House Passes Resolution Urging Arms for Israel

A resolution urging arms for Israel was introduced in the Rhode Island House of Representatives on Tuesday by Rep. Thomas W. Pearlman, along with co-sponsors Irving Bilgor, Lester Emers, Al Abelson and Samuel Kagan. The House approved the resolution.

The resolution read as follows:

"WHEREAS, The democracy known as Israel is in dire need of arms for its defense against hostile armies encamped on its borders; and

"WHEREAS, Israel merely desires the right to purchase said arms and does not seek them as gifts; and

"WHEREAS, Arms from communist countries are being freely distributed to neighboring Arab nations who are presently banding together with the hostile intentions of forming a combined army to overcome Israel; and

WHEREAS, These combined communist-armed Arab nations numbering over 40 million inhabitants as against merely 1.5 million inhabitants of Israel outnumber Israel 26 to 1; and

"WHEREAS, Their numerical disadvantages, emphasized further by communist arms, dramatize that Israel's need for arms is for defensive purposes solely and not for aggression; and

"WHEREAS, It has been traditional for the United States of America to aid, both officially and unofficially, small democratic nations whose liberty is threatened as was done in Finland, Greece, Korea, Ethiopia and other nations; and

"WHEREAS, Unlike many nations aided by America, the loyal peoples of Israel have aided and fought for American causes in World War I, World War II, and in the United Nations; now, therefore, be it

"RESOLVED, That this House of Representatives goes on record in urging that arms be made available immediately to Israel, revising the present American foreign Middle-East policy, before too little is done too late and before a newly won democracy is destroyed; and be it further

"RESOLVED, That duly certified copies of this resolution be transmitted by the recording clerk of this Honorable Body to the President of the United States, the Secretary of State of the United States, the Senators and Representatives from Rhode Island in the Congress of the United States and the respective Chairmen of the Senate and House Committees on Foreign Affairs in Congress."

'Zionist' Freed by East German Reds

BERLIN — A prominent communist leader of non-Jewish stock, who the present East German regime purged and jailed at the height of the communist anti-Semitic wave some years ago after accusing him of being a "Zionist," has just been released from prison and stands a chance of being rehabilitated.

He is Paul Merker, former State Secretary in the East German Ministry of Agriculture and a member of the top group of the Communist Party, the Politbureau. He escaped from France to Mexico during the war, and was connected with a German-language weekly published there at the time.

Since many of the paper's readers and advertisers were Jewish, Merker occasionally contributed articles advocating the restitution of Jewish property stolen by the nazis and the payment of compensation to Jewish citizens of Germany, no matter whether they returned to Germany or remained abroad after Hitler's end.

In 1952 and early 1953, Germany's official Communist Party organ charged that, by holding such views, Merker had become "a cat's-paw" of the U. S. financial "obligarchy."

GJC Appoints Nominating Group

Henry J. Hassenfeld, General Jewish Committee president, today announced the appointment of the nominating committee to select a slate of officers and members of the board of directors for the GJC for the 1956-57 year.

Benjamin Ruttenberg, a well-known Providence business man who has been active in the General Jewish Committee since its inception and was D-Day chairman last year, was named chairman of the nine-member nominating committee.

The committee will report its nominations in writing to the GJC secretary at least one month before the annual meeting which is scheduled for the latter part of May.

Hassenfeld appointed the following committee with the approval of the board of directors:

From the board of directors — Benjamin Ruttenberg, chairman; Mrs. Abraham Percelay, Joseph W. Ress, Aaron Roitman, Edwin Soforenko, and Joseph Schlossberg.

From the community-at-large — Samuel Friedman, Louis Handwerker, and Charles Swartz.

Rumanian Clown Now In U. S.—Esther Eshkenazi, one of a group of immigrant children living temporarily at the New York Shelter of United Hias Service, who were entertained by Copel Jacobsohn, Rumanian circus clown recently arrived in the U. S., makes the "fingertip test" on the clown's facial makeup. Jacobsohn, was featured in "Big Tops" throughout Western Europe, is known by his stage name of "The Great Leontini" and was born in a circus where his father performed on the trapeze, and it seems quite appropriate that his last work in Europe was in the motion picture "Trapeze," which is currently being filmed in Paris with Burt Lancaster and Gina Lollobrigida starring.

Lehman Raps U. S. Inaction on Saudi Bias

WASHINGTON — Sen. Lehman said this week the State Dept. was "doing nothing" about Saudi Arabia's ban against American Jews entering that country or serving at the U. S. air base at Dhahran.

The time has come to consider breaking off commercial relations with that country just as President Taft did when Czarist Russia practiced similar discrimination, Lehman said.

The Senator drew a comparison between the feudal regime of King Saud and the Russian Czar in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate.

Along with Sens. Morse (D-Ore.) and Humphrey (D-Minn.), Lehman has been sharply critical of Secretary Dulles for failing to speak out against the Saudi Arabian practice. Earlier this month Lehman accused Dulles of "a kind of moral blindness" about the situation.

"In the first decade of this century the U. S. Government, in the administration of William Howard Taft, broke off commercial relations with Russia," Lehman said, "because of the insistence of the Russian government upon discrimination against Americans of Jewish faith, by refusing to honor American passports issued to Americans of Jewish faith. "This practice aroused great indignation in the U. S., just as the analogous and even worse practice on the part of the Saudi Arabian Government is arousing today.

"Apparently, however, not very much resentment is aroused at the State Dept., for the State Dept. is doing nothing about the situation."

When Woodrow Wilson was governor of New Jersey, Lehman said, he also urged ending commercial ties with Russia until she ended her discrimination against American citizens of Jewish extraction.

In an address at Carnegie Hall on Dec. 6, 1911, Wilson said:

"We may now enjoy the exhilaration of matching our professions with handsome performance. We are not here to express our sympathy for our Jewish fellow citizens, but to make evident our sense of identity with them. This is not their cause; it is America's. It is the cause of all who love justice and do right."

The Senator said Saudi Arabian merchants are now banned by their government from dealing with American business firms "which are owned in part by Americans of Jewish faith."

Three Times in Month

PHILADELPHIA — The Beth Jacob Hebrew All-Day School has been vandalized three times during the past month, on weekends while the school was closed. The first two times the vandals entered through an unlocked second-floor window. On the first entry they sloshed the contents of a number of milk bottles stored in a refrigerator all over the second floor and emptied cigarette tobacco into the bottles remaining in the icebox.

Synagogue Council to Study Religious Sentiments of Jews

NEW YORK — The Synagogue Council of America has announced that it is initiating a research study to establish the factors "motivating and inhibiting the meaningful involvement of the Jewish population in the life of the synagogue." The projected study will be conducted by the Bureau of Applied Social Research of Columbia University.

The carrying out of the study will take 18 months and will cost from $60,000 to $100,000, it was estimated. The proposed research investigation will seek to determine "the religious, social, and psychological needs and satisfactions experienced by the synagogue member, and the kinds of educational programs necessary to relate the synagogue's message to its constituency in an optimal way." The study would also seek to determine the motivations accounting for non-affiliation with the synagogue and to suggest what can be done by the synagogue to encourage affiliation.

