Arab-Jewish Relations Destroyed in Port Said

PORT SAID, Egypt — Fifty years of mutual confidence between Moslem and Jew in Port Said was destroyed in a single night on the outbreak of new hostilities between Egypt and Israel.

Egyptian police have descended on the small Jewish colony here and rounded up about twenty-five men, women and boys. There were about thirty Jewish families in the community.

"No one knows where they are," said a middle-aged Jewish store employe, describing yesterday the events since the police raid. Because the raid was selective instead of a general round-up, it had the appearance of a taking of hostages to insure the passivity of those left at liberty.

The interview took place in the second-floor apartment occupied by the man and his family in a building filled with Arab families on all other floors.

Relations Had Been Good

"We've been here since 1910, when we came from Turkey, and have been Egyptian citizens since 1924," the man explained.

He repeatedly asked that neither his name nor any other identifying detail be published.

"Our relations with the Moslems have always been very good—they are our friends."

He turned to his wife, a small, nervous woman, and to his eldest daughter, a dark-eyed beauty, for

Postpone Meeting

The board meeting of the Jewish Family and Children's Service Inc., originally scheduled for Nov. 19, has been postponed until Monday evening, Nov. 26. The meeting will be held in the offices of the agency at 100 North Main Street at 8:15 P. M.

Call for Fresh Appraisal of U. S. Policies

NEW YORK — Sixteen major American Jewish organizations issued a joint statement last week appealing to the United States Government to take into consideration the fact that Egyptian President Nasser has demonstrated "implacable hostility" to the Western democracies while Israel has demonstrated basic identity with the free world.

The statement, adopted at the conclusion of a two-day emergency meeting on the developments in the Middle East, reads:

"We regret the bloodshed and loss of life in the Middle East and are in accord with our govern-

Klutznick Calls Reds Anti-Semitic

WASHINGTON — Philip M. Klutznick, president of B'nai B'rith, said this week that the present Soviet Government "appears no less anti-Semitic than the Stalin regime."

Mr. Klutznick, of Park Forest, Ill., spoke at the 113th annual meeting of B'nai B'rith, Jewish service organization. He said the Soviet Union had been deporting Polish and Lithuanian Jews to Siberia "to exploit the anti-Semitic passions that still exist in these countries."

He voiced fear that "the recent rebellions in Poland and Hungary are not without their brutal consequences for Jews."

He said "unconfirmed reports" indicated that Hungarian Jews, trapped in Budapest, were threatened with pogroms.

Mr. Klutznick praised Israel for "discipline, statesmanship and a fervent desire for genuine peace" in agreeing to withdraw troops from Egypt on arrival of a United Nations police force.

He said Israel's action had placed a "high responsibility on the United Nations to establish and enforce a just and permanent peace settlement in the Middle East."

ment's expressed desire for a just and lasting peace in that region. However, such a peace cannot be achieved without a bold and statesmanlike appraisal of the issues behind the conflict.

"The time for a fresh appraisal is now. The disclosures and developments before the Security Council have placed in focus the fundamental issue. The conflict in the Middle East is not simply between Egypt and Israel, but between democracy and an expansionist dictatorship, between the free world and Nasserism backed by Moscow.

"The Middle East has been plunged into turmoil by the Egyptian dictator's ambitions for aggrandizement and empire. Under his leadership, Egypt has voluntarily opened itself and the whole Middle East to Soviet penetration and communist subversion. He has incited nation against nation, peoples against peoples. He has instigated civil war throughout that turbulent region and undermined the stability of existing governments in Asia and Africa. The evil spirit which motivates him revealed itself in all its malice when he told the American people 'may you choke to death on your fury.'

"Over a long period, the Egyptian Government has systematically sought to terrorize the people of Israel. It has sent trained fedayeen into Israel to derail

Home for Aged to Hold 24th Annual Meeting

The Jewish Home for the Aged will hold its 24th annual meeting on Sunday at 2 P. M. at the Home, 99 Hillside Avenue. There will be brief reports by the treasurer, financial secretary, the Ladies Association, the executive director, and by Max Winograd, president. The principle speaker for the day will be Dr. Herman Kabat, who will speak on "Rehabilitation of the Aging."

There will be an election of of-icers for the coming year and the distribution of awards to a number of workers who have done outstanding work during the 1956 membership campaign.

