GJC Special Fund Gets $30,000

Judge Frank Licht, local chairman of the United Jewish Appeal Special Fund, announced today that $30,000 was contributed by a comparative handful of givers at the initial meeting held last Sunday at the home of Henry J. Hassenfeld, General Jewish Committee president.

At the same time, Judge Licht announced that in order to continue this drive for special funds for Israel without any delay, the second breakfast meeting will be held this Sunday morning at 10:30 a. m. at the home of Alvin A. Sopkin, honorary GJC president, at 45 Balton Road.

Last Sunday's meeting called by the Jewish leaders of the Greater Providence area because of the urgency of the situation in Israel and the appeals of national leaders in New York, was termed most encouraging by GJC officials.

Joseph Talamo, a member of the National Campaign Cabinet of the United Jewish Appeal and chairman of the Worcester Welfare Fund, was the guest speaker. Talamo spoke on the situation in Israel and the Middle East and outlined the urgent needs of Israel.

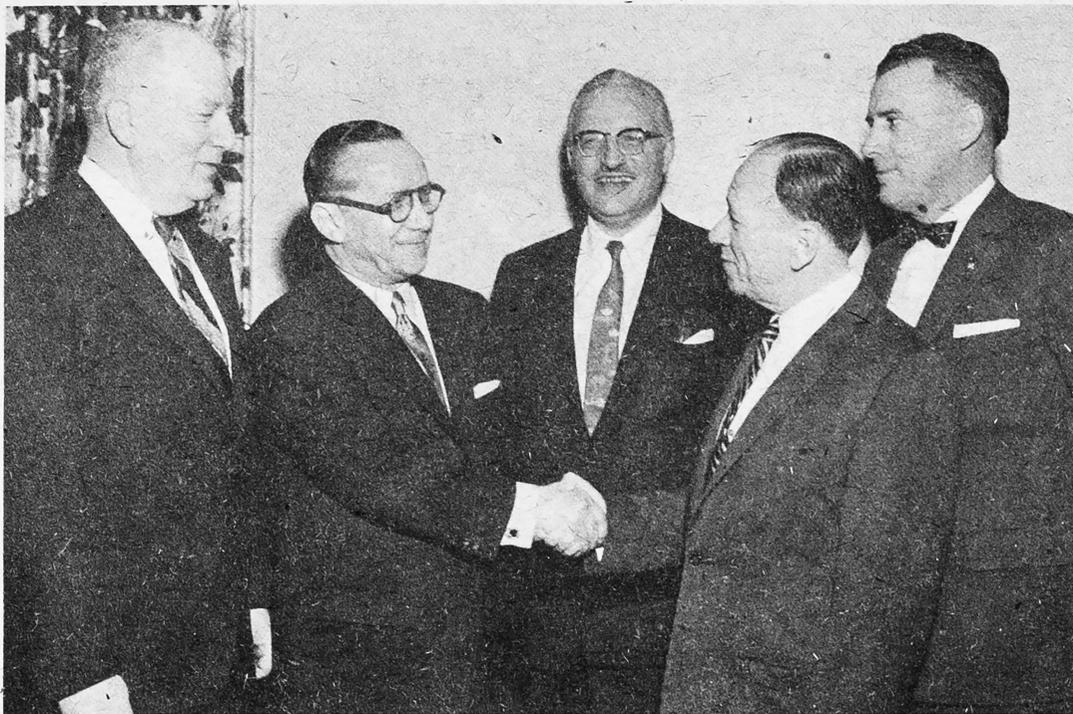

Following Talamo's brief address, there was an immediate response of contributions. The special fund drive was sparked by two gifts of $5,000 each and contributions ranged down to $250.

Gifts to the UJA Special Fund are over and above the sums to be made available to Israel through the normal campaign and UJA channels.

Hassenfeld, stressing the urgency of coming to Israel's aid with-

Russia to Print Prayer Books

MOSCOW — The first Jewish prayer book published in this country since the Bolshevik revolution will be printed here next month, according to a report in the New York Times.

The volume in Hebrew with explanatory references in Russian includes all prayers needed for daily and Sabbath services as well as an abridged version of services for Passover, Yom Kippur and other Jewish high holy days. It will be printed in several thousand copies by a Government publishing plant.

Need for Expansion Stressed By Ress at Hospital Meeting

A pressing need for expansion of the physical plant and facilities of the Miriam Hospital was described by Joseph W. Ress, retiring president, at the Hospital's 30th annual meeting Sunday evening at Ledgemont Country Club. Nearly a quarter of a million dollars was received by the Miriam during the past year in the form of contributions, pledges and bequests, it was announced.

Occupancy of the Hospital's beds during the month of January reached and maintained the 100 percent level, Ress said, and on one day there were 173 patients in the Miriam, which has a rated bed capacity of only 150.

Ress revealed that with the demand for beds continuing unabated, the Hospital has had to limit admissions "on many occasions."

Jewish Purge Seen in Moscow

BERLIN — Purge trials of Jews in the Soviet Union and in Czechoslovakia are being prepared by Communist secret police, sources with contacts behind the Iron Curtain reported this week.

The Moscow trials are reported slated for next month. The case in Prague is supposed to follow shortly after.

Israeli sources said hundreds of Jews in prison in both Moscow and Prague are potential defendants. A Communist authority confirmed this.

The Communist move was said to be designed to discredit pro-Israel elements inside Communist ranks in order to bolster Russian standing in the Arab world.

Seen Part of Mideast Plan

The drive is seen as a step in the Soviet effort to penetrate the Middle East. The first move was the sale of Czech arms to the Egyptians last summer.

According to both the Israeli and Communist sources, the Russians' courts will set out to prove that certain Jews, perhaps some highly placed in Soviet affairs, worked for the creation of the State of Israel against Communist interests.

