the following week.

AEPJ

By Jerry Freiberg

Sid Dressler and Noah Temkin led in the second week of practice bowling with high threes each of 351 and high singles of 131. Merrill Temkin with 246 and Lloyd Weiner with 341 also tripled high.

Other high threes were rolled by Roy Kessler 337, Don Pokras 336, Marv Geller 331, Burt Himelfarb 322 and Marv Meyers 321. High singles were made by Geller and Pokras 120, Weiner 119 and Harv Fellman 115.

Kessler's leading individual average of 116 is followed by Himelfarb 115, Dressler 113, Pokras 112 and Marv Geller and Gerry Deitch both with 110.

High threes to date are led by Himelfarb 369, Kessler 362, Dressler 351, Deitch 347, and Temkin 346. Len Decof's high single of 140 is followed by Himelfarb 138, Dressler 132, Temkin 131 and Dressler and Geller 127.

The first practice week brought up most of the high figures.

TEMPLE BETH EL

By Jack Applebaum

The league opened a new season with 40 men sporting averages of 100 or better. Cy Berkelhammer set a high of 161. Joe Orchoff's team posted a high three of 1574 and a high team single of 580.

New president Alie Shatkin set a good example with his triple of 360. Retired president Nat Alterman bowled 372, Phil Shaulson 362 and Lester Segal 350. Other good triples were Sumner Pomerantz 322, Irwin Sumner 321, Dexter Cohen 319, Bert Himelfarb 361, Don Breslow 336 and Herb Goldstein 325.

Center Answers B. Alter

I was very much interested in the article by B. Alter in last week's Herald. It was rather surprising and somewhat disappointing that one who assumes to evaluate our Jewish community year should be so poorly informed regarding the program of the Jewish Community Center.

We, too, are proud of the Center-sponsored Jewish Community Year Book which Mr. Alter listed among the noteworthy accomplishments of 1954-1955. However, any one of the parents of many hundreds of children who participated in some phase of Center life last season knows the wide variety of activities offered by the Center for our young people — our Nursery School, the clubs, the Jewish and civic holiday parties and celebrations, classes, trips, Children's Theatre series, Camp Centerland, Camp Jaysee, and Camp Adventure. Obviously, Mr. Alter knows very little about Center, or he would have known of our young people's leadership training program which has been recognized as "tops" in many parts of the country—our Junior Aides of Center (JACS).

Free Discussion

Certainly, he could not have been unaware that when questions face the general, or Jewish community, it is at Center that they are discussed from a free platform, where all points of view can be presented. Center has kept alive the democratic spirit in our community.

Our adult program last year brought to the community outstanding Jewish cultural artists—American and Israeli. Space does not permit us to list them all, but they were well publicized and well attended. And if he is going to evaluate the year ahead as a "disappointment" because of a dance class which happened to be announced in advance of our general program, then I must remind Mr. Alter that the Center program in its entirety results from the planning of many people serving on many committees. These committees have been meeting since August and the programs they have planned are being announced in a Center News bulletin which has been planned for mailing this week. It is also to appear in this issue of the Jewish Herald and, in its entirety, in next week's issue of the Jewish Herald.

Jewish Book Month

However, we are quite surprised that Mr. Alter, if he was disappointed with a dance class announcement, didn't notice the announcement of an outstanding program to begin this program year in observance of Jewish Book Month — our Women's Organization-sponsored dramatization of "The World of Shalom Aleichem" which will be presented in Providence at Hope High School on December 13, with the original New York cast. He also should know that we have made arrangements for an outstanding Jewish Music Month program on March 3 for the Westchester Opera Players to present two original one-act Jewish operas. Either one of these events would be something well worth pointing to with pride. We hope that Mr. Alter will attend these programs and judge for himself what part such programs will play in his next year's evaluation.

