Lehman Challenges USSR To Show Her Good Faith

NEW YORK — Declaring that "the peace of mankind and the preservation of freedom and civilization hangs on the forces at work and the events taking place in the Middle East," former Senator Herbert H. Lehman challenged the Soviet Union to show her good faith in regard to world peace, by "pooling its good offices and resources" with those of the U. S. "in a united and determined effort to bring peace and prosperity to the Middle East."

At the same time, he called upon the U. S. to make a public appeal to the USSR for such cooperation. Such action by the USSR, said the four time governor and later the U. S. senator from New York, would imply "a pledge of security to Israel as well as to the Arab states, and a clear definition of the fact that Israel is in the Middle East to stay," and "to form with the Arab states a region that will contribute to world stability rather than to endanger it."

Senator Lehman's views were expressed at a press conference outlining the peace goals of the American Committee for Israel's Tenth Anniversary Celebration, of which he is general chairman.

Expressing alarm over the new pan-Arabic development, Senator Lehman denied that the Baghdad Pact "is the fundamental answer to the developing situation. It is a tactic, but neither a strategy nor a solution," he stated. Instead he called for "an imaginative approach to the real problems" of the area and proposed the creation of a Middle East bank or agency to develop the resources of the entire region. Through such an agency, he stated, the world could tackle the Middle East's "real problems."

The federation of Syria and Egypt—and the projected adherence of Yemen to that "union"—was seen by Mr. Lehman as "a measure of Soviet power in the Middle East and of the Soviet skill at manipulating the forces there."

Referring to the fact that another group of Arab states—the kingdoms of Jordan, Iraq, and Saudi Arabia—is planning its own federation, Mr. Lehman warned that there is danger to world peace in the "one element" common among all the Arab states—"a hatred of Israel."

"The two blocs," he declared, "vie with each other in their hostility to Israel. Out of this snake pit danger for Israel and for world peace emerge like a cloud of smoke. And in this case, where there is smoke there certainly may be fire—fire involving not only the U. S., but all of mankind."

Asks That Israel Be Included In NATO

TEL AVIV — A call to include Israel in NATO and other European organizations was voiced by Jean Raymond-Laurent, deputy chairman of the French Senate and a member of the French delegation currently in Israel.

Sen. Raymond-Laurent said that the same reasons which existed for including Turkey in NATO hold for Israel's inclusion. He insisted that though Israel is not part of the geographical unit of Europe, it belongs to that continent from security, economic and cultural viewpoints.

Resume Work On Clearing Mines

TEL AVIV — Israeli police, under heavy military guard, resumed work on clearing mines from the 6,000 square yard demilitarized area along the Israel-Syrian border. It was in this area that Syrian troops recently unleashed a savage attack which killed two policemen and wounded six others, all engaged in clearing the land which belongs to the Jewish National Fund.

(At the United Nations, the Syrian delegation submitted a note to the Security Council protesting against the Israel action, calling it an incursion by 60 troops, four military vehicles and one jet aircraft. Later, four Israeli jets flew over Syrian territory, the note claimed. Syria also protested to the Mixed Armistice Commission.)

Before starting the operation, the Israeli authorities notified U.N. headquarters of their intentions, and official U.N. observers were sent to study the activity. Syrian gun positions were silent in the face of the U.N. escort.

Nazi Collaborator Loses Legal Battle

WASHINGTON — Andrija Artukovic, Yugoslavian Nazi collaborator whose extradition has been sought ever since he was discovered living in this country some years ago, has lost an important legal battle when the Supreme Court of the United States ordered that extradition hearings be held to determine whether he is to be turned to Yugoslavia for trial in the alleged murdering of thousands of Croats and Jews.

Artukovic in his legal battle has maintained that he could not be extradited since the extradition treaty under which the Yugoslavian government proceeded, had been voided when the country was taken over by the communist regime. He also maintained he was a political refugee and entitled to shelter there.

The hearing is to be held by a U. S. Commissioner in California, where Artukovic, who was Minister of Interior in the Nazi puppet regime of Croatia, now lives. Artukovic argued that his crimes if any, were political and that if crimes were committed he was only carrying out orders, not giving them.

Discover Home Made Bomb In North Carolina Temple

GASTONIA, N. C. — A homemade bomb was discovered at dawn Feb. 9 at Temple Beth-El here. The fuse had burned out an inch and a half from the 30 sticks of dynamite.

The bomb was sent for inspection to the police in Charlotte 20 miles from here. An unexploded homemade dynamite bomb also was discovered at Temple Beth-El in Charlotte three months ago.

Police Chiefs G. H. Peninger of Gastonia and Frank N. Littlejohn of Charlotte said they believed both attempts were made by the same person or persons. Peninger said none of the 73 members of Temple Emanuel had received threatening letters or telephone calls. He added he could discover no reason for the bomb attempt.

Littlejohn had called the Ku Klux Klan suspect in the Temple Beth-El attempt. However, he was unable to establish any connection with this bombing and another eight days later of the home of Dr. and Mrs. James H. Sanders of Gaffney, S. C.

Five admitted Klansmen were arrested in the Gaffney case and will be tried next month. Mrs. Sanders had contributed an article to a booklet advocating a gradual approach to racial problems.

No arrests have been made in either synagogue attempt.

A police cruiser spotted a plastic overnight bag at 4:45 a.m. at the side entrance of Temple Emanuel, a brick structure in a residential area only three blocks from the center of town. In the bag were 30 sticks of dynamite, a fuse which had burned down to an inch and a half before going out, and a second, unlighted 10-foot fuse.