Submitted To Agencies

The Synagogue Council is now submitting the proposed study to the constituent agencies of the Council for formal ratification. These agencies are: The Rabbinical Council of America and the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America; the Rabbinical Assembly of America and the United Synagogue of America; the Central Conference of American Rabbis and the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

Get Death Threats From Algerian Army

PARIS—Algerian Jewish businessmen are being threatened with death if they do not contribute a stated sum to the "National Army of Algerian Liberation," it was reported here this week.

One Jewish businessman in Oran received a letter setting the amount which he must pay at 1,000,000 francs. He was warned that refusal, or transmission of information to the "enemy," carries the risk of death. The letter directed that the sum be paid over to one of the businessman's employees—named in the letter—and also hinted that his family would suffer if payment is not made.

Soviet Immigrants Arrive in Israel

TEL AVIV — Nineteen immigrants from the Soviet Union have arrived here by plane including Eric Behr, who was kidnapped in 1948 in West Berlin and sentenced by the Soviets to five years imprisonment, most of which he spent in Siberia. After completing his term he asked for permission to leave for Israel.

Another arrival this week was Noel Bering, veteran Rumanian Zionist who participated in the first Zionist Congress. He is an immigrant included Jews from Bessarabia and Lithuania.

Earlier, Yechezkel Peizer, Zionist leader who spent four years in Rumanian prisons, arrived here among some 45 other immigrants from Communist countries who came by plane and ship. Peizer, former head of the Transylvanian Zionist Organization, was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment in 1951 by a Rumanian military court. He was released last December after having spent four years in prison and arrived here accompanied by his wife.

U. S. S. R. Official Charges Stalin

NEW YORK—The charge that Stalin attempted to blow up the "Jewish doctors' plot" of January, 1953, to major proportions and convert it into huge anti-Semitic trial involving high Soviet officials was made by Nikita S. Khrushchev, head of the Soviet Communist Party in an address at the recent Communist Congress in Moscow, it was reported this week as the contents of Khrushchev's sensational anti-Stalin address became known through diplomatic channels.

Khrushchev also charged Stalin with deliberately ordering the murder of two prominent Jewish generals of the Red Army, Gen. A. Yakir and Gen. Jan Gamarnik. The latter was brother-in-law of the late Chaim Nachman Bialik, Jewish national poet. In stating that Stalin was personally responsible for the mass executions of Soviet army and navy officers and industrial managers, the Soviet party chief declared that Stalin had attempted to blow up the "Jewish doctors' anti-Semitic plot to major proportions in order to move against Nicolai Bulganin, the present Premier, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and other highly placed Soviet officials.

After Stalin's death and Lavrenti Beria's execution by the present leaders of the USSR, it was announced that the "doctors' plot" had been concocted by officials in Beria's Ministry of State Security. The doctors, most of whom were Jews, were released at the same time that the government publicly announced their vindication.

Sen. H. Lehman On Civil Rights

Following are the Senate remarks of Sen. Herbert H. Lehman commenting on President Eisenhower's attitude toward the civil rights crisis and the Southern "manifesto."

Mr. President, none of us is without an underlying sense of guilt in the present situation. Each of us, both in the North and in the South, bears in his secret heart a sense of responsibility for the fact that there has been denied and there continues to be denied to a major share of the population the basic human rights we pretend, in our Constitution, to assure to all, without distinction on the basis of race, creed, color or previous condition of servitude.

And so today we have a crisis, a crisis which some have suddenly recognized, although this crisis has been brewing for a long, long time.

We bring to this crisis various degrees of passion. This is inevitable. It cannot now be avoided. It is all the more important, then, to speak in words of reason, even while we are stirred, some of us, by feelings of passion.

I will not deny the fact, Mr. President, that I feel passionately. I feel this issue more keenly than any other issue, because, in my judgment, the massive injustice of discrimination and repression against those of our fellow Americans who happen to have a skin color of a different shade is not only absolutely unjustifiable, in any sense, but, to me, absolutely intolerable.

ONLY YESTERDAY PRESIDENT EISENHOWER spoke of moderation in this matter of civil rights. He warned against what he called extremists.

Oh, Mr. President, I am for moderation. We are all for moderation. But what does moderation in this instance mean? And whom does he identify as the extremists?

Does he picture himself as a mediator between two contending factions, the rights and merits of whose respective positions he is unable to assess?

In this situation, is he a neutralist?

Mr. President, I am frankly not a neutralist here. I am a partisan, a participating partisan. I identify myself with anybody and everybody who is suffering from discrimination. While they are suffering, and are being denied their basic rights, I am not without pain, and I do not feel my rights to be secure.

The extremists, in my judgment, are those who deny the rule of law and who defy the sanctity of law.

I ask only that the law be enforced in a lawful manner, and in such a graduated fashion as the courts themselves shall find feasible and practical.

I cannot stand above the battle, like President Eisenhower, and say with fine impartiality that both sides must show restraint.

Those who go about obeying the law, in an orderly and practical manner, are the moderates. Those who defy and resist the law are law violators, and are not to be judged in the same scale with those who suffer from the indignities of the violators of the law.

I do not want violence. No serious person advocates violence. It must be avoided. But the law must be enforced. And I call upon the President of the United States, and the Executive Branch of the Government, to assume the responsibility to see that the laws are faithfully executed. Is it not part of the oath that President Eisenhower took when he became President to execute faithfully the office of President, and defend the Constitution? I ask him only to fulfill the obligations of his oath of office.

So much for him.

WHAT ARE THE FACTS? THE FACT IS THAT

two years ago, short of two months, the Supreme Court, by unanimous vote, decided that segregation in the public schools was unconstitutional and specifically repugnant to the Fourteenth Amendment.

The Supreme Court subsequently laid down standards of procedure, in the form of a decree, for the application of its ruling, in specific reference to the monumental task of desegregating the schools in those parts of the country where segregation was being practiced.

But now there develops a concerted move to defy those decisions and decrees of the Supreme Court, and to persist in acts which the Court says are repugnant to the Constitution. Under these circumstances, I say, Mr. President, that the very bedrock of our nation, and of our particular form of government, is being attacked.

Shall each individual in our nation have the right to say that he disagrees with the Supreme Court's interpretation of the Constitution and therefore will not abide by the supreme law of the land, as laid down by the Supreme Court? Obviously, that would be anarchy, and our nation would collapse in chaos and disorder.

Well, then, shall a particular State Government, through its Legislature, or its Governor, or a particular school board in a particular locality have that right?

My colleagues, that is nothing less or nothing different than advocacy of nullification. And all of us know it for what it is, by whatever name it is called, in whatever dress of polite words it is paraded.

TO DENY AND DEFY THE INTERPRETATION OF the Constitution by the Supreme Court is to deny and defy the Federal Government. The Supreme Court is, as every schoolboy knows, the keystone of the arch of the judiciary, which is one of the three arches which make up the Federal Government. The Supreme Court is co-equal with the Congress and the Executive. In its sphere, it is supreme.