The Invocation will be given by Rabbi Morris Schussheim of Temple Beth Israel and the Benediction by Rabbi Benjamin H. Tumim of Temple Beth Shalom.

The public is invited to attend.

With Total at $480,000 GJC Calls for Final Reports

The final report luncheon of the 1956 campaign of the General Jewish Committee will be held Tuesday at the Narragansett Hotel.

Benjamin Brier, general campaign chairman, and Henry J. Hassenfeld, GJC president, today announced that they have received urgent calls from Israel for immediate assistance.

"United Jewish Appeal leaders have asked us to come to Israel's immediate assistance so that she can carry on her life-giving work of emigration and rehabilitation of thousands of oppressed Jews from Moslem countries," Brier asserted.

He added that every effort is being made to have all cards covered and reported at this luncheon so that the contributions may be sent to Israel without delay.

Both Brier and Hassenfeld have issued an urgent appeal to all campaign workers to complete the solicitation of cards immediately and report the results.

Brier added that if, for some reason, workers find it impossible to cover some of their cards, these uncovered cards should be brought to the report luncheon or previously sent to GJC headquarters so that they may be reassigned for immediate solicitation.

"We hope to complete all aspects of the 1956 campaign at this report luncheon," Brier declared.

He pointed out, however, that the 1956 campaign will continue until every potential contributor makes a pledge.

The present total in the campaign now stands at $480,000 and it is hoped to pass the $500,000 mark next Tuesday, Brier announced. This represents a substantial increase over the total contributions for the same period of last year's fund-raising drive.

GJC officials said that the response since Israel's armies took to the field to protect their country from Egyptian aggression, has been most heartening. Many persons have called GJC headquarters in the past week to increase their pledges and in many cases they have doubled their initial contributions, the officials said.

Young Adults and Women's Division leaders also have been urged by GJC officials to use Nov. 20 as their deadline and have urged workers in all divisions to intensify their solicitations and report the results immediately.

1,409 Choose To Stay in Israel

WASHINGTON — A total of 1,409 American citizens living in Israel have turned down a State Department offer to evacuation, choosing to remain in Israel. This was made known by the State Department.

A total of 4,130 Americans in Israel were considered as potential evacuees. The number desiring evacuation was 2,721. The Sixth U. S. Fleet and the U. S. Embassy at Tel Aviv reported evacuation complete for the present. Evacuees have been sent to Athens and Venice.

Rev. Tomlin to Address B'nai B'rith Joint Affair

A joint meeting of Roger Williams Chapter and Roger Williams Lodge of B'nai B'rith will feature a talk by Rev. Earl Hollier Tomlin, D.D., an expert on Middle Eastern affairs. The meeting and coffee hour program will be held at the Sheraton-Biltmore Garden Room on Monday at 8 P. M.

Dr. Tomlin was recently denied entrance to Jordan while on a tour with educators, journalists and clergymen because an official at the Syrian border said he was listed as friendly to Israel. He is the executive secretary of the Rhode Island State Council of Churches. His travels in the Middle East have taken him to Turkey, Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon, Syria, Iraq and Iran.

Mrs. Harry Davis, Chapter president, and Burton A. Finberg, Lodge president, will preside at the meeting. Mrs. A. Louis Rosenstein and Lester Siegel are program chairmen. The publicity committee consists of Mrs. Mur-confirmation. Both nodded agreement.

"Now, if you offered to take me to Israel tonight, I would go like this—in my shirt-leave everything else behind," he continued.

He said that his niece had been among those seized. When he tried to protest he was cut off with the curt warning: "Be quiet—mind your own business."

Most of the Jews here, the Jewish resident said, now share his desire to go to Israel, where his own son has lived since 1949. His brother lives in Brooklyn. Right now the man's chances of getting the right combination of exit permits and entry visas to join either of them appeared to be so remote as to be non-existent.

trains, to mine roads, to ambush innocent travelers. The 'commandos' have come like thieves in the night and have murdered citizens on their farms and in their homes. These continuous acts of horror and violence have been accompanied by Egypt's announced intention to annihilate Israel.

"Events have demonstrated Nasser's implacable hostility to the Western democracies. Events have also demonstrated the basic identity of interest of Israel and the free world. It is in our own national interest to recognize this truth and to act upon it.

"We therefore call upon our government to shape its policies and chart its course in the light of these facts and this challenge. We pray that the traditional moral stature of our country may be sustained in this solemn hour. We pray for the restoration of peace in the Middle East and for the freedom and security of Israel and all other peoples in that part of the world."