Police said the bomb was put together "by someone who knew what he was doing."

Call For Equality Of Opportunity

NEW YORK — The Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds has called for equality of educational opportunity and for the observance of constitutional guarantees and Supreme Court decisions regarding equal rights and opportunities for all citizens.

The resolution dealing with civil rights had been approved in substance by the organization's General Assembly in New Orleans, Nov. 17, 1957.

In the resolution, the CJFWF declared that Constitutional rights and freedoms "are not divisible," and voiced its conviction that the benefits of democracy can only be realized if laws duly enacted and interpreted by Constitutional authority are upheld.

The resolution declared that "in accordance with its commitment to social justice and the sacred heritage of Judaism," the General Assembly recognized that "rights and freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States are not divisible, and must be secured equally to all Americans."

It added that "the blessings of our democratic order can be realized only if the laws, as enacted or interpreted by duly constituted authority, are upheld and the due processes of law are observed."

Calling for the "observance of constitutional guarantees and the carrying out of the decisions of the Supreme Court regarding equality of educational opportunity," the resolution asked all sections of the country to realize "the ideal of equal rights and opportunity for all without discrimination because of race, religion, or origin."

Other resolutions passed at the assembly urged intensification of fund raising efforts to meet mounting welfare needs at home and overseas, revision of the United States immigration laws to eliminate discriminatory clauses, advances in health and welfare services, emphasis on recruitment to overcome the severe shortage of social workers, community programs for planned recruitment and training of volunteer leaders, development of women's year-round communal services, and cooperation in community relations programs.

Rabbinical Council Seeks Laws Letting Jews Work On Sundays

ATLANTIC CITY — The Rabbinical Council of America, representing Orthodox rabbis in this country, concluded its three-day conference here with a resolution calling upon various state legislatures "to rectify a grave injustice to Sabbath observing Jews who at present are subject to stringent Blue Sunday laws and not permitted to engage in earning a living on Sunday even though they refrain from labor on Saturday."

Declaring that such a condition is unfair to and not in keeping with basic American concepts, the resolution called particular attention to this condition in New York with the largest Jewish population of any city in the world. The resolution appealed to Mayor Wagner of New York to introduce legislation in the New York City Council to ameliorate this discriminatory practice.

The conference urged the Soviet Government to grant complete religious freedom to its Jews and to permit them to carry on their cultural life without fear or restraint. The conference also urged the Soviet Government to allow free emigration to Israel of those Jews who desire to leave.

The conference appealed to the United States Government to discontinue supplying armaments to the Arab states of the Middle East. Only economic assistance will bring about peace, high standards of living and neighborly cooperation, it was emphasized in a resolution.

May Select New UN Truce Chief

UNITED NATIONS — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld is canvassing possibilities of filling the post of chief of staff of the United Nations Truce Supervision Organization at the request of Lt. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the UN Emergency Force, UN headquarters said last week.

The announcement followed a report that Sweden had suggested to Hammarskjöld that he appoint Col. Carlson von Horn, head of the Malmö defense area in Sweden, to the UNTSO post and other governments also had suggested candidates for the position.

The UN statement said that Burns had been on leave from his post as UNTSO chief of staff since his appointment in November, 1956, as UNEF commander, retaining his chief of staff duties only in relation to the demarcation lines between Israel and Egypt where UNEF contingents are stationed. The statement emphasized that in January Burns suggested to Hammarskjöld that it might be desirable to reach a definite arrangement about UNTSO and that he was, therefore, placing his post as UNTSO chief of staff at Hammarskjöld's disposal.

The UN statement also said that if a new chief of staff was named, Col. Byron V. Leary, who has been acting chief of staff in Burns' absence, would remain as deputy chief of staff until the end of his contract.

News copy for the Herald must be in these offices by Tuesday noon of the week publication is desired.

The program, which will begin at 8 o'clock, and will take place in the Temple meeting hall, will include a dance, a cocktail party, and a raffle.

Irving Rosen's Orchestra will provide dancing from 8 until 1. Cocktails will be served from 8 o'clock, and the cost of all drinks will be included in the ticket price for the entire affair. Prizes to be awarded during the raffle include an RCA 21 inch console color TV set; a 5-piece sterling silver tea service; and a choice of three cases of choice liquors or a matched set of golf clubs. Ticket holders need not be present for the drawings.

Proceeds of ticket sales for the combined affair will go to the youth program of the Temple.

Urges Funds For UN Aid Program

NEW YORK — A resolution urging Congress to appropriate funds to assure effective United States participation in the United Nations' expanded Technical Assistance Program for Underdeveloped Regions, was adopted here last week at the mid-winter conference of Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization. The U. S. co-sponsored the expanded UN aid program.

It was also announced at the session, the last of the annual four-day meeting, that the 1958 Henrietta Szold Award would be presented to Israel Premier David Ben Gurion at a ceremony in Jerusalem. The award, which gives recognition to humanitarian services, carries a $1,000 cash gift.

The organization has chartered the Israeli passenger liner, S. S. Jerusalem, for a special Hadassah pilgrimage to Israel next May. Mrs. Herman Shulman, national chairman of the pilgrimage, announced. More than 400 Hadassah leaders are expected to make the voyage.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.) told the 750 delegates at the parley that the Baghdad Pact should become the "beginnings of an organization for the planned economic development and expansion of all Middle East countries, including Israel." He suggested once again the formation of a Middle East Development Agency under United Nations sponsorship, with both United States and Soviet participation.