Slansky Affair

In 1952 Rudolf Slansky, Jewish general secretary of the Czech Communist Party, was accused of "Titoism," and was tried and executed.

The case had a central place in a wave of anti-Zionist prosecutions in the Communist world at about that time. But the campaign faded away after the death of Stalin.

Zionism Held Vulnerable

Czech quarters said the new case would bring out that Slansky labored in behalf of "Zionism." An Israeli from Prague said:

"There are 6,000 Jews in Prague and half of them are in prison."

These quarters said Communists feel that "Zionism" owes loyalty to a cause other than communism and therefore it is treasonable.

Similar anti-Jewish cases may be prepared in Hungary and Rumania, it was said. Poland has resisted the campaign and was reported to have advised Moscow through Cominform channels that the entire campaign is a mistake.

In Germany, Too

A number of Jewish Communists in East Germany have been in jail ever since the Slansky case. They include Rudolf Herrstadt, former editor of the party newspaper Neues Deutschland, and Bruno Goldhammer, ex-deputy to Gerhart Eisler in the propaganda ministry.

Ana Pauker, deposed former foreign minister of Rumania, now living in obscurity, is also vulnerable. Her father elected to live in the new State of Israel.

Founders of Miriam Endowment Fund

Among the first contributors to the newly formed Founders of the Miriam Hospital Endowment Fund are the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Brier, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Ress, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rumpler, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Levinger, Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Milton C. Sapinsley, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rapaport Jr., The Hassenfeld Family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Silverman and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Soforenko, the Medical Staff, and the Women's Association.

Gifts to the new Fund are in amounts of not less than $10,000.

From Warsaw to Carnegie
Via a Cantor's Encouragement

Szymon Goldberg, violinist, who will appear here at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium on Tuesday evening as soloist with the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra, was born 41 years ago in Wloclawec, Poland, near Warsaw. He began the study of the violin at the age of seven, when the Rev. Frederick Scholsohn, now a cantor of a Stamford, Conn., synagogue, placed a violin in Goldberg's hands for the first time.

Rev. Scholsohn was the cantor for the Jewish families of that particular area of Poland, and on one of his calls to the Goldberg home he noticed that their youngest son, Szymon, played the mandolin particularly well.

It was then he suggested to the parents that the boy study the violin and he himself procured the first instrument on which Szymon started lessons. After rudimentary training at home, his parents sent him to Warsaw to study with Michalowicz, who was the traditional teacher of child prodigies.

Wanda Landowska, the harpsichordist, still living in Warsaw then, heard the young Goldberg. She convinced his parents that he should be sent to Berlin to study with Carl Flesch.

Because they were unable to make the journey with him, they asked their friend Cantor Scholsohn and he made the trip with the boy and installed him in school and in the household of a musical family.

Eventually the paths of boy and sponsor separated. But one night three winters ago a little man sat gently weeping in New York's famed Carnegie Hall as he listened to his protege play again, this time as soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony.

sions . . . to emergency cases only".

"It is now clear," he declared, "three years after the opening of our new Hospital, that we must immediately plan to expand its bed capacity and to enlarge its clinics, emergency rooms and facilities for special services."

The need for enlargement of all the supporting services of the Hospital was pointed up by Alexander Rumpfer, who was elected president to succeed Röss. Referring to the "heavy caseload of the past year," Rumpfer stated:

"The increase in clinic services makes the limited space allotted for this purpose inadequate. The laboratories, emergency areas and X-Ray Departments are obviously overtaxed. The demand for beds has been such as to necessitate admission of emergency cases only during considerable periods of last year."

Founders Endowment Fund

In his annual report, Röss also announced the establishment of the "Founders of the Miriam Hospital Endowment Fund". Authorized by the Executive Board at its December meeting in recognition of the Miriam's need for endowment funds, the new Founders unit already has received 12 endowments for a total of $125,000, it was disclosed.

Röss retired from the presidency on the advice of his physicians following an illness suffered during his term. He affirmed that he will continue to take an active part and interest in the affairs of the Hospital. He was presented a plaque in recognition of his past service to the Miriam.

U. S. Congressman John E. Fogarty, principal speaker, told the meeting that Miriam Hospital has received "the largest grant to date in Rhode Island" from the so-called Hill-Burton Program (Hospital Survey and Construction Act of 1946). Out of a total amount of $3,600,000 in federal funds granted this state, Miriam Hospital received $600,000, Fogarty stated. This was matched by "about $1,700,000 in sponsors' funds", he added.

"Money Well Spent"

"It was money well spent. Miriam Hospital is recognized as an outstanding medical care facility, locally and nationally," Fogarty said.

Reports were given by Alfred H. Joslin, secretary; Levinger, treasurer; Dr. Samuel Pritzker, medical staff; Mrs. William P. Weinstein, Miriam Hospital Association; Dr. I. Herbert Schaffer, executive director, and Harry A. Schwartz, nominating committee.

Other speakers were Jacob S. Temkin, chairman of the arrangements committee, who presided over the meeting and conducted the installation ceremonies; and Benjamin Brier, former president. Rabbi Eli A. Bohnen gave the opening and closing prayers.

Elections Held

Officers elected at the annual meeting include Isadore Paisner, first vice-president; Samuel Shore, second vice-president; Alter Boyman, vice-president; Levinger, treasurer, and Joslin, secretary. In addition, Röss was named honorary president for life, and Alvin A. Sopkin honorary vice-president for life.

Elected to three year terms as trustees are Howard G. Brown, Louis Fain, Irving Gertsacov, Bernard Goodman, Merrill L. Hasenfeld, Irving M. Kritz, Robert A. Riesman, Benjamin Ruttenberg, John Sapinsley and Morton Smith.