By the very terms of the Constitution, the Supreme Court is supreme over the states in matters of legal interpretation, and has on numerous occasions declared provisions of State Constitutions to be null and void because of conflict with the Federal Constitution. There can be no supportable challenge to the supremacy or competency of the Supreme Court in deciding what is and what is not constitutional, as strongly as some might disagree with the High Court's findings.

It would be absurd, if it were not so deadly serious and so highly dangerous.

* * *

THIS WEEK THERE WAS READ INTO THE CON-gressional Record, both in this body and in the House, a Manifesto signed by 19 Members of the Senate and 77 Members of the House of Representatives, on this subject.

That Manifesto pledged its signatories to undertake to overturn the Supreme Court decision in the school segregation cases. That Manifesto was certainly not inflammatory in tone, but its effect was surely to support the doctrine of nullification which has been enunciated, in one form or another, by the Legislatures of the States of Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, and Virginia.

Everybody says this is a grave matter. And it is. Who made it grave? Was it the Supreme Court, by finally rendering a finding of constitutional law which, in my judgment, was long overdue, or was it those who now urge and advocate defiance of the Constitution of the United States?

Oh, I know, Mr. President, that the Manifesto calls for the use of all "lawful" means to overturn the decision of the Supreme Court. But these words are in support of action in some states to defy the law and to prevent its enforcement. That is not lawful action.

Now, let us get away from legalisms and from words which obscure substance. What is the substance of the situation?

The substance is that a vast number of people in the Southern states were and are being denied the equal protection of the laws, and were being set apart, and treated as pariahs in our society in access to public facilities supported by general tax revenues.

Who can possibly justify the continuation, for one needless moment, of this intolerable discrimination, of this oppression?

Do I hear it said, as it has been said, that this is not discrimination or oppression? Who says that? It is not the Negro who says that. It is those who practice the discrimination and the oppression who deny its nature. I scarcely think that they are competent witnesses.

What do our fellow Americans of darker skin say? Today, they are crying out, from one end of the Nation to the other, including those in the South, that it is discrimination, and it is oppression, and they can bear it no longer. They are the ones who feel harrow of pain and indignity as it passes over them, and they are the ones to say what it feels like, and what its nature is.

And their cry for equal justice—and no more than that—for the enforcement of the law—and no more than that—is echoed throughout the land, by white and black, by the heart and conscience of America, which knows no distinctions of race, creed or color.

Yes, my colleagues, it is easy for some of you and for other public figures to speak of gradualism.

But let you be the one who feels the keen cutting edge of discrimination—let you be the one who has suffered through as many years as you can remember the indignity of being considered of an inferior breed, on the basis of the color of your skin, and you will understand the meaning of the word gradualism.

You, some of my greatly respected colleagues from the South, have lost, I fear, effective communication and contact with your fellow-citizens of darker skin if you imagine that they do not desire, as fiercely as their hearts are capable, the removal of the bar sinister of official segregation.

Some of them may be reconciled to discrimination and inferior status. None is content with it. And increasing numbers demand, in louder and louder tones, an end to it. Now that the Supreme Court has spoken, they will not be denied.

* * *

I AM CONVINCED, DEEPLY CONVINCED, THAT we can avoid the worst potentialities of the present crisis.

I am convinced, deeply convinced, that the deep devotion of all our people, including those in the South, to the ways of democracy will prevail in the end—and the dark dangers that we all fear and hesitate even to discuss will be averted.

It should be encouraging to all of us—it is to me—how much compliance there has already been with the Supreme Court decision.

Of the 17 States and the District of Columbia in which segregation was practiced in the public schools on the date of the Supreme Court decision in May, 1954, five States and the District of Columbia are already well along in the integration process. More than one-fourth of all.

Seven States are either divided internally as to what to do, or just engage in watchful waiting, permitting, in some cases, some few school districts to go ahead and integrate.

Five States—only five—are at this time actively resisting the Supreme Court decision—less than a fourth of the original total number.

So, in a sense, we can see how the battle is going. It is only a small minority of the States which seek actively to defy the Constitution. And of the population of the entire United States, it is a tiny minority indeed which would approve of the course of action now being followed by these five States.

I challenge them to submit their doctrine—to the judgment of the American people as a whole, and see how far they get.

But, Mr. President, this is not a matter for challenges or plebiscites. This is a matter of right and justice and law. I want to reason with my colleagues and to take counsel with them. I want to work with them in a resolution of practical problems and difficulties. But if there is a challenge to the Constitution, if there is a challenge to the concept of equal justice and equal rights under law to all Americans, I cannot do other but accept the challenge and take my place in the ranks of those who today are demanding the regular order of law and justice for all our citizens in all parts of our country.

Ballet Russe Star—Frederic Franklin, premier danseur and maitre de ballet of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, though young in years is looked upon as the dean of American ballet dancers because he is a natural leader and a serious student of this ancient and demanding art.

Born in England, he early showed outstanding ability in sports and entered several tennis tournaments. For coordination he studied dancing and soon found himself in a group of boy dancers called "The Lancashire Lads." When he joined the Markova-Dolin Ballet and the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo he quickly rose to premier rank where he added lustre to all of the great classic ballets for which the Ballet Russe is famous.

Frederick Franklin with Alicia Alonso, Igor Youskevitch, Nina Novak, Leon Danielian, Gertrude Tyven, Irina Borowska, Victor Moreno and Alan Howard will appear with the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium on Wednesday, April 4.

Softball League
Plans On 6 Teams

Plans to operate with a six team league were announced this week by Paul Litwin, president of the Providence Jewish Softball League. Following Sunday's meeting at Topps Gaylord Restaurant Litwin said that prompt registration of players is the league's most pressing business as of now.

Since the new system of drafting players will be set up as soon as all six managers have been named, the league's governing board deemed it imperative that all men who wish to play mail or call in their names at once.

Several applications have been received from men who desire to be team managers. Any other managerial candidates should make their intentions known this weekend.

Ben Gurion Warns Jordan; Syria

JERUSALEM — Israel Premier David Ben Gurion warned King Hussein of Jordan that any attempt by Jordan to attack Israel "would be met appropriately." He sounded this warning after the Jordan radio announced that the King had dismissed Britain's General Glubb Pasha — the famed of Jordan's Arab Legion because he had defied a royal demand to reorganize the Arab Legion "to meet the danger" of Israel.

At the same time, Israel warned Syria that if the Syrians do not cease firing on Israel fishing boats at Lake Tiberias and do not return a captured Israel boat together with four wounded Israelis, then Israel would have no other choice but to silence the fire itself and rescue the wounded.

Reverse Decline

In Fund-Raising

NEW YORK—For the first time since 1948 the declining trend in funds raised by central Jewish community campaigns was reversed last year, it was reported by the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds.

"Latest information from 127 spring and fall campaigns reveals a percentage increase of 0.8% over 1954," the CJFWF report said. Although both spring and fall communities showed increases as groups, strong impetus was given to the upward swing by the results reported in five of the largest fall campaign cities. Boston, Montreal, Rochester, Toledo and Youngstown all reported increases ranging from 1.6 to 15.4%.