SEES BRIGHT FUTURE

DELFT, Holland — Jewish life in Holland has a bright future and the small Jewish community of 20,000, reduced from a community of approximately 150,000 before the war, is deservedly hopeful of a renaissance growth. This was reported by Dr. Judah J. Shapiro, national director of B'nai B'rith's Hillel Foundations.

Reports Operational Costs Of Miriam Hospital Have Risen

The operational costs of the Miriam Hospital have continued to rise during the past year, Dr. I. Herbert Scheffer, executive director, said in his annual report given at the hospital's 31st annual meeting which was held on Tuesday.

The costs of the hospital, he said, bear a direct reflection of the increasing costs both for personal services and the supplies and materials used by the hospital.

Dr. Scheffer reported that the costs per in-patient day increased from $23.23 in 1956 to $24.59 last year. $1.28 of the $1.36 increase was for salaries and eight cents for supplies.

Blue Cross payments amounting to $856,216 accounted for only 57.7 per cent of collections from patients. Social welfare cases, Dr. Scheffer said, actually cost the hospital $20,000 for 1858 patient days of service. The Social Welfare Department pays $1 a day; operating costs average $24.59 a day.

Edwin B. Krause, finance committee chairman, reported that the Miriam Hospital ended the year with a deficit of approximately $6,000 even though 1957 was the hospital's busiest year.

The president of the medical staff, Dr. A. A. Savastano, recommended the enlargement of the accident room as soon as possible. He reported that the emergency room showed an increase of 2,190 persons treated over 1956.

Alexander Rumpel reported that the institution had been able to enlarge and expand its department of physical medicine and rehabilitation and to establish a radioactive isotope service. He said that Isadore Paisner, head of the Greater Miriam Hospital Planning and Development Committee, is studying ways of meeting the ever increasing demands for service.

Mr. Rumpel was reelected president of the Miriam Hospital. Other officers who were reelected were Mr. Paisner, vice-president; Harry A. Schwartz, treasurer, and Daniel Jacobs, secretary.

'Back To Methuselah' To Play On Monday

They return in George Bernard Shaw's "Back To Methuselah" for a single evening performance.

Mr. Power will appear as four separate, diverse characters in this account of the human race. In the beginning he will play Adam, with Miss Emerson as Eve. In later scenes, he will play a 20th century biologist, an archbishop and a man several thousand years old. Faye Emerson is cast as a parlor maid, Mrs. Lutestring and Zoo. Arthur Treacher and Valerie Bettis also play multi-character roles. Others in the cast are Arnold Moss, Roger Evan Boxill and Mel Dowd.

The auditorium box office will be open from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. on Friday, Saturday and Monday.

Sun Life of Canada Pays $34 Million in Policyholder Dividends; U. S. Sales Up Company sells total $917 million new life insurance in '57; $7¾ billion life insurance now in force; $155 million paid to policyholders in 1957.

Higher policyholder dividend payments and a new sales record for the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada are among the highlights of the year announced by George W. Bourke, President, in his review of the Company's business for 1957. During 1958, Sun Life will pay out $34 million in dividends to policyholders, an increase of $2¼ million over the amount paid out in 1957. New life insurance sold in 1957 amounted to $917 million, largest amount ever sold by any Canadian company in one year and an increase of $63 million over the old record set just a year ago. A substantial proportion of the new business originated in the United States, where Sun Life has 36% of its insurance in force. Included in the new business total was $243 million of group life insurance. Sun Life's insurance in force now exceeds $7,749,000,000, more than twice the amount in force ten years ago. Life insurance and annuity business combined is now the equivalent of $10,150,000,000 of life insurance.

BENEFIT PAYMENTS

The Report also reveals that $155 million in benefits was paid out to policyholders and beneficiaries in 1957. Of the total $49 million was paid to beneficiaries of deceased policyholders, representing a substantial contribution to family welfare. Living policyholders and annuitants received $106 million. Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries since the first Sun Life policy was issued in 1871 have now reached $3,295,000,000.

Mr. Bourke referred to the current level of death rates in the United States and Canada. Almost 60% of Sun Life death claims incurred during 1957 were due to disorders of the heart and circulatory systems. The proportion of claims due to cancer —

19% of the total — represented the second major cause of death. There is an obvious need for extensive medical research and the Sun Life is continuing to make contributions for this important study, he said.

"I believe that the better informed people become as to the benefits of life insurance," Mr. Bourke said, "the more insurance they will buy and the more they will insist on programs carefully designed to cover their fundamental insurance needs. These needs are still so far from full satisfaction that we can look forward with every confidence to the continued growth and prosperity of our business."

A copy of Sun Life's complete 1957 Annual Report, including the President's review of the year, is being sent to each policyholder, or may be obtained from Francis T. Hughes, Branch Manager, 1019 Industrial Bank Building, Providence 3, R. I.

Desire To Learn More About Judaism

NEW YORK — Members of the royal family of Japan, including the brother of the Emperor, have expressed a desire to learn more about Liberal Judaism, it was revealed here recently by Dr. Maurice N. Eisendrath, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

The rabbi, who is departing on a five-month global trip, said he will visit with Liberal Jewish communities throughout the Far and Near East and South Africa. He took particular note of the interest in Liberal Judaism among the several hundred Jews of Japan.