Rabbi Aaron Goldin and Rabbi Morris Schussheim are the appointees to the Hospital by the R. I. Rabbinical Association, and Mrs. Archie A. Albert, Mrs. David L. Field, Mrs. Joseph J. Sefer and Mrs. William P. Weinstein are appointees of the Women's Association.

Serving under Schwartz on the nominating committee were Max Alperin, Benjamin Brier, Archie Fain, David Meyers, Harold Weiner and Mrs. William P. Weinstein.

"Davy Crockett" Next Presentation

"Davy Crockett", the dramatization of episodes from the life of the historic frontier fighter, will be the next presentation on the Jewish Community Center's 1955-1956 Children's Theatre series.

The three-act dramatization will be presented by the Mae Desmond Children's Theatre company at Nathan Bishop Junior High School auditorium on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 26, with performances scheduled at 2 and 4 P. M. Admission will be by season ticket only.

A limited number of tickets for the remaining presentations of the season are available at the Center.

DIGNITY and REVERENCE

The Jews believe in the dignity of man. This concept has filled our lives both at home and in the synagogue. Before birth and after death we are impressed by the idea of man being more than mere physical body . . . he has spirituality—an individual mantle of dignity belongs to him.

Even after death a Jew is not deprived of his dignity. His memory is held in reverent respect. He is honored in many ways, including the imperishable memorial of having Kaddish recited by his family and by Jews in assembly everywhere.

Is this reverence reflected in the surroundings of his final resting place? Is his dignity cherished by careful attention to the appearance of these surroundings?

A burial estate in a modern garden cemetery like Sharon Memorial Park is a constant source of comfort to the living. At Sharon, New England's first all-Jewish garden cemetery, no weeds, no broken-down tombstones, no crowding mar the serenity of rolling countryside. Here dignity is preserved everlastingly by PERPETUAL CARE, assured through special endowment funds set up in trust. At Sharon you can be sure your family estate will be cared for forever without any assessment on generations to come.

SHARON MEMORIAL PARK IS ONLY A BRIEF FORTY MINUTES DRIVE FROM PROVIDENCE ON ROUTE ONE. Why not plan to visit Sharon Memorial Park and see how truly beautiful . . . how genuinely inspiring . . . how really different . . . a Memorial Park is from an old-type cemetery.

Hummocks to Open Prime Rib Room
 Stanley Brown, president and general manager of fifty-year old Johnson's Hummocks Restaurant on Allens Avenue in Providence, today announced the opening on Saturday evening, Feb. 11., of the new Prime Rib Room.
 This room, first of its kind in Rhode Island, will serve the finest Blue Ribbon Prime Roast Beef, specially purchased by the restaurant's own representative in Chicago.
 Mr. Brown, who took over management of Johnson's on November 1, 1955, said that demand for such a room had been evident here for some time, and that in his experience with the same type of room in other areas, he had found them highly successful.
 Delicacies being served with the Roast Beef include lavish relish trays, Chef's cheese and crackers, special salads, baked potato Sonesta and Yorkshire pudding.
 Other specialties will include one-pound sirloin and large tenderloin steaks, flaming desserts, baked Alaska and many other unusual treats.
 In spite of the plush atmosphere of the room, Johnson's long standing policy of pricing meals as reasonably as possible will be rigidly followed.

Mystery Men

Harry Truman's memoirs remain a subject of long and lively debate; each installment stirs new argument. One of the most provocative excerpts appeared in a recent Times and deserves fuller exploration. Mr. Truman was writing about the stormy diplomatic period preceding the official birth of the state of Israel and the formulation of U. S. policy toward the emerging republic. We quote:

"The Department of State's specialists in the Near East were, almost without exception, unfriendly to the idea of a Jewish state . . . There were some men in the State Department who held the view that the Balfour declaration could not be carried out without offense to the Arabs. Like most of the British diplomats, some of our diplomats also thought that the Arabs should be appeased. I am sorry to say that there were some among those who were inclined to be anti-Semitic."

Mr. Truman proceeded to describe how he granted de facto recognition to the new state in the face of tenacious hostility exhibited by many career diplomats.

But the story ends on a note of mystery. Who were these men? Do they still dominate the State Department's Near East Section? Is bigotry still fashionable in this set?

The questions are plainly relevant to contemporary events. In fairness to all the "career men" serving in the Department, Mr. Truman ought to name names, and his targets should be given every chance to confront their accuser.

Small-Town Southern Jews Command Respect as "People of the Book"

By HARRY L. GOLDEN
(From Commentary Magazine)

PEOPLE OF THE BOOK (Am Ha-Sefer). There is a touching naivety in the small-town Southerner's respect for the Jewishness of the Jew in his community. It springs from the Southern Protestant's own attachment to Biblical Judaism. As in Judaism, no special holiday (not excepting Christmas) is considered as important as the weekly Sabbath.

The small-town Southerner takes it for granted that to be a Jew is to be a religious Jew, that his friend the storekeeper fully possesses that Hebraic tradition handed down through the centuries for which the Southern Christian has so deep a respect.

As the Jew in a small Southern town goes about his business of selling dry goods or ready-to-wear clothing, he rarely suspects the symbolic role he enacts for the Gentile society roundabout him—he represents the unbroken tie with sacred history and the prophets of the Bible, he is the "living witness" to the "Second Coming of Christ," the link between the beginning and the end of things.