The joint statement was signed by the following organizations: American Zionist Committee for Public Affairs, American Trade Union Council for Labor Israel, Jewish War Veterans of the U. S., Union of America Hebrew Congregations, Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, Hadassah, American Jewish Congress, Jewish Labor Committee, Mizrahi Organization of America, B'nai B'rith, American Zionist Council, Zionist Organization of America, United Synagogue of America, Labor Zionist Organization of America, and National Community Relations Advisory Council.

Peace In the Middle East

Assuming that the current crisis in the Middle East is peaceably resolved, there still remains the basic problem of how to conclude a real peace between Israel and its hostile Arab neighbors. The patrol of the Egypt-Israel border by a United Nations police force, the clearing of the Suez Canal, the withdrawal of British and French forces, and the removal of Russian-built jet bombers from Jordan and Syria (if such removal is at all possible), all will not obviate the dismal fact that there is no peace in the Middle East.

When the rubble has been cleared, and all nations involved have pulled back to within their own borders, the situation will be just what it was before the recent flare-up, save for the patrolling of the border by the UN. That is, Egypt and its neighbors still will be determined to aggravate Israel at every turn, to thwart her efforts towards peace, to wipe her off the map. Israel, in turn, will be prepared to fight for its honor and existence.

While it may be some time before the United Nations can set about negotiating for peace in the area, it is encouraging to note that plans designed to lessen and eliminate Arab hostility toward Israel already have been worked out. At least, they have reached the stage where qualified and respected newsmen are making mention of them. One of the plans—a most comprehensive study—is said to have been drawn up by a high official in the United States. It includes, among other items, development of the irrigation potential of the upper Nile, Jordan, and the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers. Rebuilding of these areas would go a long way toward solving the pressing Arab refugee problem, and thus dispose of much of the fuel that is now used by the Arab world to explode their hate against Israel.

Even before such a peace plan can be expected to be placed before the UN, another proposal may be made to liquidate the buffer kingdom of Jordan, created and supported by the British. It is being said that Jordan is an unreal and unstable part of the Arab world, and that there is no legitimate reason for its existence. The plan is to divide what is now Jordan between Israel and Iraq. Since the latter is friendly to Great Britain, there seems reason to believe that a strong case might be brought to bear in the UN.

At any rate, it is heartening, even in these days of uncertainty, to know that the problems of the Middle East, and the cures for these problems, are at last gaining the attention of the rest of the world.

Israel: What Happens Now?

By MAX LERNER

It must have been wormwood for Ben-Gurion to agree to the withdrawal from the Sinai Desert, which the Israeli forces had so brilliantly overrun. But there was little else he could do.

Eden and the British had buckled in, partly under American pressure, partly because the Russian threat of war was calculated to play on the fears of the British Labor opposition and further inflame the wide front of opinion already hostile to Eden. The 65-to-1 vote in the UN Assembly revealed the diplomatic isolation of Israel. There was danger of an attack from Syria and Jordan, aided by Russian planes and equipment. There was even graver danger that the U. S. might apply economic pressure on Israel, including even the stoppage of the transfer of funds raised here, on which so much in Israel depends.

Israel can now play a less vulnerable role in world opinion. It is also in a position to use its little army, fresh from the victories in Egypt, and turn it to crush any invasion from Jordan. And having mended their legal and moral fences, the Israelis can now also pound away at their strongest theme—the fact that Egypt has never been willing to talk peace.

For the UN this marks a victory of a sort. Something has been salvaged from a situation that might otherwise have proved disastrous for the prestige of the UN. If a UN police force is at length emerging, then something is being born that may in time change the whole character of international organization.

Yet how ironic it is that this should be emerging at the expense of Israel and the Jews, who have suffered enduring scars in the past through the failure of international action and the erosion of the world's moral sense. And how curious a fact it is that when finally the great powers have found someone to combine against the target they pick should be the tiny force of Israel.

We don't know what the recording angel will have to say about anyone. But surely the gods will shake with cosmic mirth when they write down on the scrolls of Eisenhower, Dulles, Eden and Bulganin that the shining moment of their unity came in their finest hour when they all joined to uphold international morality and force the Israelis from the arid waste of the Sinai Desert.

Alas for them, they seem to be hunting the wrong villain and protecting the wrong victim. Israel is no imperialistic aggressor and Nasser no innocent bystander.