"Even more exciting is the profound interest the Japanese themselves have shown for Judaism," he added. "Many of our rabbis have already met with groups who are searching for a new religion. Large numbers of Japanese have lost faith in Shintoism since the last war. This spiritual searching even includes members of the royal family."

Launch Campaign For Israel Bonds

MIAMI BEACH — The 1958 campaign for Israel Bonds was launched this week with the sale of $14,601,200 in Israel Bonds at the International Inaugural Conference for Israel Bonds.

More than 1,700 delegates from the United States, Canada and Latin America participated in the three-day Conference marking the official opening of the campaign to sell $75,000,000 in Israel Bonds this year.

The announcement of the initial sale for the new year was made by Lawrence G. Laskey of Boston, Chairman of the Conference, who characterized the $14,600,000 total as "the happiest way of saying happy birthday to the State of Israel."

Israel Bond investments have gone into every phase of Israel's economic development. Among the outstanding projects financed with the aid of Israel Bonds were the development of the ports of Haifa and Elath, the building of the oil pipeline which carries oil from Elath to the Mediterranean coast, the development of Israel's chemical industry, the construction of housing for immigrants and the exploitation of the natural resources of the Negev.

Husband Lost

PROVIDENCE—Jerry Solomon, returning from his office last night, walked into the living room and gazed about in bewilderment.

For a moment, he imagined he was in the wrong apartment. He quickly recovered, when he recognized his dog, Duke, rushing toward him, followed by his wife.

The mystery was quickly solved. Tired of the drab living room wallpaper, Mrs. Solomon had quietly called in a paper hanger that day and had the room redone with pattern #FG5844, selected from the fabulous new 1958-1959 wallpaper books on display at the ADLER HARDWARE & PAINT COMPANY at 198 Prairie Avenue in the new Willard Shopping Center.

Experts Analyze Arab Propaganda

PHILADELPHIA — Details of Arab propaganda in the United States were made public this week by Prof. James B. Sheldon, administrative chairman of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, addressing a conference of Middle East experts held at the University of Pennsylvania here under the auspices of the Zionist Organization of America.

The conference was also addressed by two members of the Israel delegation to the United Nations. Arthur C. A. Liveran, one of these members, reviewed Israel's foreign policy against the background of the latest developments in the East-West struggle. He said that as long as the cold war between East and West continues, existing animosity between the Arab states and Israel will be exploited by the bloc interested in using instability anywhere to gain domination.

Those intent on blocking such a spread of anti-Western influence in the Middle East must be ready therefore to take countermeasures before it is too late. Liveran stated, "Common sense dictates that the first step to that end is to recognize clearly who in that area are the friends and who are the actual or potential enemies of Western democracies. The next step is to realize that in order to strengthen the Western position, the West must aid its supporters and not comfort its enemies. It certainly can not afford to try to appease the latter by sacrificing the interests of the former," he added.

Arieh Eilan, the other member of the Israel delegation to the United Nations, reported on Israel's relations with countries of Asia and Africa. He stressed that "the conception of Afro-Asia does not exist as a political reality, as in fact the countries of Asia and Africa have a different historical background and a different set of problems to cope with today. It is only in the United Nations where sometimes, and only sometimes, Asian countries and some African states vote on a common basis."

Prof. Sheldon charged that propaganda agents of the Arab states, including certain domestic organizations that follow their line have adopted a weird species of doubletalk designed to make it falsely appear that the "Arab story" is being kept out of the American press because of some kind of presumably "sinister control" exercised by the Israelis.

"The facts are exactly the reverse," he declared. "Each one of the Arab governments has its own propaganda set-up in this country—and besides, the Arab League maintains an elaborate press relations office, representing the group as a whole. There is no shortage of money here—as everyone who has heard about the oil riches of these lands knows."

"In addition, an organization called the Arab Refugee Committee maintains offices in New York, as an agency of four of these governments. This outfit does not hesitate to direct personal and vindictive attacks against respected public figures, even including former President Harry S. Truman, who have dared to act in accord with true American interests in the Middle Eastern area," Prof. Sheldon said.

Other speakers at the conference included Dr. Nasrollah S. Fatemi, former member of the Iranian Parliament and the Iranian delegation to the United Nations, who reviewed the most recent developments in the Arab world, and Harold P. Manson, executive vice chairman of the ZOA Department of Public Information.

Appoint Dr. Carp To JWB Committee

Dr. Bernard Carp, executive director of the Jewish Community Center, has been named to the 1958 biennial convention committee of the National Jewish Welfare Board, according to an announcement by Charles Aaron, Chicago, JWB president.

Headed by Samuel H. Rubiner, of Detroit, this is the committee charged with over-all planning for JWB's convention, to be held at the Shoreham Hotel, Washington, D. C., April 17 to 20. More than 250 Jewish community leaders from all parts of the country are serving on the committee.

Thorn in Side of Peace

The federation that Egypt and Syria announced last week contributes nothing to Western hopes for peace in the Middle East, and offers a direct threat to Israel in the near future.

Through his September, 1955 arms deal with Russia, Egypt's President Nasser offered the Communists their first successful power penetration of the Near East. In a series of army and governmental upheavals late last year, Syria virtually assured her allegiance to the Kremlin.

These two countries are now presumably united, with Nasser as chief. Egypt's leader is an avowed enemy of the West. He has shown this ever since his internationalization of the Suez Canal in the summer of 1956, when he advised the U. S. particularly: "May you choke on your fury."