Expect Learning

This has placed a burden upon the learning and piety of the small-town Southern Jew that he is not always able to support. It

Moslems Against Concluding Peace

CAIRO—A decree which states that it would be against the Islamic faith to conclude peace with Israel was issued this week by a special committee of Moslem religious scholars, known as ulemas, or interpreters of Moslem religious law. Meeting under the chairmanship of Sheikh Mohammed Hassanein Makhoulouf at Al Azhar University, the committee considered the line that Moslems must take with regard to Israel and toward joining foreign military pacts. It was decided that anyone who shirked his duty to restore what it called "the usurped land to its own rightful people," or otherwise served the "ends of imperialism and Zionism," would be considered a renegade and a mortal sinner.

has caused many a Southern Jew to re-examine those religious values which he had well-nigh abandoned.

I know merchants who travel fifty and sixty miles a week to attend a Jewish adult study group—"so I can give these people some kind of an answer!"

A rabbi in one of the industrial cities of the Carolinas told me of a recent visit by an entire Methodist congregation. During the "open forum" after the service, the Methodist clergyman asked several questions about the Talmud. The rabbi commented to me: "For the first time in my career as a rabbi I spent two hours reciting the Ethics of the Fathers to a congregation."

This respect for the Jew as the heir, guardian, and living embodiment of the Old Testament tradition is notably evident in the absence of any organized attempt to convert him to Christianity.

The only appeal that is ever directed to the Jews comes from the few Jewish-convert evangelists active in the urban industrial centers. Far from attempting to proselytize the Jew, the small-town Southerner is more likely to be found supporting Jewish religious activities. Recently, the twenty Jewish families in Orangeburg, S. C., a farming town, announced that they would build a temple, setting for themselves a building-fund quota of $35,000. A self-appointed "Christian Committee" immediately presented pledges of $6,000.

The "Bonds for Israel" professionals have learned how to use Southern willingness to contribute to Jewish causes to stimulate Jewish contributors. When they come to a Southern town, they try first to sell a bond to one of the leading Christians in the community. As far as possible, they advertise this purchase, try to make it the "kickoff" of the campaign, on the reasonable assumption that the local Jews, if only out of embarrassment, will bestir themselves to raise the rest of the quota among their own.

Nor is it difficult to sell a Government of Israel Bond to a Southern Christian. Only in the largest cities—Richmond, Atlanta, Louisville, etc.—is there any anti-

"One Man's Opinion"

Invitation To Learning

By BERYL SEGAL

The mail brought the catalog of Brown University Extension Division. In this catalog the university announces the spring series of courses offered by the extension.

Nothing new in that. Every year the university sends such catalogs to alumni and to all others on the mailing lists. But this catalog is different. It contains something new and something of particular interest to us Jews of Providence. A new course has been added to the bulletin of the Extension Division, and through it an invitation to learning has been extended to us.

We turn the pages of the catalog and we come to the section entitled "Modern Languages." We read the list of modern languages to be taught in their alphabetical order: Armenian, French, German, Hebrew, Italian, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, and of course English.

Hebrew among the modern languages! A modern approach to an ancient tongue. Hebrew, the sacred language of the Bible. Hebrew, the spoken language of a modern state. Not a dead language. Not a museum language. A living tongue of a living people. Living in the land of Israel. Living in the halls of learning of American universities.

Such are the thoughts that come to you at the sight of one word, "Hebrew", on the pages of a college bulletin, on the list of modern languages in an extension series.

Sentimental? Perhaps. But if you remain cold and unmoved by the sight of the announcement, you are missing a thrill granted to many of us.

I advise you to drop a postal card to Brown University and ask for the Spring Series Bulletin of the Extension Division. And when you get it you may want to accept the invitation to study modern Hebrew. It is open to all and Zionist sentiment. Only in such large cities, too, is there any non-Zionist or anti-Zionist sentiment among the Jews. It is precisely the Jew of the small farming centers, the one most "integrated" in Gentile society, who is also the most ardent Zionist.

The Jew in the small town is expected by his Christian neighbors to be Zionist, even as he is expected to be religious. The attitude there of Southern Protestantism toward a Jewish Palestine is simple and decisive: "It's in the Book."

Mixed marriages in the South, which perhaps deserve a separate study, intrude upon this scene. They are on the increase; and though a mixed marriage represents the overcoming of a very high and solid social barrier, the greater frequency of such marriages is doing nothing to break down the barrier. True, the Jew today no longer goes into mourning for the traditional seven-day shiveh period when a son or a close relative marries a Gentile. But he is not happy about it either. After the very quiet wedding has taken place, you won't find anyone risking a mazeltov to the parents.

no previous knowledge of Hebrew is required. Hebrew is listed as a double course, which means that the class will hold twelve weekly sessions, each session lasting about two hours. There is, of course, a registration fee of fifteen dollars. The teacher for modern Hebrew is Rabbi Nathan N. Rosen, director of the Hillel Foundation at Brown and other colleges in the state. Rabbi Rosen is well-qualified as a teacher of Hebrew. He is a graduate of Columbia University and Yeshiva University of New York. Rabbi Rosen will devote the first four weeks to the teaching of reading Hebrew. Those among his students who had learned Hebrew at one time and are not sure of themselves now, will have a chance to refresh their memory and begin on a firmer foundation. Once the skill of reading is acquired, the students will go on to writing, to grammar, and to speech. Hebrew as it is spoken in Tel Aviv will be heard in Marston Hall every Monday evening.

And Hebrew songs, too, will be heard. Modern languages are being taught by means of the spoken word and the song of the people.

Everybody can register for the course. But we recommend it especially to:

TEACHERS in our Sunday School. It is hardly conceivable that people may teach any subject in a Jewish school without a knowledge of Hebrew. Yet, the fact is that very many of the teachers today lack the most elementary familiarity with the language. It is not their fault. They never studied Hebrew, and the schools were so eager to staff their Sunday classes that no questions were asked of applicants. They were only going to teach Bible Stories, or History, we thought. But can you picture anyone teaching American history effectively without knowing English? They, the men and women who are teaching in our Sunday Schools, should make up the bulk of the class in Hebrew at Brown.