The Golden Age program at the Center resulted in the organization of the Friendly Jewish Golden Agers of the Jewish Community Center where many interesting and happy program hours were provided for our older adults. Leaders in our community life such as Alter Boyman, Archibald Silverman, Rabbi Rosen, Rabbi Schussheim, Rabbi Goldin, Dr. Harry Elkin, who visited with this group, would certainly not overlook it in any listing of program-accomplishments at the Jewish Community Center. And certainly the many outstanding programs offered by the Center Parents' Association in the fields of Parent Education, Jewish Culture, etc. and which involved many hundreds of our Jewish parents represented important program contributions to our Center and community year.

At the conclusion of this letter, you will find reproduced a brief report of the varied activities and attendance record for 1954-1955 at Center. It doesn't tell the whole story, of course, but from it the impartial reader certainly can see that an awful lot went on at the Center during the past year.

For many years, our community has been clamoring for Center program in the South Side of our city. Many distinguished community leaders, such as Mr. Alter Boyman and many others, have been active proponents of this idea. But previous efforts to realize this dream met with failure. However, during the Center administration of president, Julius Michaelson, and with the help of our vice-president, Mr. Edmund Wexler, positive steps were taken to acquire a branch building for Center program on the South Side of the city.

Boyman Named Chairman

The first step taken was to select a chairman to head up this effort. Everyone agreed that leadership for the committee should come from the South Side and a distinguished South Side resident, who has earned the title of communal leader during his many years of community service, was named chairman — Mr. Alter Boyman. We were all very happy for we felt under his experienced leadership this project would move quickly to completion. However, there were difficulties beyond his control which made it impossible to make much progress during that season. During that first season, Mr. Alter Boyman and his committee engaged in preliminary planning and we are sure that if Mr. Alter would talk with Mr. Boyman and the members of his committee, they would point out to him why it became necessary to wait until the legislature met in January of this year before the city could give us clear title to the building.

When Mr. Michaelson appointed me chairman to succeed Mr. Boyman, I immediately organized a broadly representative committee to engage in planning and in awarding contracts for work to be done. In my humble opinion, our committee moved speedily during the Springtime to get the work started—work which is just being completed. It is my honest belief that not only the planning and construction proceeded at a rate unequalled by any other communal building project in our community, but we have spared the community another fund-raising campaign at this time. If we waited for a fund-raising campaign at a time when so many were already in progress, this project would have been delayed far beyond the present date. In the interest of speedy preparation of the building, our Center Board authorized a mortgage under which this work has been done. Mr. Alter is right when he says we had members and committees, but he is very, very wrong when he says we had a building and a director for the building. Remember, the building which the city had agreed to transfer to the Center did not become ours until the legislature ratified the city's action in January of this year. It is since January of this year that we must date our progress; since it was not within the power of our Center Board of Directors to act for the legislature in obtaining title to the building before the legislature met. Everyone knows we couldn't fix up a building to which we had not yet received title.

On Hiring a Director

As soon as we knew the building was definitely ours, we proceeded to recruit for a Branch Director. Anyone interested in contacting the Personnel Bureau of the National Jewish Welfare Board will find that the Providence Jewish Community Center's need for a South Side Branch Director was ranked top in their order of recruitment priorities in the country. I can speak of this from personal knowledge, since I was chairman of the Personnel Committee during that period, just prior to my election as Center President. Mr. Kritzman, our Director, and I went to New York many times to interview candidates and our committee interviewed applicants in Providence. Our standards were high and we found very few who measured up to them. A Branch Director was finally employed in July. He made a special effort to terminate his employment at the Canton, Ohio, Center and forewent his vacation in response to our urging that we were anxious to move as quickly as possible into program planning for the new building. Since his arrival in August, he has been busily engaged in meeting with lay-committees, planning furnishings and equipment for the building and the programs which will get underway as soon as the building is ready.