The Israelis acted because they were tired of the centuries of Jewish history in which Jews always waited meekly for their fate, secure in the belief that it would be their murderers—and not they—who outraged public opinion. Before the emergence of Israel and its leaders, the Jews (much like the Yale football team in my day) always won a moral victory but got clobbered.

In a sense it is a refreshing change for the people of the Book to be accused of violating international codes and to be threatened with sanctions—yet to be pulsing with life, to be the

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Summer At Yavneh

By BERYL SEGAL

The last of the yellow leaves are dashed to the ground by wind and rain, and winter is knocking on our doors, but four high school girls still carry the summer song in their hearts. They are the four young ladies who spent the summer in Camp Yavneh, in Northwood, New Hampshire.

What is Yavneh and in what way does it differ from the other summer camps of which we have so many in New England?

Yavneh is a camp for boys and girls owned by the Hebrew Teachers College in Boston. When a camper prepares to pack up for the summer he is instructed by his camp director to bring a number of blankets, towels, sweaters, tooth brush and paste, rubbers and raincoats. That is standard equipment for summer camping.

But a camper going to Yavneh is also told to bring along a Hebrew Bible and such other Hebrew text books he or she was using during the year. The camper is also advised to brush up on spoken Hebrew, because at Yavneh all conversation is in Hebrew. And the campers may as well expect to devote at least two hours every day to the study of Hebrew.

Yavneh is a summer school-camp. The teachers are drawn from the faculty of the Teachers College and the counsellors are senior students at the college.

Summer camp is for most boys and girls a place where you throw off the yoke of studies and bask in fun. Not so for the 150 Yavneh campers. They enjoy all the fun of other camps plus a course of study which apparently they do not consider a burden to get rid of during summer vacation.

Brings a Sparkle

The four young ladies who came to Yavneh on a scholarship obtained for them through our Bureau of Jewish Education are by no means sorry they went there. The sparkle in their eyes as they talk about Yavneh speaks clearly of a wish the summer had never ended and that the new season better come quickly. From these four campers I gathered this sample schedule on an average day at Yavneh.

Up early in the morning to the call of "Boker Tov, Bachurot": "Good morning, girls."

Morning prayers.

Breakfast.

Two hours of Hebrew language and literature in open air class-areas under trees scattered quick and not the dead.

In a world where the rule is for the leaders of nations to be pygmies, it is good to have the gnarled old figure of David Ben-Gurion, combining the best features of a Churchill of the Negev along with the passion and tenacity of the Old Testament patriarchs. His courage and boldness, and the audacity of his people, deserved a better response from world opinion than has come to them from the U. S.

all over the camp.

Free hour and then lunch. Grace before and after every meal.

Rest period and a program of activities consisting of the usual camp sports and games, arts and crafts, drama and music. Only in one way do these things differ at Yavneh. All play and work is in Hebrew. Boys play football, girls play basketball, youngsters swim and row, and paint and weave and all the instructions and exchange of words between camper and counsellor, and camper and camper is in Hebrew.

In such an atmosphere even those who were not proficient in Hebrew when they came to Yavneh find themselves picking up the language at an unbelievable speed.

Says one of the four Providence girls:

"I have learned more Hebrew during that summer than I did in all the years at school."

We can well believe her. A camper learns as much Hebrew at Yavneh during 12 waking hours of one day as he would in 12 days at an afternoon Hebrew school, or in 12 weeks at Sunday school.

Evenings are spent in listening to music, singing, dancing, and dramatic performances.

The Camp Sabbath

Here is how Sabbath comes to Yavneh:

Friday calls for an early breakfast because on that day the camps gets a complete cleansing in preparation for the Sabbath. Lunch is served outdoors because the dining room too must undergo a transformation in honor of the Sabbath. At sundown the campers change into their holiday best and gather for the blessing of the candles and Sabbath Eve services.

The dining room is bright and the tables decked in white for the Sabbath. So is the food at supper something special for that occasion.

After supper the campers dance and sing in the tennis courts till bed time.

Sabbath is rest day. Perfect rest. No work. No scheduled activities. On Sabbath there is always a play and a variety program in the auditorium of the camp.

Havdalah, the separation of the Sabbath, is most impressive. The campers gather to the tennis court. All in a circle, as campers appear with lit torches, twisted candles traditionally used and Soviet leaders and from Asian-Arab bloc.