The slap to the West is perhaps the federation's greatest "achievement." Emerging in all its awful foreboding is the utter bankruptcy of U.S. foreign policy in the area. Nasser, in conjunction with Syria's less colorful Kuwatly, has told off Mr. Dulles and his State Department.

President Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles, through our delegation at the United Nations, in November, 1956 in no uncertain terms saved Nasser from death, brought him out of his refuge in a Cairo cellar, and reinstalled him as leader of a conquered Egyptian people.

The federation is a thorn in the side of those whose principal ambition is peace for the Middle East. Not too hopefully, we pray it will be no more than that.

The Modern Jewish Community Center

by DR. BERNARD CARP

Executive Director

Providence Jewish Community Center

"The biggest bargain in town is your Center membership!" This slogan can be used by every Jewish Community Center in the country. Where else can you get a dollar's worth of service for 13½ cents? To prove this point, let us examine the following questions briefly.

What Does It Cost To Run a Modern Jewish Community Center?

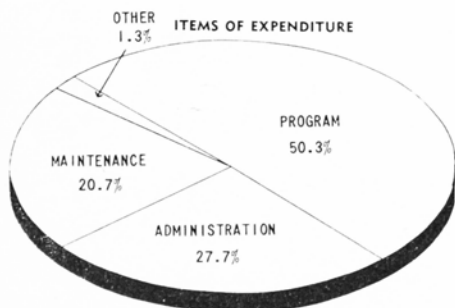

Where Does the Money Come From?

Our emphasis here will be on general trends rather than on our local situation since plans are now under way to present the entire Providence Jewish Community Center picture to the community very soon.

What Does It Cost to Run a Center Today?

No one figure can accurately describe all Jewish Community Center expenditures. Each one's budget is dependent on many factors:—size of community, location, history; facilities, buildings (new or old); its camp sites, playgrounds; its program; its staff, etc.

Jewish Community Center operating costs vary from under $15,000 to over $500,000 per year. The National Jewish Welfare Board reported total budgets for its 350 affiliates of 16½ million dollars in 1955. The expenses were distributed as shown below.

The Providence Jewish Community Center 1957 budget of approximately $89,000 for the East Side, $29,000 for the South Side, and $24,000 for Camp Centerland closely resembles this distribution.

How Much For Salaries?

The national average expenditure for salaries was 64.5% This includes professional, clerical and maintenance personnel spread through these categories. The amount is not large for an organization whose main commodity is personal service. Incidentally, here in Providence last year, only 57% of the Center budget went for staff.

Where Does the Rest Go?

The remainder of the Center budget goes for program materials, cleaning supplies, maintenance tools, heat, light, etc. The administrative expenses include phone, stationery, postage, publicity, office equipment and similar items. They, too, like the maintenance budget are among the "hidden" costs in every Center program.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Brotherhood and the Parable of the Eggs

By BERYL SEGAL

The very popular television show, This is Your Life, introduced Brotherhood Week with an appropriate life story. The man whose Book of Life was opened for all to read was a colored doctor of Newport, Tennessee.

An unusual man is this elderly Dr. Branch of the Smoky Mountains, and his life story would be interesting any week of the year. He had more than his share of hardships through a childhood spent in poverty, and a youth burdened by hard work to provide for himself and a widowed mother.

Nothing was said about his frustrations because of color, but we may be sure that he was not spared the indignities of his people in the deep South. We surmise that from his immersion in the Holy Book. It is a sure mark of the heavy heart and the bowed head.

A poor youth, and a colored one at that, does not find the doors of too many Medical Schools open for him. But go to a Medical College he did, working as a Pullman porter summers, and doing odd jobs after classes.

But all the obstacles notwithstanding, Dr. Branch turned out to be a physician in the best tradition—healing the sick of all races, and caring little for fees. He walked miles to see a sick woman in the mountains, and all he brought back with him was a bit of produce. His hours were not limited, seeing the sick at all hours and every day of the week.

His was a system of healing that combined the art of medicine and the warmth of Scripture. Pills and elixirs and verses from the Bible were all prescribed to allay pain and fear and anxiety.

His system must have been effective, because now in his declining years Dr. Branch is a rich man. Rich in friends and esteem among the white and the colored of his community. Rich in years spent in usefulness. Rich in a humor that comes from a deep knowledge of human beings and understanding of their weakness as well as their strength. Rich in memories.

No, Dr. Branch has no great estates, and he works in a modest office, and his car is a little younger than a Model-T Ford. But he is a rich man nonetheless.

And he has no bitterness. A fine man indeed, this Dr. Branch of Newport, Tennessee.

But why do his life on the eve of Brotherhood Week? Was it to prove to the millions who are said to watch this program unfailingly that a colored doctor can be so fine a man? Must we still look for convincing evidence that the color of the skin has nothing to do with the soul of man? The white and the colored alike have their share of scoundrels as well as saintly men, decent men.

This simple truth, this alphabet idea that can be grasped by the little ones in any Kindergarten in the land, why must it be rehearsed again and again? Why is there a need to proclaim it anew every year?

Or is it because we do not want to accept this simple truth? Is it because we want to believe in better people and not so good ones? In superior races and second rate ones?

It is a vanity, a sinister vanity, that plagues man on this earth, and which he must learn to overcome if he is not to perish from the face of the earth.

I once heard a mother explaining to her youngster this simple truth of all men being equal, for better or for worse, the color of the skin being of no consequence. The child, out of a clear sky, as children will do, brought up the color question at the breakfast table.