PARENTS of children who study Hebrew. How often do we hear a child complaining when told to study at home: "I have no one to help me. My parents don't know Hebrew." It is a matter of principle. If you wish your child

Morocco Assumes Education Control

CASABLANCA—The Moroccan Ministry of Public Instruction assumed responsibility for Jewish religious education in a statement here defining its area of jurisdiction. It announced that Talmudic education, will come under the aegis of the Ministry following discussions with Chief Rabbi Saul Dahan who will designate a competent rabbi to direct this area of public education. Talmudic education will be administered by the Ministry's Section for Private Teaching. The Ministry's statement also referred to Alliance Israélite Universelle schools in Morocco, reporting that the Minister had received the Moroccan delegate of the Alliance.

to know Hebrew — and you do, or you would not send him to a Hebrew school — then you must make it your business to learn the language yourselves. It might be a sacrifice and a hardship. But goodness knows, you do greater things for the sake of your child than giving two hours a week for learning a language that will bring pleasure and assurance to you and to the child.

BOYS AND GIRLS of college age. Hebrew is accepted for a modern language requirement in many universities. This 12-week course in Hebrew at Brown Extension gives two points of credit. But aside from the points of credit, there are also points of pride. The days are gone when Hebrew was the language of prayers in the eyes of most American Jews. It is the living language of a Jewish state, the language of newspapers, theaters, radio, government, science, art, and education on all levels in the land of Israel. It is a language of great interest to us. The cultural interchange between Israel and America will grow to proportions we cannot even dream of today. Within the lifetime of the college generation of today, Hebrew will become as much a language of the cultured American Jew as is French or Italian to the cultured Italian or Frenchman. You will find that the classes of Armenian or Italian or Portuguese at Brown are taken by young people of these national stocks who were born and brought up here. Hebrew can count on no lesser loyalty and interest. I would hate to see Hebrew taken off the list of modern languages because of lack of a sufficient number of students.

Get hold of the bulletin of the Spring Series at Brown Extension and make plans to register. This is your invitation to learn Hebrew.