A shrewd historian will some day note that in so many crises of our time the Eisenhower-Dulles formula has been to use the language and rhetoric of peace ("armistice," "cease-fire," "withdrawal of forces," UN resolutions) to achieve often bleak consequences. The language of peace is fine if it encloses the will to justice. When it doesn't it can become hypocrisy.

for Havdalah. A camper-cantor chants the Havdalah, and the candles are put out, and the campers remain alone with moon and stars and skies, chanting songs in the woods of New Hampshire.

Yavneh is a camp and a school and also a way of life. For eight summer weeks the campers live Yavneh. Different from the ways of home the year around to be sure. But Yavneh lives by its convictions, Yavneh is a world apart.

I listened to the four girls tell us of the 9th day of Ab, Tisha Beab, at Yavneh. I dare say that many parents of the Yavneh campers passed up the day unnoticed, and certainly the thousands of children in other camps in New Hampshire near Yavneh made little of that day. But at Yavneh the campers knew that on that day, about two thousand years ago the City of Jerusalem fell to the Roman legions, the Holy Temple was put to the torch, and the people lost their homeland. And through all these years Jews mourn on that day, fast on that day, and refresh in their memories the Lamentations of the Prophet Jeremiah who was an eye witness to the horrors of that day. And so did the campers at Yavneh.

On that day no food or drink is being served. No play. No swimming. Girls refrain from putting on lipstick and boys forget their vanities. This is a serious day, a sad day. The morning and evening services are chanted in a sad key. The benches in the Schul are overturned and children sit on the ground. All talk in whispers. Laughter has been banished from Yavneh. The Lamentations are chanted by candlelight. Tears flow freely on young cheeks.

But the day ends on a happier note. After sunset the camp comes back to life with song and dance. A play is presented depicting a hope and the dawn of a happier day, and young hearts are joyful again, and laughter is heard again in the tents of Yavneh.

So go the days at Yavneh, full of unique experience, and of unforgettable impressions that move and mold young minds.

We can only hope that the Bureau of Jewish Education will be able to provide more scholarships for more Providence youths for summers at Yavneh.

How to Be A Champ

Way back in the days when this column was a kid in junior high school, one of radio's first comics was a fellow named Henry Burbig, who delivered weekly dissertations on various topics designed to be of immense aid to his fellow man.

They were instructional lectures, all of them, delivered with a Yiddish-inspired, broken-English accent, and they always began with: "How to do this," or "how to make that." In this respect, they were forerunners, by about ten years, of the late Robert Benchley's movie shorts ("How to Sleep", etc.).

The one of Burbig's monologues that I remember most clearly after all these years was one entitled: "How to Bake Ah Cake". The ingredients and mixtures that went into this famous recipe surely must have provided some sort of inspiration to Al Capp, when he concocted that famous soft drink, Kickapoo Joy Juice, for the shoeless boys of the "Li'l Abner" comic strip, Hairless Joe and Lonesome Polecat.

When the cake was baked, and the cook took it out of the stove to cool, she was advised finally by the radio artist to take it to an open window—and throw it out.

Sort of a long-winded introduction, that—but it describes the frame of mind with which I set out to do what I have long wondered if I had the nerve to do—namely, suggest a new concept in the thinking of the hierarchy at 24 Jersey Street, Boston, which might bring about a change (for the better) in the fortunes of the last remaining professional ball club in all New England—the Boston Red Sox.

In addition, I have saved a pile of grief for Red Sox officials by figuring out for them which players are expendable in trades who might also be attractive enough to other teams to bring top notch and much needed "class" ball players to Fenway Park. No charge for the extra service.

The probable disposition of these opinions, if they reached the Sox' Jersey Street offices, is what reminded me of Henry Burbig and the outcome of his cake. However, being a baseball fan in good standing is all the license I need to give advice, whether or not such advice is welcome. So—out the window or not—here we go, as old Doc Cohen prescribes some medicine for the Bosox.

Maybe this story should start with the analysis of the 16 big league clubs that appeared in the Sporting News the week that the pennant races ended six weeks ago. Correspondents of each club listed what was needed for next year, and what each team had to offer in trade from its present roster.

Among the pitifully few names listed as being available on the Red Sox roster for trading purposes was that of Norm Zauchin. I dare to presume that more than a few readers will join me in snickering at that slightly-less-than-sensational news.