I think it only fair to point out that our scheduled opening immediately after the High Holy Days was delayed by some weeks due to the flooding of our entire basement with 5½ feet of water as the aftermath of hurricane, "Diane." I won't dwell on this point because most of you read it in the Herald some weeks ago.

It's so easy to sit on the sidelines and criticize, but those of us who worked during the administration of Julius Michaelson, and during my administration since June, know that everything possible was done to move the South Side Branch Building to fruition in the quickest possible time despite great difficulties and handicaps. It is, of course difficult to go to every individual in the community with a complete report of the South Side building experience. However, we have made every effort through the pages of the Herald and our Center News to keep our members and the community at-large informed, for Center is a community institution. As a democratic community agency, we seek the greatest possible involvement of all our members in Center planning and decision-making. We think of all that goes on at Center as "community business" and so try to keep the community completely informed of Center Goals, its needs, its problems.

Happy to Provide Information

There may be many in the community who want to know more about what goes on at Center. It would give me the greatest satisfaction to hear from Mr. Alter, or any one else in the community, who needs to have further information about our Center. I will be happy to have them call me to arrange a visit to our Nursery School in operation, to talk with our teachers about their approach to working with children, and learn how Jewish values are brought into the program. We could visit Center for a solid program week and I am convinced that even the most skeptical will come to realize the broad scope of a Center program which cannot be equaled by any other organization in our community. My experiences in the past have been that such people usually become our strongest supporters and advocates for better facilities, and more adequate budget so as to provide even greater opportunities for service by our Jewish Community Center.

ville team as a farm club in order to assure themselves of clear title to a highly touted young shortstop, Pee Wee Reese.

The manager of the Red Sox took a dim view of bringing the rookie up to Boston, for he had no intentions of removing the man who then was playing short for the Sox. So it happened that Reese was permitted to leave the Boston organization. A few years later, Johnny Pesky became the Boston short fielder.

Pesky is no longer in the majors, while Reese is going strong. Moreover, Reese has been the heart of the Brooklyn club, both at bat and in the field. As a right hand batter in a short left field park, Reese developed plenty of power that contributed to his team's success.

In Boston, he would have been even a greater threat, such as the southpaw swinging Pesky could never aspire to be.

Looking back through the years, it is regrettable that shortstop Joe Cronin stood in so solidly with Manager Joe Cronin. Between them, Reese never had a chance. On such intangibles are baseball fortunes won and lost.

The 1955 World Series took a most unusual twist in the pitching department. Normally, in recent years, the American League club has entered the classic with a superior pitching staff — superior both as to quality and depth. By the latter stages of the Series, the National League manager usually was pitching his ace with only one or two days of rest, while the American League boss had his pick from a couple of well rested chuckers.

This year, for the first time in a long time, the shoe was on the other foot in that Walter Alston had a fine corps of young pitchers ready to work all the time, while Casey Stengel had to husband his resources very carefully.

The Yanks had only three good hurlers—Ford, Byrne and Grim—and in order to save them for their necessary starts, Stengel had to resist the temptation to use them in relief in the three Ebbets Field games. Alston, on the other hand, was well fortified on the starting line and in the bullpen.

Never before was a Brooklyn club so well equipped in the World Series.

Begin New Hebrew Class at Hope High

Twenty students are enrolled for the new Hebrew class at Hope High School. According to information released by the Hebrew Culture Council, students need not know how to read Hebrew to be eligible for the course. Hebrew reading, writing, and speaking are taught in the program of studies. Paul Hartman continues as instructor of the class. Students interested in additional information about the course are asked to call DE 1-0956.

The Hebrew Culture Council will have its opening meeting of the year on Tuesday evening, according to an announcement by Mrs. Charles Potter, chairman of the Hebrew Culture Council. In addition to reports on progress and plans for the year, the Council will hear personal accounts from the two Israel Seminar Scholarship winners who spent the summer in Israel. The Council will meet at the new quarters of the Bureau of Jewish Education, 511 Westminster Street.