The 127 cities raised a total of $65,693, 341 in 1955 against $65,145,191 in 1954, the report revealed. Well over half of the reporting communities said that they raised the same or more in 1955. Of these, 67 were increases while three remained the same. Of the increases, 26 cities noted gains of 5% or more. On the negative side, almost half of the cities which raised less this year than in 1954 reported losses of under 5%.

Hawks Defeat

Celtics in Playoff

The Hawks defeated the Celtics, 35-33, in the Jewish Community Center's Tween Basketball League playoffs last Sunday afternoon. Without high scoring assistance from Abrams and Klitzner, the Celtics lost out in this first game to decide third position in the league finals. Steve Cummings and Michael Berger were outstanding for the winning Hawks, while Richard Hochman and Barry Kelman were top men for the Celtics.

The Pistons put up a strong battle against the Knicks before going down to defeat, 51-49, in the afternoon's feature game. Eddie Brookner, Don Goldsmith and Abram Strashnick led the winning Knicks; while Alan Cokin and Stanley Krieger made a valiant effort for the Pistons.

Will the Klan Ride Again?

There can be little doubt where the organized American Jewish community stands on the burning problem of Negro desegregation that is consuming so much fervour at the present moment. Representative Jewish organizations, the defense agencies, the main rabbinical and congregational groups have all gone on record time and again in favour of full civil rights for Negroes.

This, however, leaves two key questions unanswered: What is the feeling toward dropping the colour line of those Jews who live south of Mason-Dixon (400,000 live there — about 8 percent of American Jewry) — and to what extent is anti-Semitism coupled with anti-Negroism in the pro-segregation forces that are rallying in Dixie?

The answer to both questions is not yet totally clear though certain trends are emerging. While Jewish national agencies habitually make declarations of policy on the Negro question, many have little or no Jewish constituency in the South and so face no problem in their own ranks. B'nai B'rith is the one Jewish organization with a large following in the South. Its unequivocal position on the colour line has not yet caused any inner rift, though the National Jewish Post has published an unconfirmed report that there has been a few individual resignations over this issue.

At present two types of organizations seem to be in process of formation in the White Citizens' Councils that are springing up. One is typified by the North Alabama Citizens' Council headed by a demagogue named Asa Carter. This association requires its members to be believers in the divinity of Jesus. Carter admits that this will bar Jews, though he insists that its purpose is to keep out atheists and Communists who may want to infiltrate. Despite mild protestations to the contrary this organization has definite overtones of anti-Semitism and Ku Klux Klanism.

The second group is made up of the "respectable" type of Southern White who disclaim animosity toward the Negro, but who consider immediate desegregation to be distasteful or impracticable. They admit Jews to their councils and their purpose is to maintain the status quo. The whole situation is still fluid and events will likely yet indicate the majority Jewish direction in the Cotton Belt.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Two More By Moïse Nadir

By BERYL SEGAL

Ben is a Jewish educator who knows and reads modern Yiddish literature. He is quite familiar with Moïse Nadir in the original, but likes to read my translations of Nadir in English. It was he who spoke to me of, "A Town named Roosevelt", and I dedicate it to him.

Rita is the office girl who wears Grace Kelly blue dresses becomingly. She is not Jewish and has never read Yiddish literature by any author. Moïse Nadir is a new world to her, and she likes him. He is cute, she says, and wishes I would translate from his writings at least once a month. To Rita I dedicate the little thing called, "Hail, September the Sixth".

A Little Town Named Roosevelt

(Study of a man who eats three meals a day)

While the fish was being served my wife brought me the news about a small town named Roosevelt where they fired on a group of strikers without any provocation. My blood began to boil within me and my anger was great. As I picked the tiny bones from my cut of carp and ate the savory piece of fish, I cried out:

"The abominable Capitalists! They deserve to be hanged. The filthy Cannibals! The cursed Hooligans!"

When the soup was being served and I found in my bowl my favorite bone marrow hidden among the noodles, my anger subsided somewhat, and blowing on the hot soup, I spoke to myself:

"Come to think of it, who knows whose fault it was? After all, it is impossible that they would, without good reason, fire and kill innocent people, fathers of little children, would they? Why didn't they fire at me?" I said to myself. "Doesn't that prove it?"

I was so pleased with the logic of my argument that I told myself that I am a wise man, a thoughtful man, a great thinker, and such other flattering names.

Then the meat was served and I saw on my plate the wings of the hen, and the sweet little liver, and a fine drum stick, just the way I like it, and things took on a different aspect. I saw the whole affair in a different light.

Now, chewing on a soft wing, and sipping the red wine, I began to realize that the shooting was not as horrible as it appeared to me during the fish course. One must always look at both sides of a problem, I said to myself.

"Who knows?", I argued with myself nibbling away at the drumstick, "Who knows? Maybe the strikers were a troublesome lot after all? And why would people go out on

As We Were Saying: Much More Than Politics In Desegregation Problem

By ROBERT E. SEGAL

Some curbstone philosophers will tell you that the current hot fight over the admission of the University of Alabama's first Negro student is an Election Year political issue purely and simply.

But these are the newly-awakened only. For the segregation-integration conflict needs to be considered on at least four planes: (1) political; (2) economic; (3) sociological and (4) moral.

Moreover, there is an inter-relationship of these four considerations. And just as the country must sooner or later awaken to the importance of weighing this basic issue on more than the political scales, so will white and colored, rich and poor, Jew and Christian, informed and unenlightened, northern and southerner, come eventually to understand that the bell tolls for all of them when it rings out over the segregation-integration problem.

As for the political considerations, it is fortunate for the nation that both President Eisenhower and Mr. Stevenson have refused to yield to the political passions of the hour. The President can afford to be the most detached on this matter.

Long-Range View

He holds that the long-range Supreme Court formula for school integration locates the issue in the courts still; and he opines that vigorous Federal action now is now in order. Mr. Stevenson has forthrightly said that "the question is not what we are trying to accomplish but how we should go about it;" and he wisely placed the cause of American unity above the temptation to use the issue for political purposes.

He is opposed in his own strike to begin with? Nobody asked them to do it? The law does not require it of them? According to the law a laborer may live on a dollar and sixty cents a day. The law does not object to that. Why, then, start trouble and strike for a measly forty cents a day increase in wages? It is utterly ridiculous!"

By the time the excellent apple compot and strudel were brought to the table, I reconsidered again the whole story about shooting on strikers in the little Town of Roosevelt, and as I was sipping the rare Turkish coffee from a dainty demitasse, I was quite indignant:

"What in blazes is the matter with the workmen nowadays? What are they making such a fuss over wages? Must they really have two dollars a day for a living? What if the boss cannot afford to pay? What if he doesn't want to give them that much? Or is too busy to bother about it? Is there any need to go out on strike because of a little thing like that? Ridiculous!"