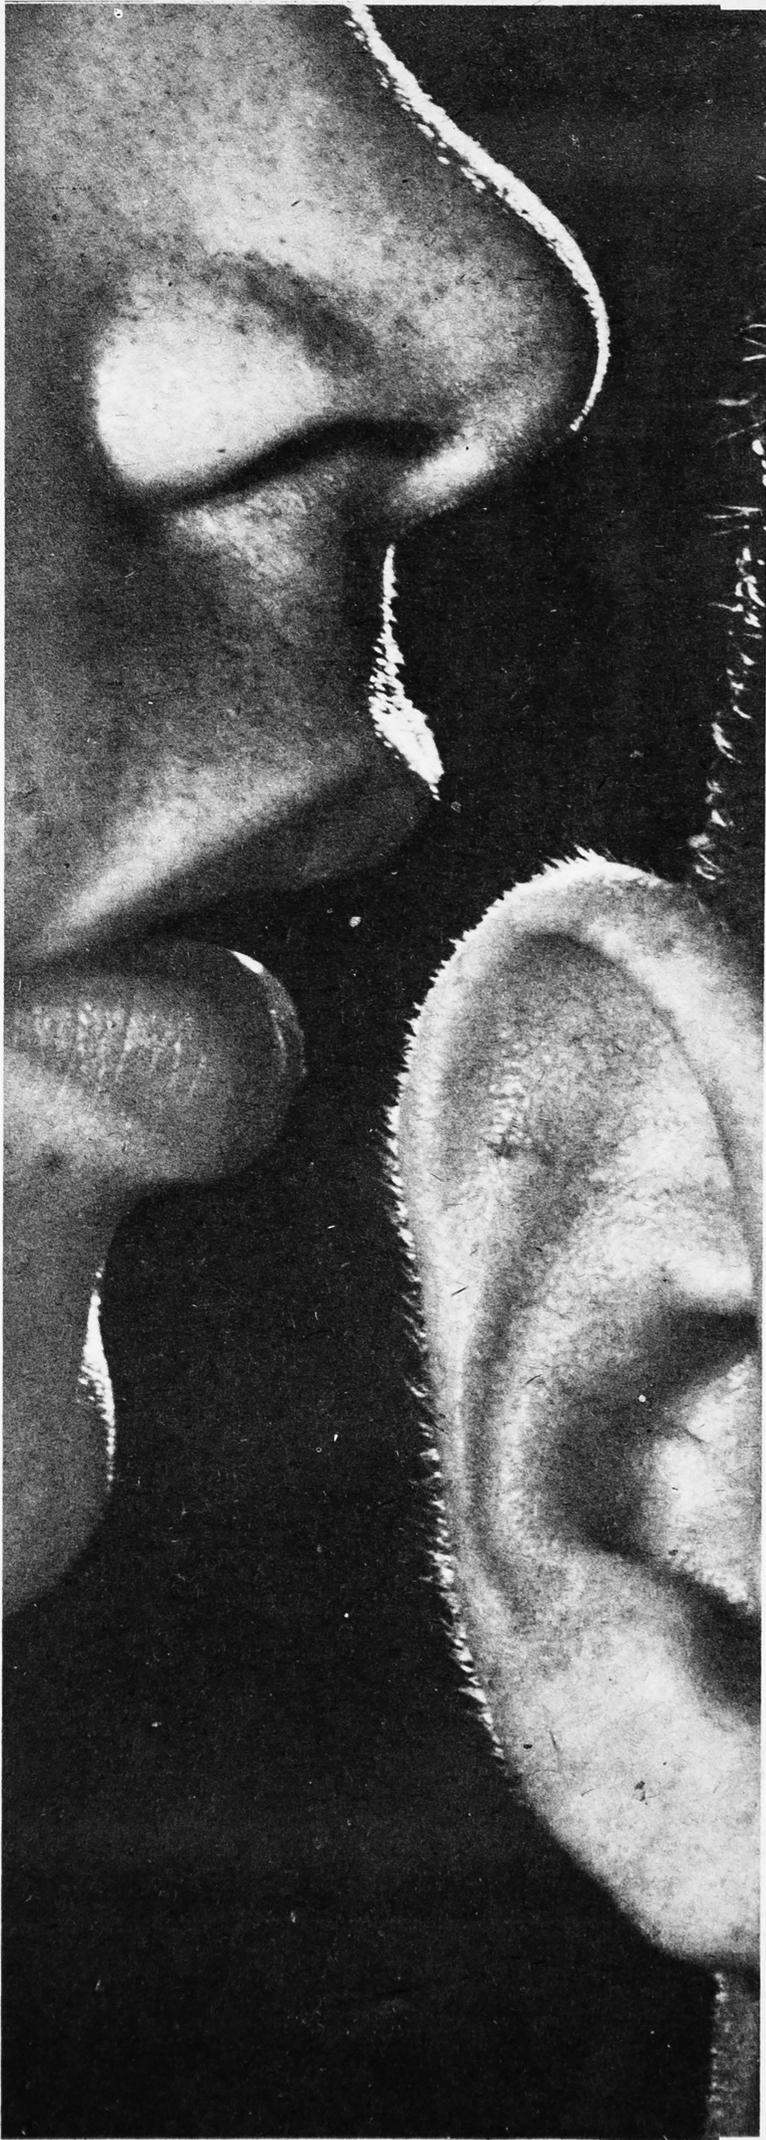

(Mr. Segal's opinions are his own. His views are not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

Object to Sobeloff Renomination

WASHINGTON—A special Senate investigation of Solicitor General Simon Sobeloff, renominated last week by President Eisenhower as a Federal circuit judge, was urged here Saturday by Sen. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina. The President's nomination of Mr. Sobeloff is for the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, which embraces Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and North and South Carolina.

The original nomination of Mr. Sobeloff was made last July, but the Senate adjourned before acting on it. At that time, a number of Southern Senators made known their opposition to Mr. Sobeloff's appointment because he had headed the government's case against segregation in the public schools.

Industrial Raises Holders' Dividends

At the annual meeting of shareholders, held last week, T. Dawson Brown, president of Industrial National Bank, announced an increase of $14,876,139.88 in total assets of the bank. Year-end assets were $498,639,698.28. Net operating earnings after applicable taxes were $2,650,359.55, equivalent to $5.30 per share.

President Brown also reported: "... the directors during the past year increased the dividend to our shareholders by twenty cents a share, thus bringing the current annual rate to $2.60 a share."

Brown told shareholders that the bank's "Save-Master" campaign for new savings accounts resulted in obtaining 15,152 new accounts, with a resulting increase in savings deposits of $1,867,758.

He also announced that Industrial's campaign for additional mortgages was responsible for an increase in the bank's mortgage portfolio of $15,336,912.98 over a year ago. Total mortgages now stand at $106,997,258.57.

Installation of automatic branches, improvements to the equipment in all departments and main bank building, the addition of drive-in services to several branches, improvements to the new branch offices, were other accomplishments of the past year, according to Brown.

Old Colony Reports New High In 1955

An increase in resources of over 7½ million dollars to attain an all-time high of $105,555,641, coupled with notable gains in volume of savings and mortgage lending activity for 1955 were reported by Old Colony's president, Ralph R. Crosby, to the shareholders of Old Colony Co-operative Bank at its annual meeting held on Jan. 25, at Old Colony House, 58 Weybosset Street. The completion of many new physical improvements for customer convenience and operating efficiency were also cited as marked contributions to the past year's progress.

In discussing the 1956 outlook, Crosby noted the already-evident signs of caution by business and individuals in general, with "confusion, indecision and lack of confidence brought on by statements of politicians seeking election or re-election." A slowing down of the business boom, he added, "will be helpful to our type of business, since any form of caution will influence more people to save."

All directors whose three-year terms were expiring were re-elected by the shareholders to serve additional three-year terms, and all Old Colony officers were re-elected by the board of directors.

SYD COHEN:

Speaking of Sportsmanship . . .

The football coaches' panel discussion on sportsmanship at the sports night program staged last week by Plantations Lodge of B'nai B'rith was revealing—surprisingly so—for a couple of reasons. First, because the coaches seemed, for the most part, unable to come up with any decided understanding of the term. Second, because of the illustrations that were brought out during the course of the "sportsmanship" panel.

Plantations Lodge had a good program lined up for its first effort in the sports night business. My sole regret at the end of such an evening is that the prominent guests cannot possibly be allotted enough time (for my taste) to talk. The anecdotes they usually tell when they are on their own in front of the microphone constitute some of the finest sports fare served up anywhere; and it is for that reason that I often regret that these sports night programs don't draw as they should—for some reason or reasons that I cannot understand. I could listen till 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning.

One of the coaches at this "clinic" was quite honest in his opinions of sportsmanship. He came right out and admitted that "winning is the thing". Everything else is subservient to that. This, mind you, from a college coach who works in a section of the country where the emphasis has been taken off football to the extent that winning is everything.

Oh sure, this coach wants sportsmanship on his team. That's what the man said. He proved it, too . . . said he teaches his boys not to break the rules on the field of play—because the penalties thus incurred will damage the team's chances to win.