Oh, by all means, if someone wants to give the Sox somebody of value in return for Zauchin, why then let's make the deal pronto, with as much haste as can be mustered without making the deal look suspicious!

But if the Sox cannot do better than that, they are going to be a second division team in 1957—war clouds permitting, of course—and it is to avoid this possibility, and probability, that this is being written. Not a derision of Boston, if you please, but what I consider some solid suggestions that could help the Sox considerably.

The mere fact that there was talk this year of the Sox moving away from Boston is enough to scare any ball fan who takes seriously his daily broadcasts and occasional TV games, as well as his trips to see two American League teams in action. It is scary to all baseball fans, whether you like the Red Sox and suffer with them, or hate them and gloat over their failures.

The only way to kill the talk of the franchise leaving New England is to support the team so well that it simply has to stay.

And conversely, the only way to make sure that the team will be properly supported is to have a good team, an interesting team, one that lives up to its promise and often surpasses that promise, a team that is a pennant contender in the full sense of the word, year in and year out.

Toward this end, the suggestions here contained are seriously tendered.

First of all, Tom Yawkey has simply got to put some kind of premium on success. In a word, he must DEMAND success, or else! As strong as that. It is very nice of Yawkey that he is so tolerant, so patient, so good to his employees. But Tom must awaken to the fact that being a great sportsman is not in itself a pennant inspiring certainty.

The first question I would raise is what happened to the fabulous farm system that was nurturing the "youth movement" a few years ago that was supposed to bring the Red Sox to the top of the baseball world. Who is responsible for this fiasco that witnesses several clubs deriving more help from their farms than the Sox, when the Bosox openly put so much of their future hopes into the farms, along with oodles of Yawkey's money?

Milwaukee, the Yankees, Brooklyn, Cleveland—here are four clubs that are rich in the kind of talent that can be counted on to come up next year and the few years after that. In comparison, Boston's larder is barren. Even Detroit is better off. In baseball today, it is still said that the Yanks have all the players. Why isn't this said of Boston's youth movement?

Something must be responsible—someone must be responsible. Whoever it is, he must be warned or fired, maybe both. Boston's admirable organization must no longer be an old folks home for tired and mediocre players and executives.

Why is it that there is no more talk of the fabulous string of fu-

Alley Gossip
By Joe Gutterball

Saul Berman sends word from Emanuel that the league is strong this season, with 24 men with averages ranging from 100 up to 111. He looks for new league records on an individual and team basis.

Marv Broomfield came up with an oddity when he rolled three strings of 93 in the AEPi league last week. And in the same loop, Harvey Cooper found Atlantic City wasn't quite what it's backed up to be. It didn't do him any good when he returned from the resort city and contributed a "big" 261.

As it must be to all bowlers, Charlie Stern of Harold Bloom league brought a brilliant attendance record to an end when he missed his first match in five years of league bowling. Now is the time to start another such string.

Lou Gladstone, Cranston's new publicity hound, wants everyone to know the names of the league's officers. They are Phil Chopak, president; Mike Miller, vice president; Ben Bloch, secretary, and Perry Shatkin, treasurer.

League correspondents are reminded to list the top five or six averages on the back of their weekly reports. They will be reported in the next Season's Best.

Morty Miller of the Harold Bloom League, the Congress secretary, says some leagues still have not sent him the names of their current officers. For those who haven't, Miller's address is 126 Sixth Street, Providence.

ADVERTISING COMMITTEE

An advertising committee of the Congress has been formed under the chairmanship of Morty Miller of Harold Bloom league.

One representative from each league will serve on the committee.

Future advertising plans will be discussed at a meeting of the committee to be called soon.

Big Turnout Expected At Sunday's Turkey Tournament At Hamlet Lanes

All indications are a large share of Congress bowlers will be at the Hamlet 30 Lanes in Pawtucket to win gobblers in the annual Turkey Tournament Sunday. Sid Dressler of AEPi, tournament chairman, and his able assistants, are preparing to handle a big turnout of keglers from the 15 member-leagues. Bowlers may register as early as 10:30 in the morning, and entries will be accepted until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The tournament, run on an individual basis, is conducted in four classes, as follows:

- Open—107 and over.
- A—101 to 106.
- B—94 to 100.
- C—93 and under.

This gives every Congress bowler the opportunity to compete for the turkeys against men in his own class.

A dozen turkeys will be awarded, three in each class. They will go to the top and second high three in each class and the high single in each category.