When supper was over and I sat in my comfortable chair smoking my best Havana cigar, I fully realized the stupidity, the pettiness of the whole thing. Imagine risking your life, getting yourself killed over party, on this issue by Governor Harriman and others; just as President Eisenhower has the considerable embarrassment of watching Vice President Nixon try to make political capital out of Judge Warren's identification with the desegregation opinion.

But we hardly make a beginning when we try to unravel the political threads. For these strands, in turn, lead immediately to the economic base of southern intransigence on the Negro problem.

A South Carolina church leader, James M. Dabbs, has raised and answered the question succinctly: "What is the white South defending through its system of segregation? Is it primarily social equality? ... In my opinion, the south is defending primarily what it has defended since 1619, when the first slaves were unloaded in Virginia—its preferred economic position."

Suppose, then, the more sophisticated acknowledge the economic basis of the trouble. Where lies the road to solution?

It becomes increasingly obvious that a detached examination of the facts is the real beginning. Significantly, even at the Uni-are similarly involved. A Senator Fulbright, who has such an excellent record on civil liberties and yet scolds the Supreme Court for its inevitable decision, is yet another party to the moral impasse.

But there is yet hope here. We are, after all, partners in the greatest enterprise of freedom the world has ever known; and dedicated and determined Americans can lick this problem, too, regardless of how formidable it appears in 1956.

forty measly pennies. Isn't that silly? Isn't that ridiculous? And I laughed, and laughed, and laughed.

Hail, September the Sixth (Or any other day)

I want to remind my readers of September the sixth. Don't you forget the day as you did in the past years!

September the sixth is a great day, a day of joy, of parades and music.

September sixth, as everyone knows, is one of the great three - hundred - and - sixty-five days allotted to us every year, and it must be an international holiday.

It is the one and only September sixth, and therefore is to be celebrated in grand style.

September the sixth never returns, once it is gone.

On September the sixth the sun rises on time and people get up, and men comb their beards, and women powder their noses, and infants feed at their mothers breast, and roosters crow, and birds fly, and fish swim, and butterflies flutter, and actors play, and dancers dance, and grave diggers dig.

September the sixth is a wonderful day.

versity of Alabama in these stirring days, sociology classes are trying methodically to face up to the truths about race, psychic scars, violation of the concept of human dignity, environmental considerations and all the other objective ways to study such a problem. Significantly also, the most rigid reject this exploration, whereas those with more emotional security are willing to make the examination.

Heart of the Matter

But in the last analysis, we have here a moral issue. Just as Gunnar Myrdal, in his monumental study of the American Negro, concluded that, at heart, this is a moral matter—transcending the political, economic and sociological considerations—so surely will all others who take the trouble to analyze their own prejudices and motivations.

The California newsmen who played up the fact that a Negro at Adlai Stevenson's agonizing meeting referred to Stevenson as a "phony" are a part of that moral problem. The business men who whip up interest in White Citizens Councils in the South

What is more — On that day thousands of total strangers will be born, and many people will have their appendixes taken out, and numberless people will meet with accidents, and just as many will get married, and millions of men and women will declare that they cannot go on living without each other.

A most remarkable day. A rare day. One of those days that never come back.

Prepare yourself to meet September the sixth, my friends. Join the parade in honor of the day. The parade will start here and there, right and left, near anyplace on the face of the earth, and it will pass along Eternity Avenue, never to be seen again.

Come along, and bring your old friends; your dreams, your hopes, your anxieties, your fears, your longings.

This will be the one and only September the sixth in the whole of man's history on earth. And if you should fail to meet the day it will be sad indeed, just as it is bound to be sad if you do meet the day.

And so, Hail, September the Sixth.

A Passover Tale

By Dr. Ben Marcus

There is great rejoicing in heaven. The angelic hosts, legions of Cherubim, myriads of Ophanim, hosts of radiant Seraphim and all the spheres celestial celebrate the glorious day. The "Bnai-Elim", those little hosts of heaven. The prayer of the down-trodden nation have at last reached the Omnipotent. The sighs, supplications and hopes of generations were answered: "And God heard the groaning and God remembered His covenant with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob." The slaves were set free, "and the children of Israel go forth with an uplifted arm."

It is a glorious day for the little Angels—the Bnai-Elim. Each one has donned a "helmet of triumph" and in banded array:

With trumps and pipe and viol strings
They dance to music sweet accords:

Pay tribute to the King of kings;
Hallelujah, to the Lord of lords!

Up until this day the celestial brightness of heaven was cloaked in mourning. A canopy composed of a heavy cloud surrounded the Throne of the Almighty. When the Bnai-Elim would bring up, with trembling hearts, the bitter cries and woes of the enslaved children of Israel—they could not reach the Throne. A heavy cloud stopped their progress. Sorrowfully, they would then cover their tearful faces with their wings—and retreat.

Satan's ugly, triumphant look escorted them. But something extraordinary happened that morning. A loud cry of anguish reached heaven. It was a cry of desperation—of slaves in Egyptian bondage breaking their chains. We Want Freedom! The cry rushed heavenward with great vehemence, piercing the seven heavens. It was the cry of a newly born nation in the clutches of death. Satan was thrust aside by its velocity. The Bnai-Elim rushed forward and carried it to "Where, by pure visions bathed in endless light" the Omipotent was sitting in judgment. Then shook and trembled the earth and the foundations of the world were moved. The hour of redemption had struck. The day of Requital was at hand.

"The cup of bitter tears was overflowed." It is the day of Judgment!

"And He bent the heaven—came down and He flew upon the wings-of the Wind." And the Lord of hosts thundered in heaven and the Most High uttered His word. Then were opened the channels of the Deep and the foundation of the "Tehom" were revealed. With the breath of His nostrils the waters were heaped together, congealed became the depth of the heart of the sea. He blew again and the sea covered the Oppressor and his chariots." Then calm reigned—the calm of death, the death of the merciless oppressors of Israel. The waters of the Red Sea have quenched their thirst—the thirst of tyrants for power, their insatiable thirst for dominion.

It is midnight. Not a single star in heaven. The pale beams of the moon, throw a dim reflection upon the numberless bodies of the Egyptians strewn along the banks of the Red Sea. Master and servant, horse and rider. Horrible is the scene. But no one sees it;

Jews Attacked in Mexican Brochure
 MEXICO CITY — A viciously anti-Semitic attack on Israel and world Jewry, in the form of a 12-page illustrated brochure, is being distributed in Mexico through the mails. The brochure, which carried neither the name of any publisher nor a return address, contained a charge that President Eisenhower is a "Jew who is true to his traditions."
 Material contained in the brochure, which was obviously expensively printed, also charged that Israel was provoking World War III and carried an illustration which showed the globe being controlled by an eye with a Star of David in its center. The brochure also depicts the United States Government as an agent of World Jewry.

Rising Stars And Logic

Justifiably or no, Johnny Podres has gone into the Navy, and the question that naturally arises is who will replace him on the mound corps of the World Champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

There are two sides to the answer to this question. In the first instance, it might seem that Podres' loss should affect the Brooks not at all. Johnny had a most mediocre record of nine wins and ten defeats in 1955, an especially mediocre record when you consider the club with which he was pitching.