"Why is Jimmy dark? Why am I white? Is something wrong with Jimmy?"

The mother, a spark of inspiration lighting up her mind, opened the refrigerator and brought out a box of eggs. Some had white shells, some were cream colored and some quite brown. She cracked open one egg of each color and taught her son the first lesson in tolerance.

"See? They are all alike inside. The color of the shell doesn't matter."

The child understood and was convinced, I am sure. But what will happen to him when he grows up? What does happen to us when we grow older, and supposedly, wiser? Why do we lose the capacity to hold on to simple truths?

Marion Anderson once said that in order to keep a human being down someone must stoop to hold him low. The result is that both the one who is kept down and the one who holds him in that low position are alike in the dust and mire. Neither of them can stand up like man.

Man loses his image of God when he refuses to see that image in his neighbor.

That too is a simple truth, but, alas, so often overlooked.

(Mr. Segal's opinions are his own. His views are not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

Religion Is Bond Says Rabbi Sharfman

ATLANTIC CITY — Political Zionism no longer was the "binding link between American Jews and Israel as in the past," Rabbi Solomon J. Sharfman, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, declared at the Councils 10th annual midwinter conference here.

While political Zionism "still has a tremendous role to play in the economic welfare of Israel," said Rabbi Sharfman, "the teachings of our Bible and Talmud constitute the primary foundational link between American Jewry and Israel in the wide ramifications of their associations."

Dr. Oscar Z. Fasman, president of the Hebrew Theological College of Chicago, told the conference that there was increasing dissatisfaction among American Jews with "the superficialities of religious thinking."

SYD COHEN*No Kick Coming

The favorite slogan of this column—you might say its creed—is contained in a large sign on the office wall printed on transparent cardboard and in invisible gold letters. The slogan: "I may not always be right, but I'm NEVER wrong!"

What brought on this frank outburst of overwhelming modesty was a conversation with New York Giants captain and offensive end Kyle Rote at last week's Words Unlimited sports awards dinner.

In connection with my thesis of a few weeks back that they ought to put the "foot" back into football, I asked Kyle whether he thought a man who boots the ball through the goal posts on a kick-off should be given credit for a field goal or something equivalent.

Kyle didn't even have to think it over. His instant opinion was a decisive "No!" So positive was Rote that I was somewhat startled. Why not, I insisted? If a man is good enough to kick a football sixty yards and squarely through the uprights, why shouldn't he be credited with a score for his team? After all, only a few men can achieve such perfection.

After all, this game IS named FOOTball. After all, the rules call for a credit of three points for a place kick from a measly ten or fifteen yards out. So why not a point or three for the longer, more difficult boot?

Kyle Rote's analysis was surprising, to say the very least. It was refreshing, coming from a supposedly blasé professional who makes his living at playing football.

First, said Kyle, awarding points for a kickoff field goal would constitute overemphasis on personal achievement. Football is principally a team game, and honoring a player simply because he has the power to kick long would be like allowing a score to the side that has the most powerful lineman on any given scoring drive. Too much credit for mere individual ability, said the ace pass-catcher.

The issue of teamwork was brought out more clearly when I protested the awarding of three points for a measly ten yard place kick. Rote quickly replied that in a place kick situation, the kicker has to rely on one teammate to hold the ball, and his other mates to block out the opposition in order to permit him time to get the kick away and up. This, he insisted, calls for more skill than merely possessing the power to kick a stationary ball, with no advancing enemy forces to contend with.

On the issue of the new college rule changing the scoring allowance on points after touchdown, Kyle voiced his disapproval. Look, he said, up to now the important thing has been the scoring of the touchdown. Now they want to glorify the extra point attempt, which, after all, is only incidental to the touchdown.

Suppose, he added, they changed the rules so as to award more points for a touchdown scored on a long pass than for one gained along the ground. Get the point?

The column got it. It makes sense when you view it as Rote does. Yet, there is a nagging feeling that maybe the Giants' captain is underemphasizing personal achievement on the football field. Certainly, nobody is going to disagree that teamwork is the vital element in football or any other group sport. And it's a happy day when teamwork is so well honored. Yet, isn't there room at the same time to honor a team for the individual exploits of its players in such a matter as a sixty yard kickoff field goal?

On that point, Kyle Rote has me interested, but not entirely convinced. Bowing to his superior judgment of such a situation, I must nonetheless stand stoutly by the merits of my own suggestion.

In other words, "I may not always be right, but I'm NEVER wrong."

I was surprised to note that Kyle Rote doesn't look at all like a gridiron hero. He has a handsome baby-face that looks as if it might be in great demand for the leading role in the college senior play. He is of average height, under six feet, and does not seem in street clothes to possess the kind of powerful rangy frame you would expect to find on a player of his stature—and from Texas, yet! If you passed Kyle on the street, and didn't know who he was, you would never guess that here is a great football star.

Rote, you know, was a powerful backfield star when he came up to the Giants. Then a knee injury ruined his career—or seemed to. Unable to run and drive as was his wont, Kyle simply became an end—and such a good one that he beat out an established pass-catching star as offensive end with the Giants.

His leg holds up at end, he said, because there is less stress and strain at that position compared to the backfield. He says he has been helped no end by his previous experience in the backfield, which gives him a better perspective in the performance of his new duties.

Speaking of the backfield, and as if to prove how he appreciates his new assignment, Kyle Rote murmured, half to himself: "Sometimes I wonder why I spent so many years back there (in the backfield)."