See you at Hamlet!

Congress President Urges Support of Year's Activities

Sam Feldman, of Fineman-Trinkel, president of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress, calls upon the 15 member-leagues to support all activities of the Congress during the season.

Here is his statement: "As president of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress, I ask all leagues to join in the tournaments and other activities we have planned.

"The success of the Congress depends on all of us, and it is up to each league to have full representation at all Congress meetings and to report back to the members what plans are being made.

"We had an excellent turnout at the Harold Warren Memorial Doubles Tournament last month, and we are looking forward to even greater participation in the Turkey Tournament later this month.

"The work of the Congress is too great for a small number of officers to do everything. That is why I urge each and every bowler to take part in the tournaments, be willing to work when you are called up to help and do all you can to make this season the greatest ever in the history of the Congress.

"I know you will not disappoint me."

Next Sweepstakes Week of Nov. 26

The second monthly sweepstakes tourney of the R. I. Jewish Bowling Congress will be held the week of Nov. 26, according to an announcement by Sid Dressler of AEPi, tournament chairman.

Plans call for conducting the sweepstakes during the third full week each month, but Thanksgiving will interfere with that during the current month.

Dressler says his very active tournament committee expects more than the 472, who participated in last month's sweepstakes, to take part.

Results will be reported in the Jewish Herald of Dec. 7.

No 400 Totals Yet By Congress Keglers

With nearly one-third of the 1956-57 season already behind us, no Congress bowler has shattered the 400 barrier in regular league competition. At least, none has been reported.

The best individual efforts have been 391 by Mish Satloff of Fineman-Trinkel and 388 by Bob Nachbar of Sackin-Shocket.

Al Alter of Emanuel and Jerry Freiberg of AEPi have posted the best singles of 159, with Jim Hochman of Fineman-Trinkel following with 158.

Teamwise, of course, we already have reported the sensational 1718 of Sackin-Shocket's Army five, which established a new Congress record. The same team paces the solo-race with 595.

The big guns of the various leagues are beginning to find their mark, and there are some new "strong-boys" being heard from, so it shouldn't be long before the 400 barrier is surpassed a number of times.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS

By Harvey Pollock

Howie Backner, who now holds top average spot with 113, pinned a 131 last week, and finished with 331. Your new correspondent rolled 333, including a single of 125, to hold his 111 average. Saul Snyder also pinned 333.

The Knights came up from fifth place to take two from the leading Pages. Vic Gerstenblatt bowled 323 and Hy Ladow 115. None of the Dokeys bowled over 100, thus lost three to the opposition led by W. Garfinkle's 116, A. Aden 103 and G. Goldman 109.

Joe Matzner's 105 and 113 coupled with Pollock's 109 and 125 helped their team take two from the Monitors, who had N. Miller's 323 and Ken Resnick's 303. Ken managed a strike, but only pinned three on it and three in the next box.

The Prelate strongmen, in second place, took three from Esquire. Prelate high scorers were Saul Weinstein 110, Eli Rodin 317

BETH EL

By Leo Martel

After an early reshuffling of the teams, the records are beginning to be posted up high.

Elliot Slack's team, including Phil Hecht, Ben Adler, Morris Feldman I and Frank Supnick, post the high single of 586 and 1568 total. Nat Perlow's five, with Ben Feinstein, Harry Gordon, Dr. Sam Pritzker and this writer, followed with 544 and 1552.

Individually, yours truly has the high average of 115, followed by Warren Foster's 114, 113 by Jack Bilow and Burt Himelfarb and 112 by Al Gordon.

After this reporter's 152 and 380 triple of the past week, Bilow rolled 365 and 133, and Phil Shaulson had 352 and 137. Feldman rolled a 143, Hank Cohen hit 137, Al Gordon 131 and Jake Orchoff 125.

Mike Silverstein has the season's high three of 382 and Bilow has rolled 379. In the solos, Foster has 156, Murray Trinkle 155, and Mike Silverstein and Joe Schwartz, 146.

HAROLD BLOOM

By Harry Fellman

Gerald Cherniak led the league with a single of 142 and strings of 110 and 95 for a triple of 347. Ted Nasberg pinned 128 and Harold Wiesel 124, while Sy Port rolled 318 and Ernie Einhorn 314.

The Air Force singled with 541 and finished the night with 1488. Coast Guard scored 512 and the Marines totalled 1511.