It is not in his actual National League performance that Podres is valuable, but rather on his future promise, as exemplified by the sensational ball he pitched in the World Series. And here we come to the second side of this question of who will replace Johnny Podres.

Equally as promising as last year's World Series star is the Dodgers' young Brooklyn-born southpaw, Sanford (Sandy) Koufax. Sandy was with the Brooks last year, but saw limited service. He was, after all, only 19 years old. But he looked good when he did work, and he now is being groomed for a starting role in the forthcoming National League race.

There are two reasons why the Dodgers like Koufax. First, the kid can pitch. And second, he seems like the Jewish star each of the New York teams is usually seeking. The Dodger brass figures that if the young left hander clicks, he will be a natural box office attraction, and that mere mention of his name will pack them in, whether in Ebbetts Field or Jersey City.

To the two reasons already mentioned for liking Koufax can be added the one that opened this discussion — Brooklyn's necessity for finding someone to replace Podres. There are many who believe that Sandy is a cinch to fulfill this role.

Wouldn't it be funny if Podres returns from the service to bolster the pitching staff just on time to pass a new star, Koufax, going in? Could happen.

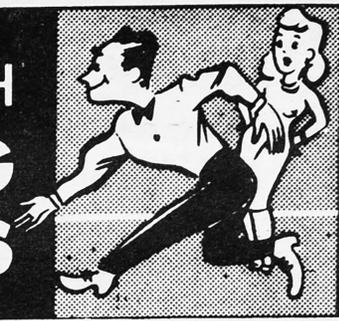

Logic

Logic is a wonderfully precise element. By the careful use of logic a man may prove any case he wishes to prove, or he may disprove what is not pleasing to him. The most wonderful thing about logic is that you can prove or disprove your case so well (if it is carefully set forth) that you can actually and honestly believe your own tale. And that, brother, is something — convincing yourself as well as others.

So it is that if you are a base- (Continued on Page 16)

RHODE ISLAND JEWISH BOWLING CONGRESS

Alley Gossip

By Joe Gutterball

Plans being discussed in committee for the June 4 annual awards night and banquet of the congress promise to top anything held before. We're told Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet holds 1,200 for dinner. Initial interest around the leagues indicates the size of the hall was well chosen. Sam Feldman of Fineman-Trinkel, banquet chairman, reminds everyone that a limit of 50 tickets will be sold at the door. So, you had better make your reservation early.

We know the storms of the past few weeks made things rather slippery. However, nothing topped Hotzie Strelow of Sackin-Shocket, who went 404 two weeks ago and 274 last week. Ice on the alleys?

While still discussing Sackin-Shocket, we're happy to report Sid Jacobson, the league's excellent correspondent, is back on the job and bowling after a brief sojourn at the Veterans' Hospital.

The storm of March 19 and the first Sedar last Monday kept AEPI from bowling, but not out of the news. Correspondent Jerry Freiberg says, to keep his league in the limelight, he would like to report that Howie LaPidus of the Bears is back from Hollywood, Florida, and probably chilled to the marrow by the quick change in climate.

We understand the Beth David bowlers are selling Pesach bowling equipment: Matzoh bowling balls and pins with labels for the holiday bowlers. See Joel Zarum.

March Sweepstakes Dates Are Extended

The monthly sweepstakes of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress for March is going to overlap into April, because of the double-barreled blizzards of March 17 and 19.

According to an announcement by Nat Alterman of Beth El, congress president, and Sam Segal of Beth Israel, tournament chairman, leagues will be allowed to hold their sweepstakes during the coming week.

In order to allow time for the results to be submitted for tabulation, the monthly congress delegates' meeting has been postponed until Sunday, April 8.

To refresh everyone's memory: For 25 cents, each congress bowler competes for one of three major prizes—$25 for high total, $15 for second high triple and $10 for high single.

Each competitor receives a full handicap against a 120 average.

Results of the current sweepstakes will be announced in the April 13 Jewish Herald.

Editorially Speaking . . .

Snow balls and matzoh balls have combined to keep a number of Rhode Island Jewish Bowling Congress leagues away from their bowling balls for two or three weeks.

Blizzards and Passover have cut into the schedules of the Monday and Tuesday leagues. All accounted for the holiday layoff in their schedules at the start of the season. However, the two blizzards that combined to give the state enough snow to last a long time forced cancellation of bowling nights in nearly all instances.

Some Tuesday leagues did manage to bowl March 20, and their reports may be found elsewhere on these pages.

Despite the layoff, congress bowlers will have every opportunity to make up for lost time in tournaments still to be held. The next one is Sunday, April 15, at the Legion Bowladrome on Park Ave. in Cranston.

For the first time, the congress is sponsoring a men's doubles tourney in three classes. It will give friends, in many cases, their first opportunity to bowl together as a team.

The pairs of bowlers will compete in classes based on the combination of their averages. Thus, a low and a high average man may bowl as a team. Equal prizes will be awarded in each class.

The time to enter is now. Fill in the entry blank found elsewhere on this page, and give it, together with your entry fee ($2 per bowler for three strings), to your league representative.

Post entries on the day of the tournament will be accepted until 2 P.M. Starting time is 11 A.M.

Doubles Tourney, April 15, At Legion Will Have 11 A.M. Starting Time

The early starting time for the Individual Championship Tournament last week met with such all-around approval that the doubles tourney, planned for Sunday, April 15 at the Legion Bowladrome on Park Ave., Cranston, also will start at 11 A.M.

The first doubles matches, pairing members of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress, regardless of average, is catching the imagination of many bowlers—especially the low-average ones, who figure they can team up with a top kegler and march off with one of the prizes.

Three classes have been set for the tourney: 215 and over, 200-214 and 199 and under.

To clarify any question, which may be asked, it should be pointed out that equal prizes will be award in each group.

Each bowler will roll three strings.

The entry fee of $2 per bowler should accompany the entry when it is submitted to your league representative.

Delegates Meeting

The Rhode Island Jewish Bowling Congress' monthly delegates breakfast-meeting will be held on Sunday, April 8, at 9 o'clock sharp, at Topp's Gaylord on North Main Street.

BETH DAVID by Joel Zarum

As the end of the season nears, Howie Backner's 159 and 381 are holding up as the best in the league, while Howie threatens Ken Resnick's 107 average lead.

In the team standings, the Red Sox edged into first place by dropping the leading White Sox, 3-1. Bill Snell led the way with 349 and a 119 single, Jerry Kaplan had a 113 and Al Snell 121. For the White Sox, Len Kaplan had a 121 string.

The Orioles and Yankees split four points, while Harv Silverman rolled 309 for the former, and the Yankees were led by Harv Pollock's 309 and 302 for Jim Williams.

Joel Orchoff hit 337 with a 131 for the Athletics in a four-point victory over the Tigers. The Senators swept the Indians, led by Len Engle with 334 and a 130, Gil Morse 310 (and he had a triple strike the previous week), Lloy Turoff 111 and 322 and 116 by Backner. Stan Miller had 328 and 114 for the Indians, while Joel Pressman had a 117.