Dr. David E. Cohen of Westerly, who was given a special award at the dinner, was introduced by the Journal's Webb Youlden as "The Father of Little League in Rhode Island." Dr. Cohen, who is state director for Rhode Island and Massachusetts, has helped organize more than 200 Little Leagues in that territory.

I asked about the status of the opposition to the Little League movement—once a most vociferous opposition. Dr. Cohen intimated that it has lessened to the point where it is practically silent. Little League is now more widely regarded and accepted than ever, he said.

How lucky can you get? I asked Bill Crowley, newest member of the Red Sox broadcasting team (he replaces Don Gillis) whether he will go South with the Sox next month. He grinned, and said no. It seems that Bill, who handles publicity for Holy Cross and also teaches there, was doubtful about his chances to accept the Red Sox offer when it first came up.

But the Sox offered to let him stay on at Holy Cross through the spring training season. The college authorities thereupon offered to let him leave before graduation so that he could take advantage of the broadcasting offer. And to top it off, the Sox will permit him to leave them early in September to return to the campus, and a weekly college football broadcast.

Repeat—How lucky can you get?

Hubert Humphrey Criticizes 'Failure' In Middle East

WASHINGTON — Chairman Hubert H. Humphrey (D. Minn.) of the Senate Foreign Relations sub-committee on the Near East last week criticized what he termed the U. S. Administration's failure to meet the Soviet challenge in the Middle East. At the same time, he lauded Israel's "midget Point Four program" by which Israel is extending technical assistance to Ghana, Burma, and other new nations.

Speaking before a conference sponsored by the Middle East Institute, Humphrey stated: "It would be helpful if a few people started to say what is indeed the fact—that many of the problems of the Middle East existed long before the State of Israel was established, and that they would continue to exist independent of the so-called 'Palestine question.'"

"The Administration has failed to meet the challenge" in the Middle East, Humphrey declared. He asserted that "the President has given no indication of freeing himself from, or even being very alert to, the disastrous, irrelevant, and unrealistic policies pursued during the past five years in the Middle East." He called for a co-ordinated new policy including discussion of a regional arms embargo with Russia, a guarantee against forceful change of borders, increased economic aid and establishment of a comprehensive Middle East development authority by the free world.

Humphrey questioned whether U. S. arms furnished the Arabs would ever be used against the Soviet Union. He indicated that the recipients of the arms might use them more likely against Israel. He said the Baghdad Pact actually proved to be only a "source of disunity."

Eric Johnston, who has served as special Presidential envoy to the Middle East, told the conference that the Arabs fear Israel more than communism. He said many Arabs feel Israel eventually will be liquidated. According to Johnston, the Soviet Union was exploiting such Arab attitudes.

Chairman James Terry Duce ruled discussion of the Arab refugee question "out of order" when a conferee sought to raise the issue from the floor. The conferee, taking the Arab side, demanded to know why the conference had not taken up the Arab refugee problem. Duce said it was a "thorny problem" and thought progress was being made in viewing it in human rather than political terms.

MEMBER FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

What Are A Center's Income Sources?

Activity income generally includes such items as class registrations, rentals, contributions, nursery tuition and camp fees. Jewish Welfare Funds and Community Chests (the General Jewish Committee and the United Fund in Providence) vary considerably throughout the country in their share of community subsidy.

Here, in Providence, we come fairly close to the national percentages in membership dues and activities as shown above.

Why So Little From Membership?

There are many reasons for this. Some of them stem out of the early years of the twentieth century which gave birth to many of our Centers and the economic conditions of the Jewish families they served then. However, as our economic conditions have improved and our leisure time needs increased, there has been a growing self-sufficiently developed in Center financing. This is as it should be.

Today, there are very few Centers of any size throughout the country which have family membership dues below $25.00; Providence is one of them. In New England, such Centers as New Haven, Springfield and Brookline set family membership fees at $40.00, while smaller communities like Revere, Quincy, Chelsea and Cambridge charge $25.00. In most cases, children up to 18 years do not enroll except through family membership. This is not only related to the Center's financial needs, but also to its greater stress on family programming.

Will Membership Fees Continue To Increase?

It seems very likely, but interestingly enough, most people do not object to membership increases if they are assured adequate service. With spiraling costs everywhere, it is not hard to convince a reasonable, fair-minded person of the need to bring Center fees and memberships into line. The JWB charts below show what happens to membership and membership fees when modern Center facilities and services are provided by a community.

CHART 5—AVERAGE NO. OF MEMBERS PER CENTER BY AGE, AMONG CENTERS IN NEW BUILDINGS AND NOT IN NEW BUILDINGS (in Jewish Communities 5,000 - 30,000)

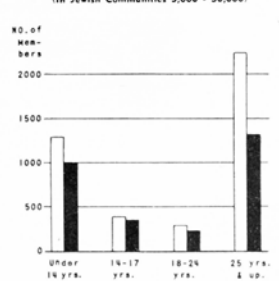

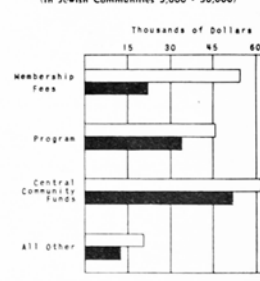

CHART 6—AVERAGE INCOME PER CENTER BY SOURCE, AMONG CENTERS IN NEW BUILDINGS AND NOT IN NEW BUILDINGS (in Jewish Communities 5,000 - 30,000)

Although these comparisons are between new and old buildings, it must be clearly understood that the new buildings generally represent a wider variety of program and more intensive staff services as well. The great membership increase shown in Chart 5 has forced many new Centers to limit their enrollments and set up waiting lists.