The best singles scored were William Nasberg 110, H. Ginsberg 117, J. Rosen 113, Norm Elman 120, Fred Fishman 110 and Fellman 114.

CRANSTON

By Louis Gladstone

In the first report of the season for the league, the bowlers already have recorded good results. Ed Lang has the best individual single of 152, M. Shanfield 138 and Sam Miller 137.

Miller also holds individual high three with 379, while Lang has 372 and Mike Miller has 365.

The Senators rolled team high three of 1587 in a previous week, and currently scored the team high single of 571. The Senators pinned 1562. The Dodgers rolled 553, and the All Stars have 549. The Cards pinned 1552 and the Giants 1547.

Current good scores were led by Lang's single of 144, Mike Miller 133 and 365 and Moe Bernstein 127. Bernstein and Sam Miller both hit 343.

It looks to this correspondent as if Lang and the Miller brothers are feuding for the lead in the individual races, although Ben Mellion (whose 110 average is fourth in the league) will battle the three others to the end.

The league-leading team after eight weeks is the Cards, consisting of Moe Bernstein, Ruby Plushner, Elliot Dittleman, L. Guy and Al Sydney. The team has 22 wins and ten losses. Closely bunched behind are the Red Sox 21-11, Yankees 18-14, Dodgers 17-15, Senators 16-16, White Sox 15-17, Phils and Giants 11-21.

To this correspondent, the league shapes up as a horse race, with any one of the teams running for the lead.

The White Sox pinned the best team single of 530 and totalled 1480. The Giants were close behind with 529, though they finished with a triple of 1520. The Cards scored 515 and the Cubs 1574.

Moe Cofman led in individual efforts with 346, including a string of 137. M. Shanfield had 341, with a single of 134. M. Filler rolled 126 and L. Sackin's total was 334.

TEMPLE EMANUEL

By Saul Berman

Excitement ran high at the last session, when Al Alter went into his last string strong and racked up a 159 to attain the new league high single. His total was 360.

Previous high single holder for some weeks was Norman Bernstein with 150. Dick Platkin has the best individual triple with 364.

Good scores of the week were Paul Litwin's 144 and 355 and Henry Markoff's 335.

Team records for the season are the leading single of 549 by the White Sox and the high three of 1552 by the Reds.

Team standings show the White Sox in first place with 15 wins, the Yankees second with 14 wins and the Dodgers in third spot. The Red Sox, Tigers and Braves each have eleven wins and the Cards and Athletics are bringing up the rear.

This correspondent is looking for records to be broken in coming weeks by men in the below 100 average.

Nevele Expands Ski Slopes

Ski slopes at the Nevele Country Club, Ellenville, N. Y., are being reconditioned and expanded to prepare for the winter season. Nevele maintenance crews plan to widen ski paths at several points, besides smoothing surfaces and removing the summer's growth of small brush.

ture big leaguers being signed by Red Sox scouts, and prepared by Johnny Murphy and his assistant farm directors and managers?

Why is it that there is no trading surplus among the Sox farm-sters, whereas the Yankees are loaded in this department, as usual?

One scandalous Boston writer says often (and many fans have taken up the cry) that Casey Stengel is the only manager in the big leagues who is not allowed to pick his own coaches. Suppose we admit for the moment that this may be true. In that case, Stengel had a wonderful staff of coaches selected for him.

But more important, if that is so, then surely Mike Higgins shouldn't be above having more competent coaches "forced" on him. For example, the Yankees have Jim Turner to coach the pitchers, and to take charge of them. A seasoned veteran of the baseball wars, Jim really helps a pitching staff.

What can Dave Ferriss contribute to the Red Sox in comparison? Boo is a youth himself, forced out by a bad arm early in his career, long before he could learn the ins and outs of his profession. As a pitching coach, he himself has a lot to learn. His contribution to Boston's hurlers must of necessity be limited.

Why, then, is he kept on?
If Stengel does indeed pick his own coaches, then we must assume that Higgins is far back of Casey in the matter of judgment. Either way, the Bosox look bad in comparison.

The answers to the questions raised so far might provide some interesting guides in the effort to get the Red Sox back on the pennant track.

Anyway, Boston's concept of thinking needs revitalization, and needs it badly. In future columns, we will get to the meat of this story—unless Joe Cronin suddenly, unexpectedly, gets wise, and beats us to it.