Last week, the White Sox moved back into first, as the weary-armed Beth David keglers rode through icy paths, sometimes called Providence streets, to square off.

The poor driving conditions following the two blizzards forced the Athletics to forfeit four points to the White Sox, whose high man was George Peddle with 319 and 126.

The Red Sox dropped out of first after losing three points to the Tigers. The winners were paced by Ken Resnick's 330 and 114 and Bill Sollinger's 312 and 119. Al Zawatsky rolled 305 and 110 and Al Snell 304 and 107 for the Red Sox.

Singles of 107 by Howie Backner, Gil Morse's 106 and 105 by Len Engle led the Senators to three points against the Orioles, while Izzy Yamuder pinned 114 for the opposition. The Indians with only Stan Miller and Yours Truly present took four from the Yankees and remained three points out of first. Miller rolled 328 and 123, while this correspondent hit a 109. Jim Egan produced the Yankees' best, a 109.

BETH EL by Jack Appelbaum

If some of the individual bowling was below standard, the excitement certainly was not.

Gene Brown's team of Elliot Slack, Gus Newman, Hook Silverstein and Mal Mickler was down 62 pins after the eighth box in one string, rolling against Jerry Goldstein's aggregation of Bunny Adler, Leo Kouffman, Mac Morgan and Myer Jarcho. Miraculously, with a series of double marks in the ninth and 10th boxes by every man on the Slack quintet, they pulled the string out and won it by 12 pins. A real Merriwell finish.

Still Goldstein's five rolled the high total for the night, 1625, and had a 566 single. The Slack team pinned 1537. The high team single of 577 was rolled by Dr. Sam Pritzker's boys, who had 1604 for the night.

Mal Mickler had the high triple and single—357 and 134, followed by Warren Foster's 354 and Bunny Adler's 351. Other high singles were Joe Schwartz 130, Mike Silverstein 129 and Joe Levine 127.

Last week, the boys got rolling again with 10 "125" club bowlers. Vin DeCesaris had one of his better nights with 141-129-127—397, high three for the night and tie for second high three of the season. Leo Martel had the night's top single of 143. Nat Alterman had the third high single of 138.

Frank Supnick rolled 365 and 137, while Murray Trinkle had strings of 131 and 127 in his 358. Other commendable singles were Dewey Shatkin 134, Alie Shatkin 131, Mike Silverstein 129, Jake Orchoff 128 and George Dann 125.

The American League race is tight with Sam Pritzker's team of Joe Levine, Trinkle, Bud Lewis and Bob Bernstein, and the Jerry Goldstein quintet of Bunny Adler, Mac Morgan, Leo Kouffman and Myer Jarcho tied for the top.

In last weeks' season, Hal Weber's team, including Lou Feldman, DeCesaris, Hal Goldstein and Bud Silverstein, pinned the high total of 1623, while Leo Haft's boys, Don Breslow, Martel, Joe Sholovitz and Paul Heymann, contributed the 557 high single.

WARWICK by Irving Zaidman

Jack Chaiken appeared on his way to a new high single, but a bad break on the second strike of a double-strike just about killed his chances. However, a single of 143 and a three of 355 really helped his average.

Merl Rodyn added a few pins to his average with 114-106-116 for 336. This, plus Sam Katz's absence did it.

A single pin for total pinfall was the difference between a 3-1 loss and a 2-2 split for team Gimel. Si Aron with 330 and this writer with 306 led Gimel to the split. Si also had a 125. His brother, Abe, rolled 311 with a 118 to save the one point for Daled.

CRANSTON by Ben Bloch

With only three more bowling nights to go, the race for the wire tightened last week. The Phils closed the gap to trail the league leaders, the Pirates, by only one point.

The Braves ambushed the Red Sox and scalped them, 4-0, with the season's best single of 574 and second high triple, 1608. Each of the Braves rolled over 300.

Clare Bazar came through with an exceptionally fine score, 370 with a 127 single. Nice going, neighbor. Ed Lang, with 351, had the night's high single of 128. Murray Potemkin rolled 348, and Jim Abeshaus had a 126 solo.

HAROLD BLOOM by Harry Fellman

Even though it was the day after the second blizzard, only nine bowlers missed last week's session of the Harold Bloom league.

Generally, bowling was like the weather—a little off. Still, Leo Rottenberg came up with a 145 in his 333 total. Gerald Cherniak rolled 329 and 116, while Ernie Einhorn had 328 and 129.

Doug Mushnick rolled 319, as did this correspondent. Harris Ginsberg, a 95 average man, rolled strings of 110, 106 and 106 for 322. Bil Boslovitz had a 105.

The Reserves dropped out first place after dropping four points. Only seven points now separate the first and last place teams.

SACKIN-SHOCKET by Sid Jacobson

First place Seabees were held to a 2-2 draw by Air Force. Al Greenberg rolled a new second high single of 150 along with his 351. Jerry Manekofsky had 107 and 106. This writer (just out of the hospital) found the pins for 314 and a 123, while the improving Herb Gold blasted 309 with a 109 and Jim Weiss came up with two 107 strings to help Air Force.

Navy rolled 1559 and moved within two games of Seabees with a 3-1 victory over last place Army (the team that won the first half championship). Irwin Covinsky with 368 and 148, Mark Sugarman's 337 and 122, and Larry Koffler's 328 with two 115's led the Gobs. The team had the night's high single of 559. Cookie Kaufman pinned 347 with a 124 and Sweeps Broomfield hit 321 and 113 for Army.

The Marines and Coast Guard rolled a tie. For the latter, Buz LaBush had 335 and 119 and Joe Epstein rolled 112, while the range with 342 and 124. Jerry Waksler and Sam Jarcho rolled 103 strings. Jarcho rolled 294, going under 300 for the second time this season.

Spare Ira Weinstein rolled 362 with strings of 126 and 124.

BETH ISRAEL by Sam Osterman

Syracuse squeezed by Brown and moved into a tie for first with Rhode Island. All three strings were close with Syracuse rolling 609, 575 and 621 for six men, while Brown pinned 605, 577 and 610.

Harry Freehof pulled two games out for Navy by rolling a triple strike and a spare, while hitting 127 and 325. He and Max Factor were tied for the night's high single, Max Simmons rolled 340 and 125 for Syracuse in its victory over Brown. Harold Fishman had 120 and 329.

Four league bowlers pinned 322: Charles Solomon, Sam Segal, Al Abrams and this correspondent. Under-90 average men who rolled good were Morris Barazky 108 and 305, Arthur Lipson 103, Norman Levine 109, Manny Tesser 99 and Arthur Richman 112.

Gergel hit 310 for Princeton, while Factor totaled 306.

Two other teams that have not been sensational, but deserve mention, are Yale with Milt Phillips, Donald Bernstein, Phil Abrams, George Hockman and Sayre Summers, and Columbia with Norman Dean, Gerry Feldman, Leo Frye, Nate Ginsberg and Max Levy.