Why Shouldn't A Center Balance Its Own Budget?

It cannot and it shouldn't have to! Although the Jewish community has advanced economically toward more self-sufficiency and the Center is no longer considered a "charity agency", it is still an important educational institution very much like a private university. Most colleges can only cover 40-60% of their operating budgets from tuition even with today's high fees. The rest comes from government or private subsidies because education is realized as being important for the welfare of the entire community.

The same principle of community support applies to a Center. The Jewish and the general community both benefit from the efforts of the Center to develop healthy, well-adjusted personalities and actively-participating citizens. If the average family had to pay the actual per capita cost for this service, it would immediately be "priced out of the market." Last year in Providence that cost would have been $116.00 per family.

That is why Community Chests and Jewish Welfare Funds subsidize Centers. That is precisely why the Center is different from other agencies which must completely support themselves. That is also why membership in a Jewish Community Center is "the biggest bargain in town".

Government Submits Civil Rights Bill

JERUSALEM — The Israel Government submitted to the Knesset's legislative committee a draft of a human rights bill of 48 articles which, if adopted, would become part of Israel's basic constitution.

The draft opens with a guarantee that "all persons shall be equal in rights and duties" and another one that there "shall be no discrimination whatsoever because of race, color, sex, language, religion, nationality, political opinions, social status or other differences."

The bill provides equal protection of life, property and the right of person and includes important guarantees of religious freedom which reportedly have already drawn fierce objections from Israel's religious parties. These provisions guarantee to each person in Israel his right to belief, profession and advocacy of any religion he desires, and secures to him the right to change that religion in a fashion fixed by law.

Other important sections of this bill of rights grant full equality to men and women and to children born in or out of wedlock. Freedom of unrestricted movement within the country is also guaranteed as is the protection of the person, his honor and his good name. The right to work is also guaranteed.

Sun Life Assurance Smashes Own Mark

MONTREAL — The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada sold $917 million of life insurance last year, the largest amount ever sold in one year by any Canadian life company and $63 million more than previous record sales in 1956.

George W. Bourke, president, told the Sun Life annual meeting here Tuesday that the company's total life insurance in force increased to $7¼ billion, of which more than $2¼ billion is in group insurance. The combined life insurance and annuity business in force is equivalent to more than $10 billion of life insurance. More than one third of this amount is in force in the United States.

Mr. Bourke said $155 million was paid to policyholders and beneficiaries during 1957, $17 million more than in 1956. Total benefits paid by the Sun Life during its 87 years of business now stand at over $3¼ billion. Set aside for payment of policy dividends during the current year was $34 million, eight per cent above 1957 payments.

The company earned a gross interest rate of 4.46 per cent on its invested assets during the year, as against 4.32 per cent in 1956. 46 per cent of the invested assets are in the United States, mostly in U. S. government, municipal and corporate bonds and mortgages. Total assets amounted to $2.1 billion at the end of the year.

Egypt Releases Men Of Fishing Trawler

JERUSALEM — United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld has advised the Israel Government that he was informed by Egypt that the six-man crew of the detained Israel fishing trawler, Doron, was being released. The cable from the Egyptian Government to Mr. Hammarskjöld, as relayed to Israel, read: "We are releasing the Doron crew and will hand them over immediately." The Doron and its crew has been held by Egypt since last September. The fate of the ship is still pending.

Earlier, Israel Foreign Minister Mrs. Golda Meir expressed regret that the fishermen, including the ship's Italian captain, and the 70-ton trawler remained in Egyptian custody. She cited the refusal of Egypt to permit visits to the fishermen by International Red Cross representatives until six weeks after the seizure, and then only in the presence of Egyptian officials. She said both conditions violated the Geneva convention.

Plan To Provide Consulting Service

NEW YORK — A plan to provide new and established industries in Israel with top-notch American consulting services was announced last week by the American Technion Society which sponsors and supports the Technion-Israel Institute of Technology in Haifa.

The Society has formed a nationwide panel of leading American engineers, scientists, industrialists and technical experts in a wide variety of fields. These experts, the Society said, will donate 100 hours of their professional time annually to the advancement of Israel's industrial enterprises by providing consultative services.

"To date, nearly 1,000 American authorities have joined the panel," the announcement said. "Their skills range from expert knowledge in the erection of steel plants to knowledge of the processing of food products. Under the plan, the managers of the Israel industries receiving professional advice from the American panel will pay for these services, in Israel funds, to the Technion."

Revisionist Party Grows In Austria

VIENNA — A Conference of the Zionist Federation of Austria is scheduled to take place within the next week, with the participation of a delegate of the Jewish Agency in Jerusalem, Dr. A. Zwerbaum. The Conference was decided upon as part of a plan of the Jewish Agency to strengthen the Zionist Movement and its activities in Austria. The mandates to the Conference were determined on the basis of the relative strength of the various Zionist groups. Revisionists — 12; Mizrahi — 12; Mapai — 8; Mapam — 5; General Zionists — 8; Progressives — 5.

The Herut-Revisionist Party in Austria has particularly grown in strength in the last year. It has an excellent leadership with branches of the organization existing in most of the Jewish communities.