Singularly enough, another coach said almost exactly the same thing—that the coaches try to discourage foul play. Listening to this kind of talk might lead to the impression that these coaches believe a player is being sportsmanlike just because he doesn't incur penalties for his side, or because he otherwise refrains from breaking the rules of play.

Never thought of it that way before. It's something like saying that every man who does not rob a bank or grab an old lady's bag and push her in front of a truck is an honest man and a sportsman.

One of the coaches testified further that the training of the boy at home and in his religious life will have a bearing on his sportsmanship. I guess there is no argument with that. But he added that a fellow who is a gentleman at home will be a gentleman on the field. That one I cannot buy.

One of Benny Friedman's assistant coaches at Brandeis told how Benny once took a boy out of a game for punching, and kept him on the bench for a couple of games. Noble, it must be admitted. But what has it to do with sportsmanship? Benching a player for punching is hardly an illustration, either pro or con, on the subject of sportsmanship.

Beth Israel Bowler, Max Levy, Is Winner of January Sweepstakes Tourney With 428 Total

Max Levy, a 107-average Beth Israel bowler, came up with the best three-string combination of his kegling career to win the January sweepstakes tourney of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress with a gross score of 428.

June 4 Congress Banquet at Rhodes

The fourth annual banquet and sports awards night of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress on June 4 will be held at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet.

Announcement of the place for the dinner, highlight of the congress year, was made by Sam Feldman of Fineman-Trinkel, chairman of the annual banquet, last Sunday at the monthly meeting of congress delegates.

In each succeeding year, the affair has grown in popularity, and some 450 persons attended the 1955 dinner.

A number of outstanding guests, who are nationally famous in sports, are being lined up for the banquet. In addition, the R. I. Jewish Athlete of the Year and the R. I. Jewish Man of the Year will be honored. They will be identified in advance of the banquet.

Dave Ettine Heads Nominating Group

Dave Ettine of the Cousins league has been appointed chairman of the nominating committee, which will present a slate of officers to be elected at the May meeting of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress delegates.

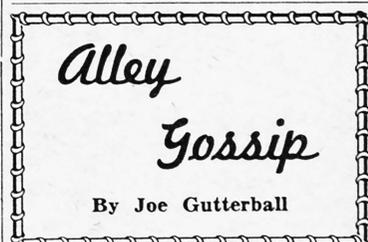

Announcement of Ettine's selection was made by Nat Alterman of Beth El, congress president, at last Sunday's meeting of delegates at Lindy's Diner, Reservoir Ave., Cranston.

Alterman said he would name the remainder of the nine-member committee at the March meeting. According to congress by-laws, the nominating committee is composed of three officers and six delegates from nine different leagues.

ANNUAL BANQUET CALENDAR

- May 20—Sackin-Shocket Post League.
- May 21—AEPi
- May 27—Emanuel-El at Lake Pearl.
- May 27—Beth Israel, Narragansett Hotel.
- June 4—R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress.

(This calendar of banquet dates will be published from now until the end of the season to help leagues arrange their annual affairs on dates, which will not conflict. Please submit the date and place of the annual banquet as soon as possible).

We'll bring you up to date on the best averages, strings and three-string marks of the season, thus far, in this section of next week's Jewish Herald.

Here is how some of our hard-working correspondents are doing according to their modest reports on themselves in the past week. Harry Fellman of Harold Bloom rolled 299, the first time in two years under 300. Nathan Miller of Providence Fraternal reports an honest 65 string for himself. Murray Shiro of Cousins still is aiming for the 100 mark.

Sid Green of Emanuel-El, left the hospital recently to find his 156 string still is the season's best in the league.

In the same league, good wishes are being extended Hilty Rifkin on his recent marriage. And the best, too, to his bride, Audrey.

The above mention of Harry Fellman has a near parallel in the bowling of Max Cohen of Fineman-Trinkel. After 11 straight weeks of over-300 kegling, Max's string came to an end. What did he bowl? That's right—299.

BETH EL

By Jack Appelbaum

Thundering echoes of the crash must have been heard around the congress as Beth El sent records tumbling last week.

Dr. Sam Pritzker's five came within one pin of equalling the all-time congress high total of 1699, rolled a few years ago by another Beth El quintet, captained by Sumner Pomeranz. The Pritzker team pinned 1698 with a league high single of 617, accomplished as follows:

Dr. Bud Lewis 319, Pritzker 320, Bob Bernstein 353, Joe Levine 331 with a 131 single, and Murray Trinkle 375 with a 138 solo.

Joe Schwartz, rolling a season's high 421, including strings of 151, 140 and 130, led Al Hurwitz's team to a 1695 pinfall. Captain Hurwitz contributed 299, Eli Diamond 293.

Harry Gordon 331 and Dewey Shatkin 351 with a 133 string.

While 1622 is good in any man's league, it took no better than third spot among the week's team totals in Beth El, a triple rolled by Lee Haft's team, including Don Breslow, who had strings of 145, 125 and 123 for a hot 393. Leo Martel on the same team rolled 376 with strings of 140 and 132. Others on the team are Joe Sholovitz and Paul Heymann.

In all, the night's results showed 40 men had rolled over 300. Some others in the "125" club for the night were Buddy Silverman 145, Len Goldman 139, Leo Kouffman 138, Morris Feldman 130 and Joel Orchoff 126.

CRANSTON

By Ben Bloch

The White Sox "powerhouse five" continue to dazzle their opponents, this week with 550 and 1553, in their efforts to regain first place.

A total of eight teams occupy second and third place with four teams tied for the next spot—indicating the tight race.