R. I. JEWISH FRATERNAL by Perry Agronick

Despite Capt. Len Varga's 346 triple, the Red Sox lost three games to Lou Green's on-rushing Dodgers.

Aided by Arnold Millman's 125, Bert Refkin's 123 and Capt. Arden Klar's 328, the Yankees held onto their top position by taking three from the Indians. The Yankees rolled 1509 for the night and had a 530 string, while the Indians hit 1456 with a 513.

FINEMAN-TRINKEL by Bob Barrie

The Red Sox rolled 1572, high three for the night, and the second high single of 554 to take four points from the Cubs and move back into first place by a slim margin. Len Levin with 333 and a 129 paced the Red Sox.

The Yankees and Cards are behind the Red Sox, only two points back. Five points separate the first six teams.

The team to watch in the closing weeks of the season is the White Sox, which rolled the high single of 565 and second high three of 1554 to win three points. Jim Hochman paced the team with 338 and 133, aided by Frank Resnick's 334 with 128 and 116. Joe Fishbein (using one ball) rolled 330 with strings of 118, 112 and 100.

Al Feinstein had a 134, Irv Silverman had a 127, while some other good solos were Mel Wasserman 119, Mish Satloff 119, Irv Blazer 118, Max Millen 119, Sam Shaver 118, Howie Flamer 116, Morris Waitsman 116, Sam Tapper 115 and Sid Marcus 115. Moe Seigal, a 94 bowler, rolled 320.

A Passover Tale

no one heeds it; not even the merciful Bnai-Elim. From the Jewish tents hymns of praise and triumph issue forth. A nation is born and in its hour of triumph sends praises to the "Rock of Salvation." The angels join the chorus:

"And the spheres celestial round

With echoes of song and sound
Who is like unto Thee, oh Lord
among the mighty;

Who is like unto Thee, glorious in holiness,
Fearful in praise, doing wonders?"

Yehova has triumphed gloriously;
Horse and its rider he has cast in the sea.

From earth and heavens responses ring:

To the music's sweet accord:
"Praise ye, the Mighty King, Glorify the Lord of lords."

Suddenly a wailing chord surges through the spheres. The radiance around the Throne became nebulous. A canopy of darkness enveloped the Place. The Omnipotent's face darkened—He was sorrowful.

The triumphant songs of the heavenly hosts were silenced; they were congealed upon the lips of the countless angelic choirs. They looked in amazement at each other. What is the cause of this mournful strain in this great hour of triumph? "Almighty Creator,"—the heavenly hosts clamored: "Is this not the happiest hour for the sorely afflicted people, 'your firstborn' to whose woes and supplications we attended for four hundred and ten years? Now that their hour of triumph has come and they send up songs of praise to the Mighty one of Israel, should we not participate? Should we not share in their happiness as well as in their sorrows, oh Creator?"

And like a Mighty roar of a multitude of waters came the answer:

"Merciful heavenly beings! Direct your gaze to the banks of the Red Sea. The works of My hands, creatures formed in My image in their watery graves. Can I the Father of all Flesh, attend to hymns and triumphant songs? Nay, merciful Angels, not now, not now."

The heavenly beings cast down their eyes. They covered their faces with their wings. One by one they withdrew from the presence of the Omnipotent. Thick drops of dew now covered the bodies strewn over from the Red Sea. They were tears of the Merciful Angels.

Arrest Jews in Prague; Rumania

BRUSSELS—Reports of the arrest of a large number of Jewish engineers, technicians and officials in Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, and of some other Jews in Prague, were published here by the newspaper "Libre Belgique." It also published reports of new arrests of Jews in Rumania.

The dispatches said that spectacular trials of Jews were being prepared in a number of East European Communist countries in line with an anticipated Soviet anti-Semitic campaign. The newspaper said that such a campaign was discussed in Moscow at a secret meeting.

ball fan and read the right newspapers, you may be expected, at this point of spring training, to have come up with the following logical deductions.

1. The Red Sox are a cinch to win the American League pennant.
2. The Chicago White Sox are a cinch to win the American League pennant.
3. The Cleveland Indians are a cinch to win the American League pennant.
4. The Yankees are a cinch to win the American League pennant.

The reasoning behind these undeniably logical deductions goes something like this:

1. The Red Sox are the most improved team in the league.
2. The White Sox are the most improved team in the league.
3. The Indians are the most improved team in the league.
4. The Yankees are the most improved team in the league.

Here in New England, everyone is understandably enthused about the Red Sox, who look like a real ball club, with a fine front line, excellent pitching, and a strong reserve, or bench. Plus the commodity of confidence, with which Boston is simply oozing. You hear it on all sides — Porterfield, Vernon, Baumann, Buddin, Williams, Keough.

Is it any wonder that Red Sox fans are convinced that their team is the most improved in the league, and a "cinch" to win the flag?

Out where the fans are Chicago-minded, there is hollering and hoopla on behalf of the White Sox. And it would take a good fan to dare to disagree with Manager Marty Marion's precise logic as to why the White Sox are a cinch to win.

In Arizona, far from the prying gaze of most baseball observers, the Cleveland Indians are getting ready for a season which they believe, will witness the restoration of their 1954 glory. Although their own writers disagree, the ball club feels sure it is virtually in.

The Yankees naturally figure they are in again.

How do you best rationalize all this undebatable logic? Simple, if you look deep enough. The White Sox display their state of improvement, but ignore the fact that the other clubs have improved. In Red Sox fandom, there is no word, naturally, of the improvement of the White Sox and the Indians and the Yankees — just the improvement of the Red Sox.

So it goes with each of the contenders. Their individual team logic is undisputable. They have improved, significantly, all of them. The only fallacy is that this logic makes no allowance whatever for the possible and probable improvement of the other fellow. Each team speaks of itself in terms of its gains for 1956, while figuring the other clubs on the basis of their performances in 1955.

In other words, granted that all these teams have bolstered their forces over last year's outfits, and that what they say about themselves is true, they may still find themselves in the same relative position as last year — and except for the Yanks, that is no improvement at all.

YAA to Discuss

Desegregation Battle

An open discussion program on one of the day's most controversial subjects, "The Battle for Desegregation—Its Implications for Other Minorities," will be conducted by the Young Adult Association of the Jewish Community Center at the main Center building on Wednesday at 8:30 P.M., it was announced by Donald Presel, chairman of the YAA arts and education committee.

Featured as the evening's discussion leaders will be James N. Rhea, feature writer for the Providence Journal-Bulletin, and Joseph M. Finkle, regional head of B'nai B'rith's Anti-Defamation League.

Admission to the program will be open to all members of the Young Adult Association at no charge, and a nominal admission fee will be charged all others who wish to attend.

Miss Nancy Cohen will serve as moderator for the evening. Other members of the committee in charge of plans include Norman Jagolinzer, Miss Irene Mungiu, Melvin Levin, Miss Sonia Miller, Miss Arlene Rosen, Miss Helene Schertz, Miss Elene Spanier, Miss Lotta Lawrence and Ted Linder.