Fred Kafritsen paced the league with 373 and a single of 136. Moe Kessler and Johnny Kaufman had the next best singles, each pinning 125. Kessler finished with 356. Sam Miller rolled 339.

Doc Dan Kaufman, one of the lower average bowlers, scored 115 and 329, while Dave Sherman had 325 and 116, Dick Bookbinder 121 and 314 and Seymour Kriss 322 and 119.

SACKIN-SHOCKET

Coast Guard ran wild to the tune of 1641, the new team high total with a top string of 574, the league's second high single. The lesser strings, if they could be called that, were 536 and 531.

Guardsman Herb Weiser pinned the night's best total of 349, with strings of 121 and 125 and teammate Joe Epstein had the best single of 134. He hit 343. Other scores: Jerry Einhorn 318 and 128, Hy Levin 325 and Buz Labush 306.

BETH ISRAEL

By Sam Osterman

Max (his friends call him Curly) Levy rolled 389 to tie for the second best total of the season, and pinned a 155 single in the process. The latter equaled the season's third high in that category.

However, since it was congress sweepstakes night, Levy's total and handicap won for him the $25 first prize, as reported elsewhere on these pages.

Si Aron with a 131 single rolled 340, the latter score also reached by Irv Pedliken. Phil Finkelstein rolled 338 with a 127, Irv Fishman 330 and 132, Harry Frehof 311 with a 115, Sam Segal 338 with a 128 and Shelly Summer 316 and 123.

BETH DAVID

By Joel Zarum

Joel Pressman, with 354 on strings of 119, 112 and 123, again paced the Indians as they tied the Tigers for first place. The Tigers, however, pinned 538 and 1467, the best team scores of the night.

George Peddle's single of 124 led the White Sox to take four points and maintain their tie for second spot. Teammate Len Kaplan pinned 126 and Milt Miller rolled 342.

Bill Snell rolled 324, hitting a string of 122.

The team race is very close with the Athletics unfortunately doomed to the cellar with absenteeism giving them only one point and 15 lost.

ply explaining the surprise I felt at the way these New England college coaches casually brushed off the subject of sportsmanship on the field of play.

Here are some of the stories that made the program a revealing one in the "second" way mentioned in the first paragraph above.

Pat Abbruzzi, the University of R. I. alumnus who made good in a big way in the Canadian Football League last fall, pointed out something I hadn't known before — that the owners of pro teams slap fines on their players for dirty football tactics. I would have liked to hear more on this subject, and to get some examples; and next time I attend a meeting at which Pat is one of the speakers, I will try to accomplish that.

Abbruzzi set forth his own personal code, saying that while he is "one of the worst losers there are", he never has wanted to win if he couldn't do it fair and square. He added that the pro players are not as bad in the "dirty player" department as they are sometimes alleged to be, because they are family men who make their living at playing football, and none of them would want to take away another man's bread and butter, so to speak.

Maybe Pat means every word of that, and maybe that is what he has observed in Canada, but my irrepressible temptation is to utter a sarcastic "Oh yeah?" There were too many stories to the contrary last year in the pro ranks.

A question from the floor brought the talk around to the present rule on substitutions, as well as the rule under which the pros play. In college football, a player who has started a period may come out and go in once more during that period. The pros, of course, have unlimited substitutions, and consequently, two platoon football, with separate teams for offense and defense.

Here Abbruzzi had a good quip. Hal Kopp (coach at URI, as if you didn't know) never has 22 men out for football, he said, so the two platoon system would not work for him.

The story came out about a Brandeis player who scrimmaged with the varsity and was found never to have made a tackle during his entire high school career. The same thing was said to hold true in reverse, where a player who had always played defense would not know where to stand or what to do when given an offensive assignment.

Pat herewith declared that he never once played on the defensive unit during his first season with Montreal. The coach of the Alouettes does not believe in permitting his quarterback or his ace running halfbacks to take any chances by playing on defense.

One more interesting observation. Mike Holovak of Boston College, asked who calls the plays, the quarterback or the coach, pointed to the world champion Cleveland Browns, who have no less talented an operative than Otto Graham. And do you know who calls EVERY PLAY for them? Why, Paul Brown, the coach, that's who!

In Canada—at least, with the Alouettes—it is different. Pat Abbruzzi said the quarterback does most of the play calling.

"Underdogs" Win
Tween League Games

Upsets were the keynote of the day at the Jewish Community Center's Tween Basketball League playoffs last Sunday afternoon, as two rated "underdog" teams came through to win. The second-place Knicks defeated the top Celtics, 33-32, to tie for first place in the league. Both winners and losers benefited from high scoring as Don Goldsmith tallied 17 for the winners and Stan Abrams rang up a similar score for the losers.

In the day's second game, the Pistons won over the Hawks, 33-31, paced by the high scoring and outstanding defensive play of Coken, who tallied 14 points. Brown and Berger scored high for the losing Hawks.

Of all the cagey females, Camilla Otis was the one!

Her husband was her SLAVE because of the meals she served. Her bridge club adored meeting at her house because of the attractive luncheons.

Now Camilla's caginess lay in the fact that her secret was in the way she SERVED the food. No matter how simple the dish, she tricked it up with momentous eye appeal.

Naturally, when she saw the individual ovenware Casseroles in which we are now packing our Cottage Cheese, she gave us a quick telephone call to leave it -- and the Casseroles -- at her house. (We're at the other end of Franklin 419 or Pawtucket 2-6095.

By using these little Casseroles, YOU can dolly up the most mundane leftovers and make the meal look like a banquet.

They're PRACTICAL. They're attractive. They're filled with our luscious Cottage Cheese.

The Cottage Cheese is so delicious you'd be wise to order several in order to have all you'll need. It's fantastic the way everyone goes for it!
